Died.

Jane Lucket was born in the year 1851 and in 1876 she was married to Nelson Timmerman moved to Verdon where they managed a hotel. After this Mr. Timmerman engaged in the hardware business with which he has been connected ever since. In 1889 Mrs. Timmerman joined the Christian church of Verdon and has ever been a faithful and conscientious christian worker.

On Monday evening of this week she was taken seriously ill and on Tuesday morning at four o'clock her spirit followed the call of her Maker, leaving to mourn her loss a husband and one daughter, Mrs. Jay Parsons of Verdon. Funeral services were conducted from the Christian church by Rev. Henry at 1:30 yesterday afternoon, interment in Verdon cemetery.

Surprised.

That surprises are always in order was again proven last Sunday when forty five of the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bloom, led by Mrs. L. J. Hitchcock took the Castle Bloom by storm. The surprise was planned for that day because it was the fourteenth anniversary of their wedding day.

The crowd brought their dinners with them and at the noon hour enjoyed a repast fit for the gods.

Mr. and Mrs. Bloom were presented with a silver set and other tokens of loving regard from the invaders.

Toward evening leave taking was in order and the party voted the affair a glorious one and expressed the hopes of many glorious returns of the day.

The Tribune also extends congratulations.

At the Theatre.

Marie Wainwright, as Viola in Twelfth Night played at the Gehling last Monday night, sustained her excellent reputations as an actress of ability, and being supported by a good company, the play was of the usual interest of class literature.

The members of the Sphinx Club are to be congratulated upon securing such a rare treat for the people of this city in having Mrs. William Calvin Chilton at The Gehling last Thursday evening. As a monologist she gives complete satisfaction and those who did not attend the recital missed a good opportunity to spend an enjoyable evening.
