The play depicts the many hu- pretty dancing numbers. morous adventures of 'Bud Hicks," one of those slangy, flashily dressed, decidedly independent young fellows who are typical products of our great cities. Bud hails from Chicago, and in the first act is dazzling the natives of the small suburban to handle coal on Christmas day: town of Downer's Grove, Illinois, with his "glad rags" as he terms his clothes. The pretty country girls look good to Bud and he makes a deep impression by telling of his great wealth and his many remarkable achievements which exist only in his fertile imagination. However, he establish es himself as a great favorite and is having a most enjoyable time when his "butting in" propensities get the best of him and he BEGGS mixes in a family quarrel. Bud CURES an

Land--Water-Good Crops Land—Water=Failure

The Big Horn Basin and Yellowstone Valley Have an Abundance; of Water for Irrigation Purposes.

The Government has made ample provision to supply each and every farmer under its canals with sufficient water during the crop growing season to cover every acre of his farm two feet deep. This is equal to twelve heavy rains of two inches each. Just think what it would have meant to your community during the crop growing season of 1911 if your farmers could have turned on twelve two inch rains at will. You can do this next year and every year thereafter as long as you are farming, if you will go with me to Powell, Wyoming, and file on one of the government irrigated homesteads now ready for
