The one that blows without anything to blow about wastes time and energy. The excellence of our goods and delivery service warrant us for blowing. Always the best--always the greatest variety--always the highest quality.

Cheerfulness.

Cheerfulness is a duty one owes to oneself as well as to one's neighbors, for nothing so unites one for the ordinary duties of life or so quickly brings on premature old age as a morose temper, says the Brooklyn Eagle. There are plenty of artificial aids to cheerfulness within the reach of every one who has real or imaginary cause for ill humor or a congenital tendency to sourness. When things don't go right or your liver is guilty of neglect of duty strive systematically to achieve good humor by repeating over and over the best funny stories or bits of humorous poetry you know. If conscientiously administered this prescription is an infallible remedy for the most acute fit of blue devils. If you doubt it just try the experiment.

Survival of a Custom.

On gateposts you will frequently find a stone ball. Who would ever suppose that the balls on the gateposts were the heads of family enemies? It was once the custom to stick your enemy's gory head as a trophy on the gatepost. On the gates of towns were stuck the heads of traitorous persons. In old London, for instance, the bridge gate and Temple Bar were always decorated with ghastly relics of the kind, and the memory of the custom survives on the gateposts of modern suburban villas.

The Cost of Neglect.

"I need a vacation badly, but I can't take it now," said Dr. Price-Price. "Many of my patients are in such condition that I can't afford to leave them. They need constant nursing."
"Ah, yes," replied the man who knew. "I guess there are certain patients who, if you quit them, get well the first thing you know."--Catholic Standard and Times.
