Huskies Work Smooth But Slow—
Freshmen Buck Scrubs—Work
Hard in Preparation For
Notre Dame Game

Mr. Stiehm and his pupils were seen wending their way toward the M street park yesterday afternoon and those who are able to judge are of the opinion that they reached that place in safety.

During their sojourn in the park they engaged in a very enthusiastic signal practice after which the scrubs held down the side lines while the rest scrimmaged around over the field to the delight of seven spectators. Our reporter had to play a game of pool and consequently was not an eye witness of the afternoon's practice but an extract from a conversation held with Coach Stiehm may give the reader an idea of the Huskers stack-up.

The reporter opened the conversation by taking his finger out of his mouth, wiping it on his coat sleeve and saying:

"Mr. Stiehm, er—a—well—what was the practice like this afternoon?"

"Signal practice and scrimmage," returned the coach warily.

"That is practice running signals and bucking each other, you mean?"

"Yes."

"Well—a—what are you trying to develop this week?"

"A little more snap and punch to the plays."

"Do you think we'll win next Saturday's game?"

"Impossible to tell. Washburn has a stronger squad than usual this year."

"Do you think football is a better muscle developer than dancing?"

"Yes."

"Do you think Dick Rutherford will ever be as good an orator as he is a football player?"

"Perhaps."

The reporter then turned the conversation to the weather and chances of a crop next year after which they parted company.

Perhaps we are prejudiced in favor of the Huskers, although we try to remain neutral, but we feel a little more confident of victory every time we see them play.

The Cornhusker has two scalps dangling from his belt, and already his terrible war cry resounds in the timid Washburn camp while far away in the village of Notre Dame the warriors are buckling on their leggings and stringing their bows for war.

The line showed better form last Saturday. The squad is worked into shape. Now, speed is the necessary article. Snap, pep, the ability to remain on their toes through twelve minutes of work. Stiehm is feeding his line on electricity and gunpowder this week and the next time they enter the field it's doubtful whether they will stop when they reach the goal if they once get going good.

Dr. Maxey will be present at the Notre Dame game it is officially announced.

MILITARY MIXER FRIDAY

Novel Features Assured—Band Concert Preliminary to the Program

Preparations for the second all-University Mixer, to be held in the Armory on Friday, October 15, under the auspices of the Military department, are well under way. One of the special features will be a preliminary concert by the Military band. The film entitled "The Army at Work" has already been secured for the occasion.

Refreshments will be served in a novel way. A bugler will sound the army mess call, whereupon Red Cross nurses will serve out the "eats" from a khaki tent.

Scott's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing, and the Cadet band will give several good numbers.

Scholarship Better

University men, in spite of a poor record the first semester, did the best scholastic work in the history of the University the second semester last year, according to the scholarship report compiled by Dean Engberg. The scholastic standing of the women was high both semesters, and their average surpassed that of the men, although they carried fewer hours of work. Dean Engberg attributes the poor work of the men to an unusual fondness for light amusement, that gave way the second part of the year to a seriousness of purpose that accomplished fine results.

Kearney Club Officers

The Kearney Club held a meeting in the Y. W. C. A. room of the Temple at 8:15 o'clock last Friday night. The following officers were elected:

Harry Magnuson, president.
Miss Stevenson, vice president.
Donald Dow, secretary and treasurer.

CATHOLIC STUDENTS MEET

Was Held in Music Hall—Father O'Laughlin Presided—Next Meeting November 7

The Catholic Students' Club held its first meeting of the year yesterday afternoon in Music Hall. In the absence of Bishop Tihen, Father O'Laughlin presided. After several musical selections by the Misses O'Shea, Merrick and Schulte, a short business session was held. There will be two meetings each month for Bible study; one on Sunday and one on some week evening. Social events will be held in addition to these. The next meeting will be held on Sunday afternoon, November 7.

"KNOW THE UNIVERSITY"

Convocation Will Be Held in Mechanical Engineering Building—Dean Stout in Charge

The second in the series of "Know the University" convocations will be held in the Mechanical Engineering building today at 11 o'clock when Dean O. V. P. Stout will conduct the crowd through the haunts of the engineering students.

The Mechanical Engineering building is in the northwest corner of the campus. The cut above shows the south entrance. In this building most of the engineering laboratories are located and these are to be opened to the students, who will receive first-hand information in regard to their working, from the head of the Engineering colleges.

Mr. Archie Kautz who has been serving during the summer on the United States Geological Survey has just been elected as geologist in a large oil-producing company in Oklahoma.

