BOOK ON DEBATING.
potent sense little less graduates of the 'System' than of the University itself, to think of them as always having existed. So to think of them, however, is as great a mistake as to imagine them as having sprung like Athena, 'full armed from the heel of Zeus.' Like other highly organized activities, collegiate or otherwise, intercollegiate debate at Nebraska was not a creation but a growth.
Mr. Raymond concludes with the relation of the Nebraska High-School Debating to the commonwealth:

"More remarkable, however, than any strictly University phase of the 'System's' development has been its growth throughout the state. Of this growth the most striking feature—and one unique not only in the Middle-West but throughout the country as well—is the Nebraska High-School Debating League. Organized by Professor Fogg with a membership of only thirty schools, it has grown within five years to a membership of seventy-five,—by far the largest league of the kind in the United States.

"The growth of the league is the last and the conclusive word on the history of Intercollegiate Debate at Nebraska. As a means of bringing the University into touch with its constituency, and of carrying the University discipline to the people of the state, the relation of the 'System' to the progress of the institution is direct and vital. Of greater value, however, and of wider significance, is its contribution, through the trained minds and quickened imaginations of hundreds of young citizens, to the material and moral upbuilding of the State itself. Straight thought, and ability to distinguish the essential from the non-essential,—these, in the broader culture which is part of Nebraska's future, must be necessary ingredients; and these are the 'System's' permanent contribution to the greatness of the Commonwealth."

The College Book Store, The Co-op and Harry Porter's. Next week when the Regent's Book Store is open it will doubtless be on sale there also. The price of this valuable history is but fifty cents.

A more complete resume of the book will be given in Monday's paper as the matter is all of general university interest and well worth the attention of all Nebraskans.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

There are a few "N" books remaining at the desk and those who have not secured copies should do so at once. There were 1,000 printed this year—200 more than last year—and they are nearly gone.

A telephone booth is being installed for the use of the students and will be the only one on the campus.

About one hundred students gathered last evening in the reception room at the Y. M. C. A. The old students were there to become acquainted with the new ones and to make them acquainted with each other. A few students afforded much amusement for the crowd by their capers on the initiation program.

The employment bureau has secured employment for fifty-five men so far this year and many more will be taken care of soon. Mr. Simmons has charge of this work and was on the ground two weeks before the opening of school getting things rounded into shape.

All freshman girls who are going to the Chancellor's Reception, Saturday night, September 19, stop at the Y. W. C. A. room in the Temple and upperclassmen will conduct you over and introduce you. Groups of girls will go every few minutes, so don't be bashful.

Lincoln has fine churches. Don't fail to go to the church of your denomination next Sunday morning.

Smart Clothes for Young Men!

Style Distinction Is Combined With Moderate Cost

They're the kind of clothes that give a young fellow the confidence to meet any situation which springs from a knowledge of being well dressed. The new fall models, shown here, have that "dash" and air of distinctiveness in style that will appeal to you, especially if you're a "stickler for smartness" in your clothes, for the models, the colorings—in fact every detail has been planned to meet the requirements of college men. From the best known tailors in America come the new
