Musical Monday Evening.

The musical given by the Cosgrove Concert orchestra under the auspices of Prof. Harrack's Military band on Monday evening was a treat to all who attended. The selection by Helza Larsen and May Hudson Havener were well and ably rendered, while James W. Havener as a cornetist is certainly a musician of no small mention. Harry Woods on the mandolin and zylophone is an artist of rare ability. The musical novelties by Cosgrove, Roloff, Steinkamp and Woods were greatly appreciated. Altogether every member of the company deserves praise for the able manner in which they rendered every number on the program. After the concert dancing was indulged in until midnight.

A Sabbath Ode.

By Rev. Pugeon.

All hail! thou blessed Sabbath day,
 The day of joy and peace and rest;
 The God made day for all mankind,
 The day we ought to love the best.
 The day our God has set aside,
 A day to His especially given;
 A day that we should honor well
 Because it leads our thoughts to heaven.
 Could we have seen that Sabbath day,
 On which he rested from his task
 Of making paradise for man;
 No cause were there for us to ask—
 For what had he created it?
 The solemn silence would but awe,
 The singing of the heavenly hosts
 Would tell the cause of all we saw.

The Christian church again held a large and interested audience last Sunday evening, and on that occasion Rev. Pugeon used for his subject "Superstition." He placed before his hearers some of the religious and common superstitions that have before the world for centuries. He told of some of the superstitions he came in contact with while in Ireland how the Irish people as a rule were believers to a very great extent to the stories told in their country about goblins, ghosts, fairies, and how superstitious they were and are along religious lines. But, he said the Americans are much like the Irish, they have a great many religious and common superstitions which they believe in most thoroughly. He urged upon his hearers the necessity of giving up their foolish beliefs along these lines and their duty of helping others do likewise. Next Sunday evening he will use for his subject—"Lessons from 'That Printer of Udells.'" Special music and services will begin at 7:30. You are cordially invited to attend.
