

JUNIOR PLAY READY

PRODUCTION WILL UPHOLD THE UNIVERSITY STANDARD

PLOT VERY FULL OF COMEDY

Past and Present Cleverly Linked in the Development of the Plot—
Cast is Well Prepared
—March 19 is Date

The Junior play, which is to be given Friday night, will hold up the dramatic standard of University productions this year.

The plot is full of comedy and very interesting. Elspeth, the heroine, imagines that the old days were much more romantic than the present ones and she wishes she had lived then. Her wish is granted but instead of finding her friends, the princes and princesses, she had imagined them, she finds that they are scrubwomen and gypsies. She herself is a bar maid much to her deep disgust. The second and third acts carry her through several days of life in 1603 and she is only too glad to wake up in 1903 again. There are several funny scenes in the last act when she attempts to tell her friends what poor characters they were three hundred years before.

The play will be given in good shape in spite of the fact that the cast has had only three weeks practice. There have been two rehearsals in the Oliver theatre and more are scheduled this week to put on the finishing touches. Everybody will be discussing the play next week and no one can afford to be out of the conversation.

Football Coach Advises Rowing

Strong in the belief that rowing is a good way to build up football material, Lieutenant Ingram, head coach of the navy squad, has advised all who expect to try out for football to take up rowing this spring. His recommendations were especially directed to those expecting to be candidates for center and guard positions.

MR. F. RIEBEL WILL ADDRESS ENGINEERS

"Modern Applications of Electrical Apparatus in Steel Mills," Subject Wednesday Evening

The meeting of the Engineering Society occurs in M. E. 206, on Wednesday at 7:30. The subject announced is "Modern Applications of Electrical Apparatus in Steel Mills." It will be illustrated by lantern slides and moving picture films. These problems are of immense importance today and installation in this line may be said to have only begun. There are tremendous possibilities beyond the present practice.

The speaker is Mr. F. Riebel Jr., of Omaha. He is the manager of the district office of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and will present data and information coming from the very heart of the steel industry, Pittsburgh. The discussion will therefore be both authoritative and up-to-date.

Mr. Riebel is a 1904 man of Purdue University and has had a very active engineering experience since his graduation.

Gymnasium Exhibition

The tenth annual gymnasium exhibition of the physical training classes is to be held, together with a Mixer, in the Armory and Memorial Hall, Saturday, beginning at 2 o'clock. The program will open with the exhibition for which the men and women have been training hard for many months. All the physical training classes of the University will take part in the various drills and other kinds of work. At 3:30 o'clock the Mixer will begin. A four-piece orchestra has been secured, and dancing may be enjoyed until 6 o'clock. An admission of 25 cents is to be charged to defray expenses, this charge covering both of the attractions.

DINNER GIVEN FOR MISS SARA ARNOLD

Dean of Simmons College Entertained Friday at Lincoln Hotel—Reception in Art Hall

Miss Sara Louise Arnold, Dean of Simmons College, who spent the week end in this city was entertained by a dinner at the Lincoln Hotel last Friday. A reception was given in her honor in Art Hall at 8 o'clock Friday evening, enabling the girls of the Home Economics department, who were especially interested in her and her work, to become better acquainted.

ROBINS AT TEMPLE

LAST LECTURE BY RAYMOND
ROBINS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

SEVEN HUNDRED PRESENT

"Mastery" Declared to be the Secret
Power of His Life—Spoke of Master Motives That Guide
in Youth

The last of the Raymond Robins series of lectures was given Sunday afternoon to seven hundred students at the Temple Theatre. The subject of the address was "Mastery, the Secret of Power"—a simple straight story of his own life.

He related how in his life there had been three master motives. In his youth he had desired money, had worked hard, and made money. Later he discovered that money was not everything and decided to become a lawyer. After dreary years of hard work he was admitted to the bar and went to San Francisco. Here he made a reputation as an excellent lawyer but one day while standing on Market street he became so impressed with the

Columbia

The new budget of the university totals $3,897,350. This is Columbia's largest budget, and exceeds that ever made at any university.—The Daily Cardinal.

We Can't Talk From Experience
In a recent editorial the Harvard Crimson objects to the large number of "tag days" to which the students have been subjected this year. To be sure, Harvard men are most willing to contribute generously toward a good cause, but they feel that "they cannot be expected to submit very cheerfully to a perpetual campaign of flagging, tagging and sand-bagging by persistent females."

NASMYTH ADDRESSES WORLD POLITY CLUB

George W. Nasmyth of Carnegie Endowment for Peace Spoke Last Night

"Millions of young men are sacrificing their lives in the trenches of Europe on account of wrong ideas," said Dr. Geo. W. Nasmyth, of Harvard University, at the meeting of the World Polity Club, at Nebraska University last night. "These wrong ideas have been developed chiefly in the Universities of Europe, and we must look
