It Looks Different to Daniel.

Daniel Freeman is now visiting Captain I. H. Wasson on Driftwood. Mr. Freeman scouted in this and adjoining counties in 1862 looking up government property, such as horses and wagons that had been taken by the Indians from Fort Kearney. Captain Tyler had charge of the fort at that time. He being in sympathy with the south deserted his post and joined the rebel army. He was killed at Balls Bluff later. Through his carelessness Uncle Sam lost over a thousand head of horses and mules.

Mr. Freeman ranked as first lieutenant and had 110 men in his command and had to whip the Indians to get the property. He visited Tuesday on Spring Creek ranch, where they routed and put to flight a number of Indians that disrupted their progress at that time. Mr. Freeman sees a vast change in forty years: Where the wigwam stood then the cherry and apple tree stand now. He says he felt then that this country would be settled up and become a farming community. Officers outranking him said this country would never be anything but a home for Indians; its not worth fighting for; Freeman you are homesick; nothing will ever grow here. This was the way they all talked. Colonel Murphy had charge later of the post in 1864, when Mr. Freeman was sent with his company to drive the Indians out of Kansas and Southwestern Nebraska making it safe for settlers on the borders at that time.

Mr. Freeman has lived to see what he fought for come to pass. He was 78 years old last April and still remains in fairly good health and hopes to see Red-willow county harvest one of the finest crops she has ever had.—I. H. W.

She Tried Five Doctors.

Mrs. Frances L. Sales of Missouri Valley, Ia., writes: "I have been afflicted with kidney trouble five years; had severe pains in my back and a frequent desire to urinate. When riding I experienced much pain over the region of the kidneys. I tried five physicians without benefit and then concluded to try Foley's Kidney Cure. After taking three $1 bottles I was completely cured." Sold by A. McMillen.

European rates are way down. If you wish to visit the old country, or have friends there wishing to come to this country, now is the time. Consult the ticket agent.
