Second thoughts, they say, are best.—Dryden.

Why is it that the "good fellow" nearly always leans toward dissipation? If it isn't whiskey, it is chorus girls or loud clothes.

A man with a long list of wrongs quite often doesn't amount to much. Either the wrongs are imaginary, or the victim is too lazy or thick-headed to remedy them.

THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT.

No one who has looked over the situation carefully doubts but that Congress will eventually submit to the states for ratification an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor as a beverage. Some believe such an amendment will pass this coming session. It would evoke little surprise. The Webb Bill went through with a whoop over President Taft's veto.

Once submitted the battle is on in the states. Once a state ratifies it that closes the conflict in that state. That action by the legislature cannot be repealed. But if the state rejects the amendment, that only invites another fight. Finally the Drys are bound to win. Nine legislatures in succession may reject the amendment, but when a tenth one ratifies it, the state is listed as favorable.

It cannot be questioned but that the liquor traffic is national in its organization and influence. It is a federal evil requiring national jurisdiction and treatment. In this age of fast express and automobiles it is nigh near a hopeless task to have Prohibition effectively prohibit without the aid of federal authority.

THE FORUM

To the Editor:

Yesterday's Daily Nebraskan contained an item headed "Tramps Will Start Soon Toward the East." It is well to be loyal to the best team in the country and to cheer it to victory. But the team should not feel complimented to be cheered on by a gang of "bums." To ride the rods, the cowcatcher or the tops of cars may be a nifty thing to do, but it is a most asinine stunt. It reflects no credit to the University, to the team or to the "bum" himself.

An accident, resulting in loss of life or limb, is bound to occur if the practice is continued. The people of the state will then condemn the University authorities for not having taken drastic action to prevent overzealous but hairbrained youths from taking such chances. But the student body, collectively and individually, should consider itself and himself guilty, in a measure, when the expected accident comes, if no sentiment against "bumming" is promulgated. The Daily Nebraskan puts itself on record as opposed to this evil.

We have not touched, as yet, on the ethics of "bumming." We have no great love for the railroads, although they should be treated fairly. We have greater concern for the ethical welfare of the student, who lowers himself in his own self-respect and in the opinion of his fellows when he "bums."

And another matter is suggested, as long as we have started moralizing. The mean and vicious practice of "taking" blankets, towels, brushes and combs from the Pullman is nothing but plain thieving, pure and simple. The student who forgets that fact and steals should be maintained in a home for feeble minded; there is another institution suited to the needs of the person who steals and knows he steals. Besides, the Athletic Association has to pay for stuff stolen. W. J. M.

COUPLAND LECTURES.

one of the choicest privileges that I have enjoyed has been the privilege of association with the faculty, not only out here but down town also. I have gotten an inspiration that will help me as long as I live. I shall always have an intense desire to assist in every way possible in the development of the university. I want to congratulate the students upon the privilege they have of living on a campus that will be one of the most beautiful in the country. I have brought my good friend, Mr. Miller, and I hope he will permit me to bequeath to him all my ideas and that this campus here shall have the reputation of being second to none in the country. * * *

"I bid you adieu, and I hope every one of you will be successful in whatever vocation you choose, that wherever you go what you have received here will be a help to you, and that you will be useful men and women."

Regent-elect Miller was not introduced and did not speak to the students at his own request.

Following Regent Coupland's talk, Principal Harry E. Bradford, of the School of Agriculture paid a tribute to Regent Coupland and called on Dean Burnett for a few remarks.

Dean Burnett said: "I had no thought of saying anything to you, and I shall not make a speech at this time. I would, however, consider it a privilege to say to our Regent Coupland, as Principal Bradford has said, that we appreciate beyond our power to express his services for the institution during the period he has officially connected with it. I hope that his advice and counsel will be given us in the future as in the past in our effort to build a greater institution, and I feel sure that he will give that service."

VESPER SERVICE PROGRAM.

Consister of a Song and a Talk—Mrs. Candy Made an Impressive Talk to the Girls.

The vesper service program last night consisted of a solo by Miss Slama and an intimate talk by Mrs. Candy.

Announcements were made concerning the association calendars, Japanese pictures and account books which are on sale in the association rooms. The Y. W. C. A. is planning to send several baskets to the poor. All who have contributions are urged to let the association know at once.

Mrs. Candy's talk centered about the joy of knowing Christ intimately. She made many helpful suggestions, making a strong appeal to every girl present to make the most of her opportunities.
