VISIT OF SIR THOMAS.

Famous Sportsman Wants to Try Once More For America's Cup.
 The arrival in this country of Sir Thomas Lipton recalls the attempts of this famous sportsman to capture the America's cup, which has proved a veritable will-o'-the-wisp for yachtsmen on the other side of the "pond." No less than thirteen craft, representing English, Scotch, Irish and Canadian yacht clubs, have made unsuccessful efforts to capture it, but there seems to be a determination on the part of Sir Thomas Lipton to stay in the game indefinitely.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON.

Already this Irish yachtsman has sent three craft, each bearing the name of Shamrock, to endeavor to wrest the coveted trophy from us, and, having failed, he is now here to arrange for another contest. It is the ambition of his life, he says, to carry the "mug" back to England.

There is no trophy in the world of sport on which there has been expended so much money for its defense or capture. Around it has been thrown a sort of halo, but it is a commonplace sort of "mug" and not particularly handsome. It is not what it is, but what it represents, that makes it so worthy a prize. Although often called the "Queen's cup" and the "One Hundred Guinea cup," the cup retains the name of the famous schooner that won it on Aug. 22, 1851, defeating the winner of the British yacht squadron.

YALE'S GREAT CAPTAIN.

Ted Coy, the Football Star, and His Work on the Gridiron.
 Even one with little knowledge of football has but to witness the Yale team at work to realize that in Ted Coy the college has a wonderful player. This fact was brought out two seasons ago, and this year his work on the gridiron is proving as brilliant as ever. As a line smasher and punter he stands alone, and his sensational plays have astonished even the men on his own team.

Ted Coy is a native of Connecticut and since he was a youngster has played and studied the game. He is very strong physically and is built on massive outlines. His shoulders are broad and large boned. His chest is deep, and the muscular development of the torso is superior to that of the average man of his age and height.

Add to this pair of legs which seem to be without limit as to power and energy and which must be fed by boilers intended for an engine of forty horsepower and an idea may be obtained of the amount of resistance which is needed to combat him on the football field.

In a Harvard game once Coy was held by sheer force of numbers and could not move an inch farther, but he was not downed—not a bit of it. He stood upright, the center of all of the group. The ball was still in his hand, and the referee had blown his whistle to announce that it was a fresh down, but Coy was standing up. They had been unable to throw him to the earth.

Last season Coy made ten touchdowns for Yale, and there are some who believe that if he had been allowed to run once more in the Harvard game when he was close to the goal Yale would have scored a touchdown. The Crimson was watching him in every play, however, and almost all of the Harvard defense was devoted to stopping Coy.

Seven Rules of Life.
 Live upstairs if you wish to be in good health. "Up how many flights?" Only one flight of seven steps. I will describe them.

First Step.—Eat wheat, oats, corn, fruits, beef, mutton, plainly cooked, in moderate quantity and but two meals a day.

Second Step.—Breathe good air day and night.

Third Step.—Exercise freely in the open air.

Fourth Step.—Retire early and rise early.

Fifth Step.—Wear flannel next your skin every day of the year and so dispose your dress that your limbs may be kept warm. Bathe frequently.

Sixth Step.—Live in the sunshine. Let your bedroom be one which receives a flood of light and spend your days either out in the sunlight or in a room which is well lighted.

Seventh Step.—Cultivate a cheerful temper. Seek the society of jolly people. Absolutely refuse to worry and, above all, don't be afraid to laugh. Live above. Sickness cannot crawl up there. Disease prevails about in the basement. Rarely does it get upstairs.

The Shade He Wanted.

Delacroix, the painter, was walking out one day in Paris with a friend of his when he fell into a brown study.

"What is up with you now?" said the friend.

"I can't get a certain shade of yellow," replied the artist.

"What sort of yellow?"

"Just then a cab drove past.

"The very thing!" the painter gasped out. "Stop, stop!"

"I am engaged," the cabby replied without stopping.

Delacroix started in pursuit and at a steep place in the Rue des Martyrs overtook the cab. Opening the door, he said in tones of entreaty to the passenger inside:

"Do please tell your driver to stop. I want your complexion for a painting on which I am at work. There is a color merchant close at hand. I shall not detain you above five minutes, and in acknowledgment of the service you render me I will present you with a sketch of my picture."

