Are the Gates Ajar?

A somewhat startling announcement has been made in several quarters that at last a scientific proof of the continuance of life and human relationship after death is about to be given to the world. The Society for Psychological Research has been for a long time carefully examining a woman who exhibits the most extraordinary phenomena in the furnishing of messages from personages who are known to have departed from this life and of whom it was impossible for her to have had any acquaintance. If one is to believe the statements already made public, the society has exhausted every means in its power in the endeavor to detect the fraudulency of the manifestations and to explain them on some other than a 'super mundane hypothesis.' They have come to the conclusion that either the woman has an infinite mind or that her communications are what they purport to be, furnished by persons who have left this terrestrial sphere. Before jumping to any conclusion with regard to this very interesting piece of news it will be well to remember that similar claims have very often been made before, and none of them has ever resulted in a scientific determination of anything. By far the greater portion of mankind believe instinctively in a life after death. They have not reasoned themselves into such a belief. It is imbedded in their nature, constituting what the metaphysicians call a 'primal concept,' and the intelligence of the world manages its affairs with due regard to that concept. But there has never been any scientific verification of it. Professor Hyslop of Columbia university now declares that the time has come when science will demonstrate by irrefragable proofs that either the individual intelligence and influence do not end with death or else all the evidence from which science draws its deductions must be accounted worthless. All this is very interesting, and the world awaits the professor's proofs with the keenest zest. He says that the materialism of our age demands this proof, and the only reason why it has not been forthcoming before is that science has not hitherto given due attention to the psychologic phenomena with which our age is rife.

An American heiress who has tried living in an old English castle writes that it is not what it is cracked up to be. She says that she has lived in a New England farmhouse not quite as old as the castle, but which was far superior in comfort, convenience, safety and beauty. Even the much vaunted ghosts are little more than household nuisances and not half as expert or as interesting as the American rapping spook. The castle is generally inaccessible on principle, and its rooms are built mainly to defy bombardment. To get anything into the place requires relays of jackasses and much mountain climbing. Water is always at the foot of the hill, and so is the fuel. The lower part of the house is a dungeon, always damp, although the moat has been filled up for over a hundred years, and the upper part is a stone turret that cannot be warmed. This modern bit of experience is interesting as showing what the ladies of the middle ages had to put up with. Our American lady says: "No wonder they were always making tapestry to cover up their stone walls."

The new Spanish minister, the Duke of Arco, is a most genial and dignified man. His amiability, benignity, large information and polished manners have made him a great favorite in Washington, but even these distinguished characteristics are thrown in the shade by his delightful belief in the future of Spain. He sees her rising, like the phoenix, from her ashes, all her misfortunes being blessings in disguise. She has shaken herself clear of useless dependencies and can now concentrate all her energies on the renewing of her youth. No wonder the duke is popular. He would shine in a desert amid hyenas and sandstorms, for if he did not charm both he would rise above them on the wings of an infinite complacency.

There are 5,400 policemen in New York, and they are getting so fat that it has alarmed their chief, who himself weighs 230 pounds. He has issued an order directing them to take more exercise, and it is suggested by the police commissioners that the city ought to appropriate money for a gymnasium to keep down the superfluous fat. This presents to the humorists and taxpayers as well some curious reflections. It will cost the city about $100 a head to reduce its policemen to athletic dimensions.

The London theaters, in their competition with the music halls, have been induced to ask the authorities to allow their audiences to smoke and drink so as to lessen the advantages which the music halls have over them.

No other recent theatrical move so clearly shows how little distinction there is between the theater and the music hall, and that little is provided by law.

Mark Twain never put himself to such good practical use as in riveting the chains of international friendship in England. It is true he did it mainly with humor, but that was all he had to do it with, and others who did not have that did not do it half so well.

A Kansas paper counters very neatly on the effete east by calling attention to the barbarism of New York in imprisoning men for debt, a practice which has been abolished by every other state in the Union. The same paper alludes incidentally to Delaware, which is as far east as the constitution will allow a state to get, which state retains the whipping post, quite regardless of the advance of civilization in Oklahoma and Oregon.

A proposition is made by the San Francisco Bulletin to American millionaires which has a broad, expansive ring. It assumes that most of the millionaires are anxious to get rid of their money, since Mr. Carnegie has set them an example, but they do not know how to do it judiciously for the good of the country. It therefore suggests that they buy up the pension claims against the government. Most of them can be bought for a moderate sum, spot cash, and the Bulletin does not know of any way that the government can be so permanently benefited.

THE WIFE OF HER PASTOR.

Mrs. Fuller of Wichita Alleges a Secret Marriage With Rev. Herlich. WICHITA, Kan., July 13.—Rev. John von Herlich, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, is charged by a wealthy woman of his church with being her lawful husband through a ceremony performed by Rev. von Herlich himself. Bishop Millsbaugh will investigate the charges. Judge Wall, attorney for Mrs. Fuller, the alleged wife, has advised this preliminary step before having the rector arrested on graver charges made by Mrs. Fuller.

The exposure follows soon upon an escape by the reverend gentleman in New York city last summer, when he was robbed of his watch and a sum of money in the Tenderloin district. Mrs. Fuller, who claims to be Lady Fuller, daughter of the late Sir John Fuller of the Queen's Guards, London, is 65, while the rector is 60 and quite wealthy. She says she will kill von Herlich if he dares deny their marriage and that she intended to have him arrested if the church directors did not punish him. Von Herlich claims the woman is insane.

