CONCERNING JACK CROOK

Much indignation has been expressed among the republicans over the renewal of the Journal's unwarranted attacks on G. J. Crook, the county chairman. It was the hope of the republicans of this county that the coming campaign would find the Journal the same old republican paper that it used to be, and the announcement through its own columns, that such was not to be the case, was a disappointment to the republicans, to say the least.

Without discussing existing factional differences, or without reference to Chairman Crook's attitude in these matters, The Tribune believes that it voices the sentiments of all the loyal republicans of this county when it protests against these attacks.

Mr. Crook is not the chairman of a faction—he is chairman of the party because he was placed there by a republican convention composed of delegates from all parts of the county. Last fall there was held in this city one of the most representative republican conventions that ever convened in the county and that convention re-elected Mr. Crook chairman of the county central committee. Had he been as false to the best interests of the party as his traducers would have us believe, would the party have again placed him in a position of such great trust and responsibility? Last fall Mr. Crook conducted a vigorous and masterful campaign and led the republican hosts of this county to victory. The party realizes this and it is not the party that is today heaping villification upon him. But the injury inflicted by such warfare will not be sustained by Mr. Crook alone. An attack on the chairman and his committeemen is an attack on the party. It is an attempt to divide the party against itself; it tends to sow discord where harmony should prevail and to that extent it lessens the chances of party success in the coming contest.

Well, the committee meeting was held and no "snap judgments" were taken. Everything was open and above board and unless the enemies within the party get in their work, there will meet in this city on March 17, a harmonious republican convention that will act for the best good of the party.

Judge Tucker.

From the Dawson Newsboy.

Judge E. A. Tucker of Humboldt was in town yesterday. After a great deal of persuasion on the part of many prominent republicans of this senatorial district, Judge Tucker has finally consented to become a candidate for state senator this fall. This should be good news to the rank and file of the party who believe in honoring those who have rendered effective service to the party at a time when help was needed. Everyone who knows the Judge knows that he has in many instances sacrificed his personal ambitions in order that he might be in a better position to assist in carrying his party to victory. The thorough organization of the republican party in this county during the last three campaigns and the success with which they have been carried on is in a great measure due to his untiring efforts and good management. It is early yet to make predictions in matters concerning politics but we believe that no stronger man could be named by the republicans of this senatorial district than Judge E. A. Tucker of Humboldt.

Manning is Candidate.

"Northeast Nebraska has a candidate for a state office in the person of J. R. Manning of Wayne, who aspires to the position of commissioner of public lands and buildings and whose name will be presented to the republican state convention as a candidate for that office. Northeast Nebraska has furnished her due quota of republican majorities, but has been dealt with rather sparingly in the distribution of political positions of trust. This section of the state is entitled to recognition at the hands of the coming convention. Mr. Manning is a man worthy of the honors he covets. He will go into the convention with the undivided support of his congressional district, and, we hope, come out with the nomination sought. The Gazette is for Mr. Manning first, last and all the time."—Wausa Gazette.

Mr. Manning is a one armed soldier of the civil war. He was at one time a member of the state senate, and last winter he was the postmaster in the senate, where he made many warm friends.
