A Serious Cutting Affair.

LeRoy Thrasher, a new night clerk at the Commercial hotel, and Cornelius Davis, the colored janitor of the post-office building and in the employ of J. E. Kelley, had some difficulty, last Saturday evening, which finally resulted in the colored man being severely injured by a sharp instrument of some kind in the hands of Thrasher.

The cutting occurred in front of Keegan & Okerson's barber-shop. It is said that Thrasher called the colored man out of the shop and that they engaged in a fight, in which the negro was cut in the neck, an artery being cut, besides other wounds are said to have been inflicted by Thrasher on the head and face of Davis by the instrument. Davis is confined to bed and still very weak from loss of blood.

Thrasher was arrested and taken before Squire Berry, Saturday night, when the case was continued until Monday afternoon at four o'clock, October 2nd. At this time Thrasher waived hearing and was bound over to the next term of district court, being placed under $1,000 bond for his appearance. Defendant made no effort to give bond and was placed in the county jail until the confinement becomes irksome.

THRASHER GIVES BOND.

Thrasher's father wired a $1,000 bond from Dothan, Alabama, Wednesday, and the young man was released. The father also wired he would be in the city soon, and see the son through his present difficulty.

The Last Bird Has Flown.

For a brief while, close of last week, Red Willow county's jail was without a prisoner, the last prisoner having taken advantage of the numerous opportunities thrust upon him and bid the jail a fond goodbye and fare-well and gone hence—at least elsewhere, just how and when is not real definitely known. It is at least known that he did not break out. Whether he got away while out in care of the jailer or whether he in some manner secured the keys or a friend for him may not ever be definitely known. But Clarence Gill, charged with attempted murder, is at liberty so far as the jail of Red Willow county is concerned, and there is small concern about the details. It is sufficient to say that he could easily have made his escape at other times had he thought it wise.

Perhaps this incident would not of itself attract much attention or comment, but jail deliveries in Red Willow county under the present sheriff have become the established rule. We are informed that out of eight prisoners placed in his keeping eight only have escaped. This is a record perhaps never equaled before in this state. It is a record of which Sheriff Crabtree can hardly be proud, and which is a disgrace to this county.

A Quiet Home Wedding.

Mr. George D. Burgess and Miss Georgia McCarty were quietly married on Tuesday evening, October 3rd, 1905, at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Burgess, in the presence of a few near relatives of the young couple, Rev. A. B. Carson officiating. They took the night train for Omaha and will be absent about a week or so on a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will make their home with their parents.

To the strains of the wedding march, played by John Gaarde, the groom marched to the altar with the bridesmaid Miss Francis McCarty and later came the bride leaning upon the arm of her brother and the groom's best man, Mr. Walter McCarty. The beautiful ring ceremony was read by Rev. A. B. Carson of the Baptist church. During the evening a wedding luncheon was served.

THE TRIBUNE wishes the young people a prosperous and happy married life, and in so doing expresses the wish of many friends in McCook.

Quiet Wedding—Elaborate Reception.

The wedding of Mr. Charles R. Woodworth of Boise, Idaho, and Miss Mabel Emily Wilcox of our city, at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Justin A. Wilcox, Wednesday evening, was characterized in chief by the simplicity and quietness of the marriage ceremony and the elaborateness of the ensuing reception.

The wedding ceremony was performed at 5:30. Mrs. G. H. Thomas at the piano played Mendelssohn's wedding march and the bridal party approached, little Dorothy Carman, flower-girl, prettily dressed in white organdie, bestrewn their way with roses. After the bride and groom came Miss Myrtle Meyer and Mr. John D. Mundis of Denver, bridesmaid and best man, ending with little Dorothy Dungan, ring bearer, sweetly dressed in a white Persian lawn, carrying the wedding-ring in a basket of roses and maiden hair fern. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. B. Carman of the Methodist church under a wedding-bell done in Marguerites, with a background of lace curtains, smilax and bunches of daisies. In addition to the regular ring ceremony the high contracting parties were participants in a brief significant ribbon-tying ceremony, each tying a knot in a broad piece of cream ribbon, which ended in a double bow-knot, beautifully suggestive of the indissoluble nature of the bonds. Only members of the family and those in charge of dining-room were present.

The bride's gown was of imported point d'esprit over ivory satin, trimmed with ivory satin ribbon and French lace. She carried a bouquet of delicate pink and cream tea roses.

The bridesmaid wore a blue silk crepe garment trimmed with cream lace and her bouquet was of cream tea roses.

The ensuing reception was a very elaborate affair, invitations being out in excess of three hundred. The young ladies of the "A.W.O.s" club were in charge of the early hour exclusively.

The front porch was illuminated and converted into a cloak-room with Miss Stella Fuller and Miss Stasia Brady in charge.

