The American Victory at Rheims

LOUIS BLERIOT, achievements and thrilling flights that in keeping pace with the daily occurrences one almost forgot that only a year ago flights of a few minutes were heralded with even more acclaim than is now given those of one to two hours. As the opening days of September, 1908, made a new era in the aviation history of the world, for it was then that Orville Wright first showed the possibility of remaining in the air one hour and over at Fort Myer, so the Rheims race week will doubtless stand as the pivotal point in 1909 toward illustrating the brilliant advance of aviation.

A year ago even the Wrights had not demonstrated conclusively to the world that they had mastered the secret of flight. It is true they had done so in 1905 by their secret flights at Dayton, their best flight being slightly over thirty-eight minutes. This has since been accepted as correct, but all that the world knew one year ago of acknowledged flying was that Delagrange, by his flight of 15 minutes 25 seconds at Rome on May 30, held the record for the longest time in the air. Wilbur Wright arrived in France in August and on Aug. 13, 1908, made a flight of 8 minutes 13.25 seconds, simply a forerunner of what he was about to do a month later. Bleriot had made a few small flights with his monoplane. Farman had won the Archdeacon prize and had succeeded in remaining in the air a few minutes, and in this country Glenn H. Curtiss, the famous aeronaut, was barely beginning his experiments. The achievements of Curtiss at Rheims were a great triumph for America and an American machine and make him a figure of worldwide renown in aerial circles. His winning of the international cup means that the international aviation contests will be held in this country next year. On the second day of the meet at Rheims Curtiss flew six and one-fifth miles in 8 minutes 35.35 seconds, breaking all previous records for this distance. On Aug. 28 he won the international cup by flying twelve and two-fifths miles in 15 minutes 50.35 seconds, and the following day he flew 18.63 miles in 25 minutes 49.25 seconds, winning the three lap speed contest. Many of the other contestants did good work. On Aug. 24 Bleriot smashed the world's speed record by flying six and one-fifth miles in 8 minutes 4.25 seconds.

Curtiss has been manufacturing motor bicycles for several years at his factory in Hammondsport, N. Y. Quickly realizing the future of aerial flight, he was one of the earliest in America to devote careful attention to the manufacture of aero motors. He was invited by Professor Alexander Graham Bell to become one of the six members of the latter's Aerial Experiment association, and with the exception of the experiments carried out at Baddeck, Nova Scotia, last winter the greater part of their work in solving problems of aerial flight was done at Hammondsport.

His machine, a biplane, is about thirty feet wide, with a total expanse of surface of 225 feet. The total weight of the entire machine ready for flight is 700 pounds, about 100 pounds heavier than the first machine used at Minnecola.

The five types of machines that stood out prominently in the Rheims events were the three biplanes, Wright, Curtiss and Voisin, and the two monoplanes, Bleriot and Antoinette. The Voisin has shown that it is a worthy rival of the two American makes, and the one used by Paulhan when he remained in the air 2 hours 43 minutes 24.15 seconds on Aug. 25 possessed the additional novelty of being fitted with the Gnome seven cylinder rotary motor.

MRS. BELMONT'S MEETING.

How the Noted Society Woman is Aiding the Suffragists.

Probably the most unusual gatherings ever held in this country to further the cause of woman suffrage were the recent meetings at Marble House, the famous Newport residence of Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, and if there is anything in social prestige then the movement has had a tremendous wave of success. To have Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the aunt of the late Ward McAllister, at one of the meetings and to have this ninety year old pioneer of the woman's cause address the gathering was in itself an achievement of Mrs. Belmont. Another noted speaker was the Rev. Anna Shaw, who, because of an accident which happened to her several weeks ago in Minneapolis, when she broke her ankle, was obliged to be brought in a wheel chair to the meeting. She was so splendidly enthusiastic and spoke with such fervor and brilliancy that her accident was unknown save to those who happened to see her wheeled across the lawn.

Mrs. Howe, who also came in a wheel chair, was helped to the platform by Mrs. Belmont, and her address was notable in that every word she spoke could be heard distinctly by every one present. The pioneer reviewed her work of fifty years' activity and remarked, "The changes in the position during the ninety years of my life have been marvelous, and today woman is entering her own."

For years Mrs. Belmont has been an advocate of woman suffrage, but only recently has she become one of its leaders.

and will have especial supervision over the negotiations of treaties. The important Japanese treaty is to be entered into within the next two years, and Mr. Hoyt will devote himself largely to the framing of this measure. After completing his public school education in Wilkesbarre, Pa., where he was born fifty-three years ago, Mr. Hoyt entered Yale university and graduated with honors. He then attended the University of Pennsylvania, where he took up the study of law. He practiced in Pittsburg for some time and in 1881, through his father, ex-Governor H. M. Hoyt, was made assistant cashier of the United States National bank in New York. In 1886 he went to Philadelphia as treasurer of the Investment company, but resigned later and resumed his law practice.

Mr. Hoyt entered the office of Judge Shiras in 1890 and later became a partner of Colonel Dechert. In 1897 he was appointed assistant attorney general of the United States and later became solicitor general. His father was governor of Pennsylvania in 1879-83. Both President Taft and Secretary Knox are delighted that they have been able to secure the services of Mr. Hoyt for the position to give the new office a proper dignity from the start.

The Mondell Homestead Lands
We are receiving thousands of inquiries about the 320-acre free homestead lands available for settlers under the Mondell Act. These lands are located in eastern Colorado and in Wyoming along the Burlington. The great advantage of this new homestead law is that the settler is permitted to take up free, 320 acres instead of 160 acres, the larger tract being required under the new dry farming methods; northeastern Wyoming has from 16 to 21 inches of moisture, and has produced some of the finest crops of small grains ever seen in the west.
I personally conduct excursions on the first and third Tuesdays of each month to these lands. Write me for special descriptive folders, literature etc.
IRRIGATED LANDS IN THE BIG HORN BASIN. These government irrigated lands are being fast taken up by settlers who realize the coming value of the Big Horn Basin lands in view of the railroad development in central Wyoming.
The United States Land and Irrigation Exposition at Chicago, Nov. 20th to Dec. 4th, will be of vital interest to the farmer.
