

SCHOOL BOYS INVESTIGATED

Board of Education After Those Who Mar Property.

SOME ARRESTS ARE LIKELY.

Fifteen Boys Were on the Carpet Before the Board This Morning and All May be Prosecuted—Broke into the Grant School and Took Things.

The fact that the Iowa-Nebraska creamery company at Omaha has been sold to the Beatrice company at Lincoln will be of some interest to the people of Norfolk inasmuch as this was the company in which R. A. Stewart, formerly of this city, was interested. Whether he will retain an interest in the Beatrice company or take up some other line of business is not yet known here. John J. King, former president of the company, will continue as manager of the Omaha plant. The Lincoln company is now said to be the largest creamery concern in the world, with factories at Lincoln, Denver and Omaha, and smaller branch plants and separator stations in other towns.

22, there will be the annual ball. The committee consists of J. N. Bundick, Burt Mapes and Clarence Salter.

When P. F. Sprecher went home last evening he found a darkened house to enter. Within were a crowd of friends who leaped out before him and called "Surprise." It worked. It was Mr. Sprecher's birthday and a few friends who knew of it, took advantage of the opportunity to call upon him in this fashion. Among the outside guests were Mrs. Morey and Mrs. Hitchcock of Pierce.

The members of the board of education held a special session this forenoon at which a number of the boys who are attending the schools were brought up on the carpet, charged with various misdemeanors and abuses of school property. About fifteen boys appeared before the board and made admissions and incriminated each other to the extent that the members of the board are confident that they are on the right track toward the apprehension of the boys who have been doing damage and committing nuisances for some time past about the school buildings and outhouses.

NEED OF PROTECTION FOR STOCK

Not Only the Health of the Animals Requires Protection, but the Feed Will go Much Further.

A Norfolk veterinary surgeon who was summoned to a point west of the city to look after some sick cattle recently found a herd of two hundred head on the prairie, with no protection whatever, and therefore exposed to all kinds of weather. Naturally he was not surprised to learn that half a dozen members of the herd had had cases of pneumonia which he managed to save by prompt action and hard work. But it would not have surprised him if the bunch of sick animals had perished. The loss of that number of cattle would more than have covered the expense of building a row of sheds or windbreaks and the veterinarian did not consider his full duty done until he had lectured the ranchman on the importance of providing some sort of shelter for his stock, they not even being provided with a hay or straw stack in which to burrow. Not only with regard to the health of stock is it poor economy to refuse them shelter, but in the matter of feed. It will require much less feed to do the same amount of work for cattle where they are well protected from the elements, and the farmer or ranchman who does not protect his stock is not the one who ordinarily gets wealthy.

It is pleasing to note that many of the farmers and stock men are supplying this shelter and that during the past year a large amount of money has been invested in lumber and other material for the building of sheds, barns and windbreaks. Stock that is not well protected will be certain to suffer during some of the storms that occur in Nebraska and any farmer who owns a herd could afford to provide some sort of shelter.

IS A GREAT NIGHT FOR SLEIGHS

Many People Enjoyed the Long, Narrow Ribbons of Ice For the Sliding of Cutters.

Last night was a great one for the sleigh bells. They were jingling merrily in all parts of the city and the sharp click of horses' hoofs sounded out distinctly upon the crisp, clear air of the night time. Cutters were early out and along the selectest avenues for driving their runners ground upon the slippery whiteness until it was packed, upon some thoroughfares, into narrow shining ribbons of ice many miles in length. There were young couples and old couples in the big rolling seats and there were hundreds of scampering boys who made the best of the snow and the moonlight to "catch on" until the last jingling bell stopped vibrating at midnight.

Nothing speaks more emphatically for a neat, progressive business man than nicely printed stationery—The News does it.

WAS INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Mrs. Joseph Vlazney Has Compound Fracture From It.

A WILD JUMP FROM THE WAGON.

Team of Horses Wearing no Bridle Straps Started Across Field and There Was no Way to Control Them—Will Suffer for Long Time.

Mrs. Joseph Vlazney sustained a very bad compound fracture in the knee joint yesterday afternoon in attempting to jump out of a wagon during a runaway. She is laid up with the injury and will probably never fully recover from it.

Mrs. Vlazney was helping to build a load of straw and was in the wagon when the horses began to run. They tore wildly across the field and Mrs. Vlazney jumped. She struck the hard ground with terrible force and the joint was badly splintered.

