From the Minnesota letter which appears on another page it is evident that the students of that institution are rapidly getting into shape for the Nebraska game. One thing has been accomplished which Nebraska has yet to do and that is a good working organization of rooters.

Nebraska rooters have met from day to day for the past week. They have made a few spasmodic attempts at rooting. It is now four days from the day of the game and practically nothing has been accomplished in the way of rooting yet. If anything is to be done it must be done at once. The meeting to be held this morning in chapel will be a starter. From now until Friday daily rallies ought to be the order.

IN THE COLLEGE WORLD.

It is time for Stanford to enlarge her range of intercollegiate contests. The opportunities are at hand. Nebraska asks for debate, Washington is anxious for a football game, Michigan's eleven may come to the coast this winter, and an effort is being made to bring Princeton. We must overcome this tendency toward self-satisfied provincialism, which is indicated by the habit of looking upon nothing outside of a meet with California as worth our while. We wish to measure strength with the institutions of the east; we must cultivate the good will of our sister institutions on the coast, which will grow to be formidable rivals. Shall we improve our opportunities?—Palo Alto Daily.

A new octopus in the shape of a boarding house trust threatens the equanimity of the student body. Just whether it is desired to raise the price of board, or reduce the quality to a fixed daily portion, a la rote, does not appear. Verily, that man may count himself thrice blessed who can write, at the close of his college career, Veni, Vidi, Vici, Ann Arbor Boarding House Hash!—Michigan Daily News.

Deep gloom prevails in the ranks of the co-eds in Illinois colleges. From Champaign, Galesburg, Jacksonville, Chicago and Northwestern comes an indignant wall of protest. One of the college customs most sacred in the eyes of the college girl is the wearing over her breast of a jeweled emblem of a college secret society, presented by the young man of her favor and esteem. Now, the new law which has just received Gov. Yates' signature, prohibits persons from wearing the buttons, badges and emblems of secret societies and orders of which they are not members.—The Daily Californian.

Leland Stanford celebrated her tenth birthday last Tuesday. The ceremonies were conducted with considerable pomp. One feature of the program was the reading of speeches delivered on opening day by Senator Stanford, Dr. Jordan and others.

The old Nebraskan-Hesperian has been discontinued, and in its place is published the Daily Nebraskan, a four-column, four-page paper, which presents a very creditable appearance.—The Wooster Voice, 1901

A wild imitation of the annual fresh-soph rush was given last night on the campus and, later, down town. Notwithstanding the abatement of the athletic meeting in the gym, notices were posted early yesterday morning stating that the usual rush would occur at 8 o'clock near the cannon in front of the library building. From 8 until 10 the campus was filled with disorganized bands of freshmen and sophomores. The first year men greatly outnumbered their opponents and had everything their own way. Two charges were made on the cannon, and in both cases the freshmen were victorious. The second-year men put up a good fight, but only a small number were out, and '05" was triumphant.—Michigan Daily News.

BULLETINS FROM THE GAME.

The Daily Nebraskan has arranged to send frequent bulletins to Lincoln during the progress of the game Saturday. They will be displayed up-town in the show window of Ewing's Clothing Store and duplicate copies will be sent to the University campus where they will be announced and posted as rapidly as received.

FOOTBALL SONG.

The following addition to the list of football songs is presented today:
 Tune: Goo-Goo Eyes.
 A Minnesota man in a football game was playing 'round right end,
 A Nebraska girl in the rooters' row with plenty o' good looks to spare
 Looked down at him, with a silly stare.
 He started to hike around Cort's end,
 Ran into the Lincoln man,
 Who threw him back for 25 yards,
 across Minnesota's line
 And then our crowd began to howl.

Chorus—
 Just because she made that silly stare
 He thought he was a bloated billionaire;
 She was the best what is, but beat him
 In the biz,
 Just because she made that silly stare.

Dr. Bessey addressed the First Congregational church a week ago last Sunday on the subject "A scientific man's understanding of creation," and last Sunday he repeated it before the Second Congregational church on the request of the pastor.
