KLUB OFFERS PRIZE

KOSMET KLUB WILL REWARD AUTHOR OF THIS YEAR'S PLAY.

COMPETITION IS OPEN TO ALL

Members of Student Body Encouraged to Give Vent to New Ideas by Writing a Setting for Musical Comedy.

The Kosmet Klub will again open to University students its annual competition for the play to be produced on the evening of April 25 at the Oliver Theater. This idea was introduced last year in order to stimulate in the University the writing of musical compositions to be produced by the "klub."

In view of the fact that there are at present being written several operas to be submitted, and much interest is being shown by the University public at large, the "klub" will offer a prize of $75 for the best manuscript of a musical comedy written by students or faculty of the University, to be in the hands of the "klub" by January 1, 1913.

Rules for the contest will be few: The "klub" reserves the right in case of the acceptance of a manuscript to assume complete control of the same for producing purposes, to reduce, to add to, or to make such changes as it deems fit.

All manuscripts must be original and submitted in the name of the author.

The "klub" as a whole will sit as judges to determine the relative merits of manuscripts submitted, and its decision will be final. Announcement will be made of the accepted manuscript as soon thereafter as definite action is taken.

All unused manuscripts will be returned.

Last year the Kosmets produced "The Diplomat," which proved to be a decided success. It is felt that the success of last spring's production will provide quite an impetus for aspiring young authors. "The Diplomat" was written by Prof. R. D. Scott of the department of English literature, and the music for the same by C. L. Connor.

Several men have already begun work on manuscripts, and it is expected that quite a few will enter the contest.

The "klub" will hold its annual initiation banquet in the course of the next few weeks, and at that time definite plans will be laid for the performance next semester.

TEDDY REJECTED AT HARVARD

Straw Votes in Candidates' Colleges Show Student Sentiment.

Straw votes at Yale, the president's alma mater, give him a substantial lead over the other candidates. Woodrow Wilson is the overwhelming favorite at Princeton, and he is also ahead at Harvard, where Colonel Roosevelt received his education.

AG TEAM BESTS COTNER

Farm Team Takes Laurels From Opponents by 6-0 Score.

The football team representing the School of Agriculture played Cotner University second team Saturday afternoon and won the game 6-0. The team as a whole played good ball for such little practice, although there are many improvements impossible. Aker and Gould, tackles, and Rice, quarterback, who made the touchdown, showed up strong.

The team will play Temple High School and the University sophomore teams for practice games this week. Their next scheduled game is with Aurora High School. J. R. W.—

SENIORS TO DANCE FRIDAY

First Big Hop of the Year to Be Strictly Limited.

The senior hop will be given next Friday evening at the Lincoln Hotel with Hagensick's orchestra furnishing the music. The limit will be placed on the number admitted to the extent that only 125 couples will be allowed on the floor. In past years the word limited has been used about dances anything but such, but the chairman of the committee in charge of the dance, Jerome Forbes, declares that this hop will positively not be stuffed beyond the limit set. The committee consists of Jean Cain, Agnes Russell, Florence Schwake, Arthur George, and J. G. Hartwell.

The tickets for this dance are going fast, so those wishing to attend had best see some one of the committee within a day or two. —Sn.

FORESTERS HAVE POW-WOW

Sophs Football Team "Put It Over" the Freshies—Freshmen Win Cutting.

Of the forty or more foresters who attended the annual pow-wow Saturday, even the football players say they got their money's worth. The football game, which the sophomores won from the freshmen, was without doubt one of the most novel of the season. Though the freshmen played a good game, they had no chance with a bunch that used such names as dicotyledonae, pinus slexilis and pseudotsuga taxifolia for their signals. The score was 12-0. In the wood-cutting contest the freshmen showed a little deeper cut than the other classes, but the time was the same. After the big feed, which was prepared in camp style, the entire crowd went to the Oliver and attempted to rest, even if they could not put their feet on the railing. —W. G.

JUDGING SQUAD IN IOWA

Stock Team Travels to Out-State Barns to Get Pointers.

The squad for the stock judging team visited the horse importing barns of Wilson & Stream of Creston, Ia., and the barns of Hart Bros. of Osceola, Ia., Friday and Saturday of last week. A large number of good horses of the draft type were inspected and a class judged for practice work.

The men who made the trip were Posson, Wisenand, Pier, Raymond, Ritche and Schulte, with Prof. Ellis Rail as coach. Professor Rail says the men are progressing nicely, and he is much pleased with their work in Iowa. —J. R. W.

BOOSTER BUTTONS REDEEMED

Only Possible Way to Get Money Back to Present Button in Person.

Sufficient funds to take the band to Missouri were not raised through the sale of "booster buttons." The board wishes, therefore, to have the loyal Nebraskans who did contribute get their money back. The only plan by which the money can be refunded will be for the holders of buttons to present the button to the man from whom he bought it and the money will be refunded. —E. A. T.

PLANT FOR TESTING PRESSURE

Experimental Apparatus Installed in M. E. Building for Class Reference.

An experimental apparatus for testing pressures, velocities and horsepower of air moving in galvanized iron ducts has been built in the mechanical engineering department under the direction of Professor Hoffman. It will also be used in classroom demonstration in the course in heating and ventilating. —R. F. L.

TIGERS SHOW FIGHT

CORNHUSKER MACHINE WINS BY ONE TOUCHDOWN.

STIEHM'S MEN NOT IN TRIM

Score Made After a Brilliant Pass to Howard and a Quarterback Run by Towle—Purdy Hurt Toward Finish.

Nebraska's first game with a Missouri Valley Conference team was played on Rollins Field last Saturday and resulted in a 7 to 0 victory for the Cornhuskers. As the University Missourian says, it was the best game seen on that field for many years. The Tigers fought, and fought hard, for the entire game, but they lacked a scoring machine, that combination of winning plays and the ability to carry them out, that the Cornhuskers have worked up in the last few years.

The day was almost ideal for football, but the field was slippery, especially around the east goal, where the sod had been taken up for the baseball diamond. A number of times when it looked almost certain that a Cornhusker would get away on an end run his foot would slip in dodging the last opponents and he would fall.

The Tigers opened the game with a rush and pushed Nebraska into their own territory, where they stayed the first quarter. Missouri had three chances to score, but failed at the critical times, and from then on the game became a defensive one for them.

Nebraska's failure to run up a larger score is accounted for by a number of reasons besides the slippery field. The trip to Columbia is very long and disagreeable, over poor roads and with a number of changes. Some of the Nebraska players were still bothered by their injuries, and although they played hard, they couldn't take the chances with their weak limbs that they otherwise would have done.

The Cornhusker machine didn't get together and work right until near the end of the game. The line is often blamed when the team fails to make the necessary gains, but it requires the perfect working of both line and back-field for the plays to succeed. Some of the holes were not taken advantage of by the backs, and sometimes the hole was not opened up quickly enough so neither department can be criticized.

The Missouri team went into the game with a terrible determination to win, and the result of their hard fight is shown by the low score the Nebraska team made. With the help of the splendid cheering the rooters gave them they played the best game a Missouri team has played for quite a while, and Nebraska could not be expected to walk away with the game.

The Nebraska interference was much superior to that of the Missouri team, and made the end runs and runs from the punt formation possible.