The bargain was struck. Delacroix got his yellow, and a few months later the "fare" received a sketch of his "Assassination of the Archbishop of Liege."

Truth in Jest.

According to historical tradition, the conquest of Finland was foretold in jest that soon became earnest by its conqueror, Peter the Great, to his jester, Balakireff.

Balakireff had vexed the czar by too impudent a joke and had been summarily banished with the menacing injunction never to appear on Russian soil again. He disappeared discreetly, but one day not long after Peter, glancing out of a window, saw his unmistakable figure and quizzical countenance jogging comfortably by, perched in a country cart. Impulsively he ran down to him and demanded to know why he had disobeyed.

"I haven't disobeyed you," was the answer. "I am not on Russian soil now."

"Not on Russian soil?"

"No. This cart load of earth that I'm sitting on is Swedish soil. I dug it in Finland only the other day."

Peter laughed, but he said, "If Finland be Swedish soil now, it shall be Russian soil before long." And he made good his words.

His Examination Concluded.

In the evidence before a parliamentary committee concerning the opposition to a railway Hodge scored a point which accentuates a certain legal fiction with reference to skilled witnesses.

A Scotch farmer was giving his testimony in favor of the bill.

"Is it true," said the wily K. C. in his most searching style, "that you, sir, said to Mr. Guild that you were willing to give your evidence on the other side if they would pay you better?"

"Aye," said the pawky farmer, "and" (after a pause) "let me jist pit the same question to ye—if ye had been offered a bigger fee, wad ye no hae been on th'ither side yersel?"

It is needless to say that the K. C. did not cross question the witness further.

Pipes Frozen by Warm Spells.

It is a curious fact that water pipes under ground will often freeze during the warm spell that follows a cold snap. The explanation made for this interesting phenomenon is that after a cold wave a large quantity of heat is taken from the ground in the work of changing the frozen moisture into water, and thus, on the principle of the ice cream freezer, the pipe is chilled, enough heat being taken from it to freeze it.

Cause For Thanks.

"Alas!" sighed the tramp dramatically. "No matter where I turns, there's a hand raised against me."

"Which shows you ought to be thankful for one thing," said the farmer.

"What's that?"

"That it ain't a foot that's raised."

Self Possessed.

Mrs. Manykids—There is one thing about our girls—they are always self possessed. Papa Manykids (grimly)—Yes, they're too self possessed. I wish they'd get some one else to possess them.

Liszt's Advice.

Being asked one day what one should do in order to become an efficient piano player, Liszt replied laconically, "One must eat well and walk much."

OVERTAXED.

Hundreds of McCook Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed; Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains—

Backache, sideache, headache, Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

William Slote, living at the S. E. Cor. of Twenty-Ninth St. & Ave. A, Kearney, Neb., says: "My wife was subject to attacks of kidney complaint off and on for years, becoming worse as time passed. She had dull pains across her loins and was bothered by the frequent action of the kidney secretions. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills and my wife began using them. They proved very effective in her case and we consider them well worthy of recommendation."

Plenty more proof like this from McCook people. Call at McConnell's drug store and ask what customers report.

TROUSERS WERE HISTORIC.

But the Mail Order House Got Rid of Them.

A young farmer out north of town, who does not believe in patronizing home merchants, sent to a mail order house for a suit of clothes. In the pocket of the pants he found the following note:

"Should this fall into the hands of a good looking young man who desires to correspond with a young lady of sweet disposition, kindly address, etc."

The aforesaid mail order man promptly sent a letter to the address and a few days ago received the following reply:

"My wife has received a letter from you addressed to her maiden name. Twenty years ago, when she worked in a factory, she might have written the note. She is now the mother of 17 children and my lawful wife. If you do not cut out writing to her, I will take a trip to your town and make you look like two cents' worth of dog meat."

"Seeing is believing". If if you set the nobby and artistic styles of portraiture mounts, you will buy, and you can have a portrait of yourself, just as nobby and artistic as the mount, made at the Kimmel Studio, 1st door north of Commercial Hotel.