Miss Nellie Smith greeted the guests at the front door and ushered to the receiving line, composed of the parents, bride and groom and bridesmaid and groomsmen, in the parlor.

From the parlor the guests were graciously advanced by Miss Minnie Rowell through the sitting-room, which was modestly decorated with ferns and tea roses.

Miss Ida McCarl ushered to the pink and white dining-room, which was presided over by Mrs. E. M. Bigelow with Miss Aimee Menard assisting at the table and Miss Medora Santee serving refreshments. The decorations of this room were the most elaborate in the residence, the ceiling and sidewalls and draperies being of pink and white artificial chrysanthemums; the flowers were pink and white carnations.

Miss Addie Doan ushered to the white dining-room, where Mrs. William Lewis presided, assisted at the table by Miss Mollie Ryan and in serving by Miss Edna Yarger. The chief decorations here were the table occupying the center of the room; streamers of white ribbon dropped from the electrolier to the four corners of the table, which together with walls, china cabinet and lace curtains had a sprinkling of autumn leaves and woodbine berries. White carnations were the flowers.

Mrs. Anna Colfer was in charge of the presents room, where were displayed a rare lot of beautiful and elegant presents in silver, cut-glass, china, pictures etc. No decorations were attempted here for lack of space.

Miss Laura McMillen had charge of the wedding and guest book in another room, where a vase of red dahlias was displayed.

Miss Carrie Budlong, Miss Effie Abbott and Mrs. R. M. Douglass are to be entirely credited with all the artistic decorative effects.

For the closing hour of the reception the assistants were in each instance changed: Miss Francis McCarty and Miss Tacie DeLong served in the cloak room. Mrs. Albert McMillen received the guests. Mrs. Adele Phelan ushered to the pink and white dining-room, where Mrs. C. H. Meeker presided at the table and Mrs. W. Ernest DeWitt served. Mrs. J. G. Schobel directed guests to the white dining-room in which Mrs. A. C. Ebert had the seat at the table and Mrs. H. J. Pratt and Mrs. Ainsworth Monks served refreshments. Mrs. C. L. Fahnestock had charge of the guest book etc.

The young folks took their departure, last night on No. 3, for their future home in Boise, Idaho, to stop briefly in Salt Lake City, Utah, en route. They will go to housekeeping in a new home ready for them on their arrival, and will be at home to their friends after November 15.

The bride is one of McCook's own, a charming, accomplished and popular daughter whose life has been largely spent here and whose circle of friends is co-extensive with her acquaintanceship.

The groom until recently was employed in Albert McMillen's drug store. During his residence in McCook many learned to admire him for gentlemanly deportment and the sterling excellency of his upright character. He is now employed in Boise, Idaho, in a similar business.

To their new home go with the hearty and genuine best wishes of a host of McCook friends.

The Converse-Anton Nuptials.

The home of the bride's mother Mrs. Augusta Anton, 407 Marshall street, this city, was the setting for a charming nuptial event, Tuesday evening of this week, October 3rd, 1905, when at the appointed hour of 6:30 o'clock Mr. Ira E. Converse and Miss Ida Louise Anton were united in marriage, Rev. M. B. Carman of the Methodist church performing the simple ceremony in an impressive style, using the ring service.

The wedding ceremony was planned and carried out in colonial style and was witnessed by only relatives of the high contracting parties.

A large canopy-bell of roses, smilax and ferns was arranged in one corner of the parlor, and here the bridal party assumed their stations to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Lyda Converse, a sister of the groom, while little Mabel, sister of the bride, dressed in white silk, carried the wedding ring in the center of a large rose and a little friend Jennie O'Connell scattered sweet roses before the advancing couple.

The bride was gowned in a pretty cream colored chiffon silk trimmed in bow-knot point lace. The groom wore the conventional black.

The home was tastefully decorated with roses, smilax, ferns and carnations. The color scheme of the parlor was cardinal and green. Long festoons of smilax and roses extended from the four corners of the room to the center of the ceiling, while ferns, smilax and roses decorated the electric light chandelier and curtains. The arch-way leading into dining-room was a bower of green and roses. The dining-room was festooned with smilax, ferns and carnations, while wide bands of pale blue and pink ribbons drooped from the center of the ceiling to the four corners of the table, ending in large bow-knots that extended to the floor.

Following the ceremony was served a four course wedding supper.

The bride is a charming young woman who has grown from a child into young womanhood in our city. She is much admired and loved by a large circle, and all join in wishing her a wedded life of much happiness.

The groom, formerly of Hendley, has been a resident of this city for the past four years, an employe in the Burlington train service. He is a young man of sterling qualities of character and popular and much respected by all.

Many handsome and useful gifts were received by the young couple.

They departed on No. 3, Wednesday night, for the west, and will visit in Denver, Salt Lake City and other western points before their return to McCook, where they will make their home at No. 407 Marshall street, and will be at home to their friends after November 1st.