OPPRESSING AMERICANS.

Refused Registration in the Transvaal Unless They Bear Arms. LONDON, July 13.—The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Mail says: The Transvaal field cornets are refusing to register American citizens unless they take oath to bear arms for the republic in the event of war. The Americans, therefore, threaten to become British subjects. The Transvaal government is making representations to Washington on this subject.

NORFOLK, Neb., July 13.—Norfolk is all stirred up over the bicycle ordinance. A few months ago the bicycle club presented a petition to the city council asking that an ordinance be passed giving wheelmen the right of sidewalks in muddy weather. The request was complied with, but the ordinance has been constantly violated. The mayor and police force have made no attempt to enforce the ordinance and the sentiment appears to be in favor of a repeal of the sidewalk privilege.

Laid to Nebraska Whisky. SIOUX FALLS, S. D., July 13.—Word has reached here from Rosebud agency of the murder of Yellow Bull, a Brule Sioux, by another Indian. Whisky obtained in some of the smaller Nebraska towns near the border of the Rosebud reservation, led to the crime.

Blew Up in Midstream. BURLINGTON, Ia., July 13.—The gasoline launch of E. A. Davis, with a party of Burlington and Muscatine people aboard, burned in midstream Tuesday night. The gasoline boiler blew up and the occupants were compelled to take to the water, from which they were rescued by a government light-house boat.

Another Gigantic Iron Combination. NEW YORK, July 13.—Consolidation of the wrought steel, iron and tube industries of America has been effected by the consolidation purchasers. The new company will be known as the National Tube company. It is the largest of the kind in the world and is third in rank as a steel and iron corporation. It is exceeded by only the Krupp and Carnegie interests.

Troublesome Generosity.

On the seventh of the month of Schawwal, in the year 1254 of the Hejira—which is the Arabian way of writing December 25, 1833—the Sultan of Oman whose name was Seyyid Saood, Bin Sultan Bin Ahmed, addressed a gracious letter to "His Excellency, Martin Van Buren, President of the United States of North America," in which he informed the president that he had sent him by the royal ship Sultanea a few trifles as a token of friendship and good feeling. These trifles consisted of two Arabian horses and their groom, a bottle of attar of roses, two pieces of gold, five demijohns of rosewater, one Persian carpet, one gold ornament with a silk tassel, four camelhair shawls, one gold mounted sword, two large pearls, a string of 150 pearls, one gold plate, one bottle of diamonds, one gold snuffbox studded with precious stones and one box of mixed pearls and diamonds. Under the constitution the president is prohibited from accepting a personal gift from any foreign state or power, and as the sultan's gifts had arrived in New York and the commander of the Sultanea would not leave the country without presenting his master's offerings, an embarrassing complication was the outcome. The matter was finally referred to congress and after three months of correspondence, red tape, diplomacy and legislation the sultan's Christmas gifts were finally accepted, and then the president was put to the trouble of selling the horses, the shawls and the rosewater, while Uncle Sam was given the further trouble of finding a suitable place to store the remaining gifts and was afterward put to great expense in capturing the thief who carried off the entire collection in a bag and was only caught after a long chase.

Hunting Tigers in Persia.

The people of different countries have different ways of hunting the tiger. Traps, pitfalls, spring guns and nets are called into play. The Chinese are said to employ the mirror to lead the animal into a trap. The tiger's curiosity is excited when he sees his image in the glass, and he immediately proceeds to investigate the mystery. The Persian manner of conducting the hunt, as this is described in Chambers' Journal, is more sportsmanlike.

A spherical, strongly woven bamboo cage, with intervals of a few inches between the bars, is erected in some spot near the haunts of the tiger. This cage is firmly and securely picketed to the ground. Inside, a man provided with several sharp and powerful stabbing spears, or with a keen and pointed sword, takes his post at night, with a dog or a goat as his companion. There he wraps himself in his blanket and goes to sleep.

In due time the tiger makes his appearance, the man is waked by his four footed companion, and after vainly snuffing and prowling round the cage to find an entrance the tiger rears against the walls. The man instantly takes advantage of the brute's unprotected position, and with a resolute stroke of the spear or the sword puts him to death.

Cato Sells Not a Candidate.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., July 13.—Cato Sells of Vinton in an interview emphatically states he will not be a candidate before the coming Democratic state convention for the nomination of governor.

The term "infantry" soldiers originated with the Spanish and was first applied to the military force employed by an infante, or young Prince of Spain, to rescue his father from the Moors.

WINE OF CARDUI A LITTLE DOES MUCH. No tongue can tell what I have endured in the past ten years with my monthly sickness. While suffering untold agony, a friend called and recommended Wine of Cardui. I sent for a bottle, and Oh! what relief. After the first dose I began to feel better and have had no pain since. MRS. GRACE LAMPERE.

WINE OF CARDUI Wine of Cardui not only cures but it acts AT ONCE. Here is a case of ten years' standing, and yet one single dose made the sufferer feel better, and stopped the pain. The Wine goes straight to the seat of the trouble. It acts directly upon the menstrual and genital organs. Its action is not violent, and it does not force a result. It simply gives Nature that little assistance that the sufferer's system lacks. A single disorder in the feminine organs spreads many disorders all over the body, and when the Wine cures the source, all the other ills vanish as a matter of course. A woman can be her own physician and cure herself at home. Local examinations are largely things of the past—the obvious custom is no longer necessary. Wine of Cardui is the only perfectly safe and sure vegetable Wine made to-day for the cure of "female troubles".
