A Strong and Realistic Story

The SHERRODS

Author of "GRAUSTARK," "CASTLE CRANEYCROW," etc. In an entirely different vein from his former works.

The scene is in Clay County, Indiana. The tale begins with the idyllic love of a young farmer and a girl teacher, w'ich culminates in a marriage that brings perfect bliss in spite of poverty and hard work. The development of an intricate plot, worked out in a masterly manner, keeps the interest of the reader at the highest tension, as one follows the awakening of ambition in the young man, his life in Chicago where he rises rapidly in his profession, his first downward step, the frightful entanglement into which his weakness leads him, up to the tragical end which brings into high relief the characters of two noble

Dervish in Arabia the First to Brew the Fragrant Beverage-Can Never Be Successfully Grown in the United

As to the history of coffee, the legend runs that it was first found growing wild in Arabia. Hadji Omar, a dervish, discovered it in 1285, 617 years ago. He was dying of hunger in the wilderness when, finding some small round berries, he tried to eat them, but they were bitter. He tried roasting them, and these he finally steeped in some water held in the hollow of his hand, and found the decoction as refreshing as if he had partaken of solid food. He hurried back to Mecha, from which he had been banished, and, inviting the wise men to partake of his discovery, they were so well pleased with it that they made him a saint. The sea voyage was a stormy one, the vessel was driven out of her ants and servants, for the visit to course, and drinking water became so scarce that it was distributed in ravisit paid by King Edward, as Prince tions. De Clieux, with an affection for his coffee plant, divided his portion of water with it, and succeeded in bringing it to Martinique, although weak, not in a hopeless condition. There he planted it in his garden, protected it with a fence of thorns, and watched it daily until the end of the year, when he gathered two pounds of coffee, which he distributed among the inhabitants of the island to be plant-Turner, a man now over seventy-one ed by them. It is owing to this particular requirement that coffee has never been successfully produced in the United States .- Success.

ORDEALS OF A DOCTOR.

Sad Things Encountered in the Practice of Medicine. It is often claimed by outsiders that having a profession dulls a woman's sympathies; but I cannot believe that this is true in the practice of medicine, where one side of the work is so immeasurably sad. I have seen a baby that came after fifteen years of waiting and hoping, and was rejoiced over daily and hourly for a wonderful year, suddenly struck down and gasp its little life out in a day with pneumonia. These are the times when it hurts to be a doctor, to find that all the knowledge that you possess, all the skill at your command, is as so to save her baby, is an ordeal to If money talks, can the bank teller which no human being can grow callous. Packers as well as fairly active. The few cars of cornfed steers offered sold readily at good, stead prices, as high at $5.45 being paid. For the week the good to choice cornfeds are right around steady, while the less desirable grades are fully 10@15c lower, with some warmed up grades as much as 15@25c lower. There were not many cows offered, and as a few of the packers did not get as many cows yesterday as they wanted, owing to their extremely bearish tactics, the market took on considerable activity and could safely be quoted strong, and in fact some sales showed an advance of 5@10c. The demand from the country for stockers and feeders was again active, 123 cars being shipped out, which breaks all previous records this year. Speculators took hold of the good cattle freely this morning and paid fully steady prices for them, while the common to medium grades were a little slow, but about steady. For the week the best heavy cattle are not over 10@15c lower, while others are fully 15/225c lower.

HOGS-There was just a fair run of hogs here and the market opened generally steady and fairly active. The bulk of the early arrivals was disposed of in good season, but some of the hogs that came in later did not meet with as good demand and had to sell a little weaker. The bulk of the heavy hogs sold around $5.60, with some of the extremely heavyweights, and especially those lacking in quality, below that price. Medium weights sold largely at $5.65 and lights up to $5.70.

MONOCACY SOLD TO JAPANESE.

Vessel Which Has Been in Chinese Waste to Be Destroyed.

WASHINGTON-The navy department received a cablegram from Rear Admiral Evans, commanding the Asiatic station, saying that he had : cepted the bid of Hashimoto, a Japanese merchant, for the purchase of the Monocacy. The purchase price was $11,225. The Monocacay is now at Taku, China. It went to China soon after the close of the civil war and was present at the battle of Taku under command of Commander F. M. Wise. Under instructions from Rear much chaff before the wind. To have Admiral Kempf, who was in command a woman cling to you, begging you of the American ships at Taku, the Monocacy, with other old vessels, did not participate in this fight.

The Monocacy has had a somewhat checkered career. It is a schoonerrigged, side-wheel steamer and was built in Boston in 1853. It outlived its usefulness many years ago. After arriving on the Chinese coast and for several years past it has been lying quietly in a mud dock in the Pei Ho. Admiral Evans was willing to sell without regard to the appraisement, which was only $8,000.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local dis-ease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly ease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. The Century Magazine.

The October Century has an atractive cover by Leyendecker of a mounted hunter and dogs, which gives a clue to the prevailing character of its contents, for it is a "sportsman's number, containing, with much other matter, a group of articles on field sports relating to France, Great Britain and America. The democratic tradition in France is represented by an article, "When the French President Goes Hunting," written and illustrated by Andre Castaigne. The aristocratic tradition is represented by Sterling Heilig's narrative, "With the Hounds of the Duchesse D'Uzes." J. M. Gleeson, the artist, writes of 'Two British Game Parks," Powerscourt in Ireland and Drummond Castle in Scotland, and supplies pictures of both. But the most practical and acceptable article to American sportsmen, will be a review of "Field Sports of Today," by Dwight W. Huntington, the well known writer on this subject.

"Phil" May's Reply.

The English papers are full of anecdotes of the late Phil May, that brilliant English pen draftsman. One of them describes him as at a supper party in London, where he made an exquisite drawing on a menu card for the lady in whose honor the pary was given. This was seen by a wealthy woman present, who sent the waiter with a £10 note to the artist, asking him to do a similar drawing for her. Mr. May, disgusted at the woman's impertinence, took a good look at her and then made an appallingly truthful caricature of her features on the back of the banknote, which he re-

The firm telegraphed to inquire how many revolutions a minute he wanted. He answered, "Five hundred revolutions a minute." The next day he was arrested. Brought into court, the judge asked him if he lived in the Lebanon. He replied that he did. "Do you correspond with such and such a firm in Paris?" "Yes." "Ah!" cried the judge; "I know you. You are the man who telegraphed to Paris that there are 500 revolutions a minute in the Lebanon!"

IT'S A MISTAKE.

To Attribute Coffee Ills to Poor Grades of Coffee.

Many people lay all the blame for the diseases caused by coffee upon the poorer grades of coffee but this is an error as the following proves: "I have used every kind of the best grade of tea and coffee that can be got from a first class grocer but never found one that would not upset my nervous system and it was not until I began to drink Postum Food Coffee in place of coffee and tea that I had relief from the terrific attacks of nervous sick headache from which I had suffered for 30 years.

"I had tried all kinds of medicines but none helped me.

"Soon after I stopped drinking coffee and began to drink Postum the headaches grew less and it was not long until I was entirely cured and I have never had a return of this distressing trouble for nowadays I never drink coffee but stick to Postum.

"As soon as my wife saw what Postum had done for me she gave up coffee, which she had drank all her life. This was six weeks ago and she is a changed woman, for her nervousness has all disappeared and her face has become smooth and her cheeks have a good rosy red color. She sleeps well, too, something she could never do while she drank coffee. We consider Postum a household necessity in my house and have induced many friends to try this wonderful food drink in place of coffee." Name given by Postum Co.,
