SOME Nebraskans have for many years contended that railroading and politics are incompatible. Now comes an acknowledged expert of standing and experience, who frankly acknowledges the "corruption": "The trouble with the railroads has been that they have had too much to do with politics."

"The practice of giving passes, we will all admit, was wrong, and the railroads are as highly pleased with present condition as the public. The trouble with the railroads was that they were unable to discontinue the practice, and it is questionable if the railroads, of themselves, would have been able to discontinue these practices. We are out of the pass business. We are out of politics. Our relations with the public are based on business pure and simple."

Let us pray.

Subject of the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Congregational church, next Sunday evening, at seven o'clock, is "Songs of the Heart, Where is True Blessedness." A New Year consecration meeting. Leader, Rev. G. B. Hawkes. You are cordially invited.
