The Daily announces today the new board of editors which has been chosen from among the reporters and members of the journalism class. They are Miss Clara Glover, Dan Gutleben, Vernon Balle, R. A. McNown and R. T. Hill. These persons have been selected solely for merit in news gathering and general efficiency as shown by the work done this year. Immediately after the holidays several additional appointments will be made. Merit will be the sole test in these as in all others. The Daily desires to associate with it every student who has ability along the line of reporting or editing. Those who desire to do work of this kind should communicate with the management at once.

A bulletin giving in detail the plans of the debating board for the preliminary debates to be held later has been posted for the convenience of those interested. The board is especially desirous of calling the attention of those outside of the regular classes in debating to the features of the new plan. It is desired that all those who intend entering the contest, or who are interested in debating, communicate with the officer in charge or some member of the board as soon as possible for further details. The plan as outlined in today's Daily will insure a contest of the best minds in the University. It will be a contest in which any student may be proud to take part.

A NEW CONCEPTION OF MISSIONS.

This is what those, who have had the privilege of hearing the man who is now visiting the University say they have received.

Mr. Eddy has already held two meetings with students: one with the Volunteer Band, Tuesday afternoon in which he gave the members of the band solid, practical advice. He said that his strongest impression with regard to missionaries in India was that they were doing just such work there as they did during their college lives. He advised the broadest possible activities here and now for all who intend to be successful abroad.

Tuesday evening he met with the principal workers of the two associations, to talk over plans of work for the week. Through these workers he extends a most cordial invitation to all students to hear him and especially to all serious thinking men and women. This is a great opportunity for western students to come in contact with and co-operate with an eastern man of deep study, strong judgment, broad sympathies, high purposes and successful work among students. He is descended from a celebrated missionary family and is a brother of Sherwood Eddy, one of the strongest men in India today. He is a graduate of Yale and won distinction as a student. This is his first and probably only appearance in the west.

If there are those in the University who have a narrow view of missions or who do not believe in this department of the work of the church today, they will have an opportunity next Sunday of hearing this subject presented in an impartial scholarly way by one who has studied it from all standpoints, and it is safe to say, has the best knowledge of the subject of any person who has ever visited the University.

Mr. Eddy will be at the Y. M. C. A. rooms all day Saturday and will deem it a privilege to talk privately with all who wish information as to missionary work and mission fields and kindred questions.

The Associations wish to make this the last meeting of the year, one of the best and they take pleasure in inviting not only every student, but also the faculty, to spend this hour on Sunday afternoon in listening to an address which is worthy of every one's time and consideration.

The secondary colleges of the north-west are planning to form themselves into a conference similar to that of the "Big Nine." The colleges are Ames and Grinnell of Iowa, State University, Mitchell University and Agricultural college of South Dakota, Hamline, MacAllister and Carleton of Minnesota and the State University of North Dakota.

Yale defeated Princeton in the ninth annual debate between the two universities. The question debated was: Resolved, That the fifteenth amendment to the constitution has been justified. Yale had the negative.
