Wilson wins.

We take pleasure in announcing to our many readers, that the limerick, published in Tuesday's issue of the Nebraskan, has been completed to our entire satisfaction. As it now stands, the limerick reads thus:

A fan bet his wad, and he lost on
The team that is playing with Boston.
Now fierce he behaves,
And raves at the Braves
And also the team he was crossed on.

Out of some forty-one answers received, this one comes nearest meeting with our critical approval.

We are also happy to inform the expectant public that the genius whose brilliant effort has been crowned with success is none other than the already famous Everett C. Wilson, who is a prominent member of the Law School Bar, and a checker player of great renown.

When the prize money was handed over to Mr. Wilson, his deep brindle eyes were seen to glow with modest pride. After carefully biting each coin, he condescended to discuss the facts and conditions connected with the coming of the glorious inspiration that resulted in the winning line: "I don't know how I done it," he said. "I just took and done it, that's all they was to it."

When we asked Mr. Wilson to what use he expected to put his newly acquired fortune, he smiled enigmatically, like a Cheshire cat, but refused to inform us. Quaint old Dame Rumor has it, however, that he expects to use the money to fit up a cozy little bungalow, out in the suburbs.

Mr. Wilson also asserted that President Wilson is, so far as he knows, no relative of his, notwithstanding their names are spelled exactly the same.

town of Chatham alone 1,000 women were made widows by the sinking of three British cruisers.

A reception was given by the alumni of the University Medical College at Omaha on Monday evening, in connection with the fifth annual convention of the graduates, known as "alumni week" in Omaha. On Tuesday evening the Medics held a "Monte Carlo" night at a bowling and pool parlor. Dr. L. W. Morseman of Omaha was awarded a hypodermic set for winning the largest amount of "stage money." He amassed a fortune of $26,000. On Thursday evening a banquet was held at the University Club, Dr. A. C. Cotton of Chicago and Dr. W. H. Cameron of Pittsburg being the guests of honor.

The chaperone and two members of Pi Beta Phi were victimized by someone with a perverted sense of humor Tuesday night. The practical "joker" evidently found enjoyment in causing expense and trouble. A telephone message purporting to come from the Western Union Telegraph Company reached the sorority house during the evening. The man who phoned said that a message for the sorority had been received from the conductor of Burlington train No. 10, saying that a member of Pi Phi who was ill would arrive in Lincoln on his train. The chaperone and two of the girls secured a cab and went to the depot shortly before the train was due at midnight. They discovered that no such message had been received from a conductor and returned to the chapter house, leaving a request that they should be summoned if one of their girls in need of assistance should arrive. The conclusion that the purported message was a fake was verified on the arrival of the train.

C. E.'s Hold Meeting.

The Civil Engineering Society held its first meeting of the year last Thursday evening. The society was entertained by R. P. Wagner, who gave a very interesting as well as instructive talk on engineering in the small towns. The remarkably large attendance speaks well for a very enthusiastic year.

After the program a short business meeting was held. F. Campbell was elected secretary to take the place of M. Garrett, who resigned.

The following committees were appointed:

Program Committee: W. R. Bauman chairman, E. Y. Grape, A. L. Nelson.

Membership Committee: F. C. Albert chairman, R. M. Young.

Leona Waite, Pianist, Phone L-8298.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

HOLDS BIG MEETING

Olympic Question Received Warmly—
Various Committees Will be Announced Soon.

The Sophomore class meeting yesterday morning was well attended. The election of minor officers was the first matter to be discussed and the following members were finally chosen:

Vice President, Margaret E. Rustin.
Secretary, Ruth Whitmore.

Treasurer, Raymond J. Saunders.
Sergeant at Arms, Harry Marsh.

The Olympic question was warmly received by those present. It is understood that there will be a number of new events. The class losing the free-for-all will still have a chance as the minor events will count more than a half of the points. Heretofore the class losing this event was the loser of the day. Each one of the class has been urged to do his or her part to get all of the members out. The various committees appointed by President Harney will be announced shortly. The Sophomore cap question was dropped but on the other hand the class is desirous that this year each member of the Freshman class be compelled to wear the one designated for them.
