She was smart, well dressed, a clever musician-just the sort of girl to be thoroughly popular with both sexes. At once she became the center of a arge coterie of admirers.

Then after a few days her vivacious expression gave place to a look of unutterable boredom. "I can't stand this place. It's so deadly dull," she said over and over again. Finally one evening she announced that she could not endure it an bour longer. She

SAW THE BRIGHT SIDE.

He Made the Most of an Unpleasant Situation.

A group of men were discussing buman nature and the difficulty of looking always on the bright and glittering side of things when the dingy, dark brown side is uppermost and seems destined to remain uppermost,

"It's a great thing to cultivate a disposition to make the most of things in this life," remarked a man who used to drive trotting horses for a living. "The most striking illustration I ever had of that was in a big horse race at a county fair down the state about ten years ago. The man driving alongside of me let his horse swerve on the back stretch, and my sulky was upset, That caused a general mixup, and a colored driver right behind me got unloaded and his sulky broken to pieces Well, I lay there for a minute, and then, as I didn't seem to be much hurt,

"Sure enough, they did, and when we drove up that home stretch in the open hack they sent for us that colored man was the happiest person I ever saw. Now, that's what I call making the most of things."-Cleveland Plain Dealer.

COURTSHIP IN PORTUGAL.

The Way the Young People Begin Their Lovemaking.

The most important event in the life of a Portuguese woman is marriage. Next in importance are the early days of courtship, for a Portuguese courtship is the essence of romance, and the ways of the Portuguese lover are singularly picturesque. Here is a littie drama in which Cupid is stage director. If a young Portuguese sees in the street a pretty girl with whom he would like to become acquainted he follows her. Chaperons are not impossible obstructions. He follows her right up to her very door and notes the address. Next day he comes again, and if the young lady approves of him -for she certainly saw him the day before-she is on the lookout.

Sometimes hard fate in the guise of an angry parent prevents her, and then the gallant youth is kept waiting. Sooner or later she leans over the balcony and smiles at him. The happy youth ties a note to a cord which the fair lady drops from the balcony. The next day the young man comes again. This time he rings at the door. If the inquiries which the young lady's elders have made prove satisfactory the swain is admitted to make the acquaintance of the young lady. After that courtship in Portugal is about the same as it is in Kankakee or Kalamazoo.-Leslie's Weekly,

Not a Laughing Matter.

Cut off from family and home by a relentless tide, fat Mr. Bodger had been forced to clamber till he gained a pathway cut in the cliff's face. It was a narrow path, and Mr. Bodger was no narrow man. Getting more frightened every moment, he proceeded warily along the fast diminishing way till at last it faded suddenly into what the poets would call "sweet nothingness." Already he was overlapping, and it was impossible to turn. An excited crowd watched his prog-

"Do, guv'nor?" came back a voice. "Do anyfink you like, but for goodness' sake don't larf or your weskit 'l bump yer off as sure as eggs is eggs!" -London Answers.

Can't Please Everybody.

The manager of an asbestus mill conceived a novel idea for his announcements. He had them printed on Office over McAdams' Store Phone 190 thin asbestus and inclosed in envelopes of the same material. As he was uncertain of the correct addresses of some of the stockholders, be ordered his stenographer to write on each envelope "Please Forward."

The idea was clever, but one may appreciate the feelings of the widow of one of the stockholders when she received an asbestus envelope addressed to her late husband with the inscription "Please Forward" beneath the address. -Lippincott's,

"Will the pretty lady in front kindly sit down?" whereupon about fifty old women briskly seated themselves .-London Tatler.

Do farmers eat the proper sort of food?

The farmer of today buys a much larger proportion of the food that goes on the table than he did ten years ago. It's a good thing that this is so because he has a great variety to select from.

He should, however, use great care in selecting for the best results in health and strength.

The widespread tendency in the city to increase the amount of Quaker Oats eaten is due very largely to the recent demonstrations by scientific men that the Quaker Oats fed man is the man with greatest physical endurance and greatest mental vigor.

Farmers should give this subject careful thought and should increase the quantity of Quaker Oats eaten by themselves, their children and the farm hands.
