THE FIFTH CURTAIN

With this issue our responsibility as editor-in-chief ends. We have enjoyed the work immensely. There is a peculiar fascination in occupying a place where whatever comes into your mind you can put down in print. We extend to the incoming editor and his staff the best wishes of the University public.

A STEP FORWARD

The announcement of two new courses in practical journalism for the second semester is welcome news to a large group of students who have been waiting for an opportunity to get practical training in newspaper work.

In bringing this about the journalistic fraternity, Sigma Delta Chi, believes that it has accomplished something very substantial for the University.

"Most men go into journalism," wrote W. H. Page of the World's Work, "at a disadvantage because they think they can write, because they have written academic 'themes,' and taken courses in literature; and they are impatient with the long apprenticeship they must serve." Why the apprenticeship? Because, say the editors, the average college graduate is not able to write clear, direct and interesting newspaper style. On the contrary he is predisposed to write a subject to its dregs, sprawl over inordinate space, and cover up significant facts with dry detail.

It is to be hoped that all who write for University publications will take advantage of this opportunity to get expert training. If they do, we may with some confidence look for a general pulling up of the tone and quality of the news side of the Daily Nebraskan.

UNIVERSITY MIXER

are several other University functions scheduled for that night and a large number of students will have gone home, nevertheless a large crowd is expected and is being prepared for.

As usual, there will be entertainment of every sort, although just what this will be the committee is reserving until that night. The work of this committee will be unusually hard owing to the examinations and registration during next week but the spirit shown by them is admirable and it seems impossible that anyone could resist an entertainment arranged by such mixer enthusiasts.

The following committee is requested to meet in Miss Graham's office promptly at 5 o'clock, Friday, January 22:

- Carolyn Funke.
- Alice Miller.
- Mildred Peery.
- Ethel Rathkey.
- Veva Young.
- William Bauman.
- H. H. Goetze.
- B. J. Novotny.
- E. W. Schaufelberger.
- Burke Taylor.

Miss Grace Munson and Professor Clarence Frankforter have been asked to meet with them as faculty advisers.

Since this is the last issue of the Daily Nebraskan until the second semester all further announcements will be made on the bulletin boards, so do not fail to watch them.

The price of admission will be, as usual, twenty-five cents and a good time—but of course everyone knows about the good times to be had at the mixers.

MANY a feller that looks like a fool on Broadway is a considerable genius on a farm—an' ef it warn't for th' farms thar'd be dern few Broadways.

The "back-to-nature" movement grows stronger daily—in the use of VELVET, one of nature's greatest gifts to man—the Smoothest Smoking Tobacco. 10c tins and 5c metal-lined bags.