No Bridles on Horses.

There was no way in which to control the frightened animals after they had once taken a notion to run away. They were harnessed to the wagon, all right, but the bridle straps were not on their heads as they should have been and they were independent from the outset.

The accident occurred at the Vlazney farm southwest of the city. Dr. J. H. Mackay was summoned to repair the damaged bone.

THE BOY HAD NERVE.

Went Straight to the Investigating Committee to See.

One little fellow proved to be brave in the investigation just held by the board of education over the Grant schoolhouse matter. This was Wesley Roberts. He met some of his juvenile friends on the street and they told him that he was wanted by the officers. He didn't run away. He just turned around and walked straight back to the court room. He knocked on the door and took his cap off as he went in. "I understand you want to see me," he said. "And I'd like to know something about it." The members of the investigating committee told the lad that he had been misinformed and he went away. But they won't forget him.

MADISON NOW LEADS IN VOTING

But You Never Can Tell How the Close Will Come—Votes End Tomorrow.

Madison is in the lead. Clint Smith is liable to appoint the half dozen persons who will occupy box "B," the seat of honor, at the Auditorium next Monday night when Harry Beresford comes to town with his "Professor's Love Story." Madison's vote today is 1,400. Fairfax gains 200, putting the county seat of Gregory county at 1,100. These are the only two gains today. There are a pair of county seats. Which will win out?

The contest closes tomorrow night at 6 o'clock. Votes will be accepted until that time by wire or mail. Every dollar on subscription before that time will mean 100 votes.

Harry Beresford is announced by the management as the finest theatrical attraction that has ever come to Norfolk. No doubt people will come in for over 100 miles to see him. A treat is promised and the trains run right.

There is no telling from today's standing how the contest may close. You can never tell anything about it and the fact that Boyd and Gregory county are not in the lead today is no sign at all that they will not be in at the end. The people of those towns are advertising. They have a good country and they know it. They want other people to know it, too, and as a mere enterprise of their own they may yet club together to beat.

Six tickets for the box will be issued by The News to the mayor of the town which wins. He will select the party to occupy the box.

AN INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCE

Fashionable Wedding of a New York Belle and a British Captain in Gotham.

New York, Jan. 5.—The ranks of the British aristocracy secured another fair American recruit yesterday when Miss Edith Poor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Poor, and a belle of Gotham's most fashionable and exclusive society, became the bride of Captain James E. Cochrane, of the English army.

The ceremony was performed in Grace Episcopal church, which was thronged with prominent society people. Bishop Potter officiated. The bride's attendants were Miss Violet Cruger, Miss Muriel Robbins, Miss Helen Cutting and Miss Janet Fish. The best man was the cousin of the bridegroom, Sir E. Stewart-Richardson. Following the ceremony at the church there was an elaborate reception at the home of the bride's parents in Gramercy park.

seasons ago, met Captain Cochrane last summer at Murray bay, and they became engaged in August. It was not intended to announce the engagement until after the holidays, and the wedding was scheduled for Easter. A change in plans was necessitated as Captain Cochrane has been ordered to South Africa, and the young couple will probably sail within a few weeks for England enroute to Pretoria.

Captain Cochrane, who is an orphan, did special work in South Africa for three years. He accompanied the Bida-Kontagora expedition, and at its conclusion was selected by Sir Frederick Lugard to remain and organize a settled form of government. This was in 1901. At the successful conclusion of this enterprise, he was chosen as British commissioner to go to the interior and to survey and map out Lake Chad—the first time it had been done—and to take over that section of the country from the natives and to determine the boundaries, and to establish order there.

Death of Robert Ward.

The death of Robert Ward, which occurred early on Monday morning, marks the passing of another pioneer of Madison county. Possessed as he was with the physique of a giant and a remarkably robust constitution, his death will be a surprise to many who were not apprised of the fact that last spring he was stricken with Bright's disease. From the time the complaint manifested itself there was no hope for recovery and the malady worked with its accustomed swiftness. The deceased and all his family realized weeks ago that death could be staved off but a few short months at the longest and at the last all were prepared for the visitation of the ruthless destroyer of earthly happiness. Mr. Ward was of a whole-souled, happy temperament, big-hearted and affectionate. Being always willing to divide his last dollar with a friend in distress, he did not accumulate a large portion of this world's goods, but was content with providing well for those dependent upon him.—Tilden Citizen.
