TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR

MCCOOK, RED WILLOW COUNTY, NEBRASKA, FRIDAY EVENING, JANUARY 11, 1907

NUMBER 33

FINE SPEAKING AND SINGING.

The Union Meetings Start Off Well—Announcement of Meetings.

Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock. Sunday morning at 11 o'clock; subject, "Jonah." Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock; Young People's Rally; subject, "Open Doors." Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock; subject, "Excuses."

The Lyon union meetings in the Bixler opera house started off in fine shape, on last Sunday. Five hundred people greeted Mr. Lyon in the morning and seven hundred in the evening. In the evening the chorus choir, 85 strong, surprised everyone. They sang the songs old and new with spirit and power and gave promise of some fine chorus singing when they have sung longer together. Mr. Stentz, the chorus leader and solo singer, captured the chorus and the audience with his bright, happy way, and it is safe to say that he will be very popular with the people of McCook. At each service he sings a simple gospel solo in clear baritone voice and with distinct enunciation. This solo is one of the most enjoyable parts of each service. The chorus is increasing in numbers and power each night and in itself is a great inspiration to the singers and to the audience. Each evening an efficient corps of ushers has been on hand and the comfort and convenience of all are carefully looked after.

All who have heard Mr. Lyon unite in words of commendation and of endorsement. He is a Christian gentleman with a passion for reality and true righteousness. His sermons are clear, forceful and interesting, revealing a trained intellect and a logical mind. He is not sensational, but absolutely fearless. In all kindness he seeks to reveal to the listener his own sins that he may arouse conviction and action. His defense of "Revivals", Sunday, was unanswerable and his sermon, Sunday night, on "The Value of a Human Soul" was a strong plea for humanity and brotherhood.

The response of the people of McCook to this effort of the churches has been encouraging. Good audiences have attended the meetings, the choir has done its part nobly and there is faith in many hearts and prayer on many lips that God has great things in store for McCook in the coming days. The churches are to be congratulated on securing such strong, safe men to conduct this work.

The meetings will continue: Saturday at 7:30 p. m.; Sunday at 11 a. m., 3:30 and 7:30 p. m. At the afternoon meeting Sunday Mr. Lyon will address young people between the ages of 15 and 30. None under 15 will be admitted.

There will be a meeting every night next week but Monday. Afternoon meetings will be held at 3 o'clock on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. All these meetings will be held in the Bixler opera house and everybody is invited.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Lyon began a series of addresses on the ten commandments. He announced his text from Romans, third chapter and 20th verse: "For by the law is the knowledge of sin." This discourse was a full and fearless statement of facts regarding the prevalent transgression of God's laws. It may be called an example of conscientious preaching which shuns not to declare the whole counsel of God. Like John the Baptist, or John Knox, Mr. Lyon does not fear the face of man, but courageously echoes the will and truth of the Almighty.

The substance of his discourse, Wednesday night, is involved in the following statements: "The law of God does not extirpate sin; it reveals it. The law creates in the heart a hunger for righteousness. The law of supply and demand is just as definite in religion as in nature or commerce. Not until we realize our sinfulness can God do anything for us.

We are living in a lawless period of history. This spirit is seen, first of all, in the homes. In the average home today the children do about as they please.

If a boy wants to suck a cigarette and loaf around the gambling dens or grogeries, he does. If the mother says to the daughter, "I do not want you on the streets at night," she pertly answers: "I don't care what you want!" and off she starts. It is about time that Christian parents stopped raising children for hell.

The spirit of lawlessness is seen, also, in society at large. Many obey the law if it suits their interests, but if it doesn't—they do the other thing. The anarchist is not always the man who in the stums flaunts the red flag. Some of the most dangerous law-breakers live in fine houses on the boulevards. For so many centuries have men talked about freedom, that now the pendulum has swung to the other extreme and liberty to do right is being interpreted as license to do wrong. All sorts of wickedness and vice are masquerading under the guise of personal liberty. The man who continues, wilfully to disregard and violate the national, state or municipal laws is as truly a traitor as was Benedict Arnold, or the secessionist of '61. Anarchism and atheism go hand in hand. Every anarchist is an atheist. From disregard of divine law it is an easy step to defying human authority.

Speaking of the first commandment, the speaker said: "I think we can all see why, 'Thou shalt have no other gods before me,' was put first. If a man keeps the first law he will keep all the rest. And the second commandment is like unto the first: 'Thou shalt not make unto thee a graven image.' We talk about the idolatry of heathen countries, when we have about as much right here in America. Some make idols of their children; some make them of themselves, of intellect, of pleasure, or of dress. But no god is so successfully competing with Christ for the mastery as the money god. In the case of many appetite is their god. They seem to be merely flesh. They might better have walked on four feet than on two. Say, men, if your wives or mothers or daughters were guilty of the private habits that some of you men are, you would turn from them in perfect disgust. Man, your wife has the same right to make a cuspidor or a beer keg of herself as you have. No man has a right to profess to follow Christ and yet smell like the devil. The average man cares vastly more for his stomach than for his soul. Erskine said: 'Be sure you're right, then go ahead.' People who buy any other than 'Meritas' table oilcloth are taking an inferior article, and if they are paying more than 15c for 'Meritas' they are throwing money at the birds. 'Meritas' for 15c at Thompson's.

The Experiences of Practical Farmers in all sections of the country have shown that there is a saving of from 20 to 50 per cent by feeding ground feed. Measure and attend the McCook Hardware Co.'s exhibit, January 24, 25, 26, and see the Famous Lightning Triple-Gear Mill do the business just the way you want it done.

Davy Crockett. In his early manhood he took for himself this motto of sense and action, "Be sure you're right, then go ahead." People who buy any other than "Meritas" table oilcloth are taking an inferior article, and if they are paying more than 15c for "Meritas" they are throwing money at the birds. "Meritas" for 15c at Thompson's.

Commercial Club Meeting.

The McCook Commercial club held a regular meeting, Tuesday evening of this week.

The regular bills and routine business were disposed of. Apropos of the contemplated improvement to be made by the company on the old headquarters building, the city improvement committee of the club had its attention urgently directed to the matter of promptly and insistently bringing before management of the Burlington railway company the necessity of building a new building rather than repairing the present old, out-of-date and insufficient structure.

The matter of providing a suitable rest room, with drinking water, lavatory and closet accommodations for women and children only, on one of the main streets was suggested by William Lewis and promptly and heartily seconded by the entire membership. The matter of securing a location is now being looked to.

This will be a most desirable improvement and comfort, which the trading ladies coming to McCook will deeply appreciate.

This is a grinder—not a crusher—and while you are here we want to show you the merits of the best feed grinders ever invented. It has roller bearings, chilled steel burrs, friction plates to take up the wear, and nine lugs to force the grain into the burrs, which make three revolutions to one of the sweep, and the bearings run in oil.

The Famous Lightning Feed Grinder grinds faster, runs easier and lasts longer than any other mill made, and you never have to grind your grain a second time to get it fine enough. We want the ladies to come in and test our flour. Come and see us grind wheat, oats, rye, Kafir corn and corn shelled or in the ear at the rate of 25 to 50 bushels an hour with but one horse.

Remember the dates, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 24th, 25th and 26th.
