A LOFTY SPIRIT

Be noble! and the nobleness that lies In other men, sleeping, but never dead, Will rise in majesty to meet thine own.

-Lowell.

We are for woman suffrage.

And you will be if you attend the mass meeting Tuesday night.

A "P. B. K." is made in the freshman year. And, remember, it is one of the big honors in school.

TOASTS.

Last year more than two hundred million toasts were delivered. Indications are that owing to the unprecedented growth of forum clubs, social service organizations, and honorary fraternities the number this year will be forty million more.

One of our friends, if elected, has promised to introduce in the Legislature a bill for regulating after-dinner speeches. This bill will provide that any one who intentionally and with evil intent makes a twenty-five minute toast shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to an indeterminate sentence of from one to three years.

This is drastic, but conditions warrant it. A man who will deliberately take advantage of a polite invitation to say a few words and use the chance to make other people hear his voice ought in some way to be made to feel the displeasure of society. It is no small matter to be guilty of wasting the time of busy University people.

The merit of an after-noon speech depends on its brevity. Two-minute toasts are received with enthusiasm. A ten-minute speech can be made without causing hard feeling. But a twenty-minute after-dinner speech can separate more friends and give rise to more sinful thoughts of violence than the Y. M., C. A. can eradicate in six months. If you want to be popular as a speaker, be brief and crisp and ment of the candidacy of Chief Justice Reese for re-election to his present position. I am openly and publicly for him in this campaign and have no conditions or qualifications to impose upon my views. My belief and confidence in him and his worth as an official is formed after having watched closely his career and decisions while on the supreme bench years ago and during the term of his present incumbency. There is usually a right side and a wrong side, both in law and in good onscience, to most of the many which are presented to the supreme court for determination. It is my sincere belief that Chief Justice Reese, with rare exception, has been found casting his influence and rendering his decisions on the right side. I believe his very nature, thought, and training compels him to such course, and will always so do. The courage and independence with which he performs his duties challenge admiration and strengthen the conviction that he is usually right because his nature will not permit him to be wrong. It is encouraging to know that these views seem generally shared alike by both the members of the bar of this state and the public generally.

It was my good fortune to attend the State University Law School when Judge Reese was its Dean. Of course, I came to know him to an extent that might not otherwise have been possible, anyhow, thoroughly, Everybody liked him and could not help but like him. In the most natural way and in the most agreeable manner he obtained results from his classes and imparted and impressed information and instruction, not likely in any other way. Class work under him was looked forward to with positive pleasure and every student felt at home and at ease, simply a riot of good fellowship. But no one's conscience or pride would permit him to become a failure or a dullard in the eye of the Dean. With him and his work in the classes, there was absent the usual student's reign of terror, 'Big I and little you." Everywhere, at all times, and under all circumstances, Judge Reese is the same genial, inspiring, good soul. I most sincerely believe that his candidacy is not opposed by a single student of his, but on the contrary, is actively espoused. Like all truly big personages, the biggest and best of Judge Reese, Dean Reese and Chief Justice Reese is M. B. Reese, the man. I am sincerely working, wishing and hoping for his success in this campaign.

Sincerely yours, W. C. LAMBERT, First Assistant City Attorney of

But Not Alone.

There is in Brooklyn a young, recently married couple who have been having the usual half pathetic and wholly amusing experiences incident to somewhat limited means and total inexperience. Last Saturday, there was a hitch in the delivery of the marketing, and Sunday found them with a practically empty larder. When dinner time came the young wife burst into tears.

"Not a thing in this house for a dog to eat! I am going home to mamma." "Oh, this is horrible!" she wept.

"If you don't mind dear," exclaimed the husband, as he visibly brightened and reached for his hat, "I'll go with you!"-Chicago News.

The Excuse.

In an argument against vivisection. Euston Rogers, a Denver scientist,

"The champions of vivisection have about as much logic as the youngster in the garden.

"'Oh, you cruel child!' a lady said to a youngster in a garden, 'How could you have the heart to cut that worm in two?"

"Well, it-it looked so lonesome," the youngster answered."