FIRST MUSICAL CONVOCATION

Thursday's Program the "Seventh Beethoven Symphony"—Prof. Dann to Give Interpretations

Thursday, the "Seventh Beethoven Symphony," the first of the musical numbers of convocation will be given. This year symphonic poems and overtures, as well as symphonies will be played by Mrs. Raymond and the string quartet.

Prof. William F. Dann gave last Saturday at 5 o'clock piano interpretations of the three overtures which are to be played Thursday at convocation. They were "Overture to der Freischutz," Weher; "Overture to Marriage of Figaro," Mozart; "Egmont Overture," Beethoven.

Next Saturday, Prof. Dann will give a similar discussion of the program for next week, which will be "The First Movement of the Eighth Beethoven Symphony."

Comus Club Had Dance

The Comus club gave their first dance this season in Music hall Saturday evening. Thirty couples attended, with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bennett acting as chaperones. Music was furnished by Roeder's orchestra. The Comus club, which is a purely social organization, gives dancing parties each month. Definite arrangements for the next dance will be announced later.

COMMERCIAL CLUB SMOKER

One Hundred University Members Present—Music by the University Band

Over 100 students of commerce had a very successful "smoker" at the Lincoln Commercial club building Saturday night at 6 o'clock. The Commercial club started operations for the year with a great burst of enthusiasm.

W. K. Miller, president of the society presided, and short talks were given by Professors J. E. Le Rossignol, G. A. Stevens and G. O. Virtue, Mr. Boskirk, Richard Koupal and Everett Althouse.

Good music was furnished by the University band. Refreshments consisting of cider and doughnuts were served.

Talk on Estes Park

Estes Park Conference will be the subject at vespers in the Y. W. C. A. rooms at 5 o'clock today. Mrs. Evangeline Long Pope will sing.

Estes Park is the Western Student conference grounds, and a more beautiful spot one would have trouble to find. Both the Young Women's and the Young Men's Christian associations spend ten days there every summer and go away so filled with the beauties and wonders of nature and the inspiration and enthusiasm of the numerous speakers that life looks different to them.

Come and learn something of this wonderful place.

Prominent Social Workers

Mrs. Lela Stetlee Hollingworth, '06, is now a prominent social worker in New York. Since moving to Columbia University with her husband, H. L. Hollingworth, '07, she has taken a degree in sociology and has done much practical work. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

THE GROUND BEING BROKEN

New Bessey Building Starts—Will Cover Space Between Twelfth and Thirteenth Facing U

The ground for the new Bessey building has been staked out and the trees are being grubbed out today. It will be necessary to move one more house and a large amount of rubbish before the real work can be begun this week. The new building will cover almost the entire vacant space between Twelfth and Thirteenth facing U street. The contract allows one hundred twenty working days for finishing the building so it should be in readiness for classes at the beginning of school next fall.

NORTHRUP'S DEATH SHOCKS STUDENTS

YOUNG UNIVERSITY GRADUATE PASSED AWAY SUNDAY

PROMINENT IN UNIVERSITY

Wrote Kosmet Klub Lyrics—Member of Many Organizations—His Fraternity Brothers Will Attend Funeral Together

Word was received in Lincoln Sunday of the death of Ralph Northrup, a member of the 1915 graduating class at the University of Nebraska and a leader in university activities during his four years' attendance there. The news came as a shock to his friends and acquaintances in Lincoln. His death, due to kidney trouble, occurred Sunday morning at the home of his parents, 6125 Florence boulevard, Omaha, after a brief illness. He was twenty-four years old.

Mr. Northrup entered the university in the fall of 1910 as a graduate of South Omaha high school. He became a member of the Silver Lynx fraternity, of the Dramatic and Kosmet clubs, Helmet and Quill, Sigma Delta Chi, the honorary journalistic fraternity, and the Innocent society. In his Sophomore year he was one of the originators of the Awgwan, a semi-monthly humorous magazine. He was the first managing editor of the publication and in 1913 became editor-in-chief.

He was a keen student of the drama and was regarded as one of the most promising playwrights the university ever turned out. He wrote the lyrics for the 1914 Kosmet Klub production, "El President," and wrote the entire production, "The Easy Mark," given in 1915. He was president of the Kosmet Klub in 1915. He stood for the higher things in drama and urged the production by the Dramatic club of plays of the Ibsen type. He was influential in establishing the school of drama in the university.

After leaving school he accepted a reporter position on the Omaha World-Herald. At this time he confided to a friend that he wished to start at the very bottom in the game of journalism, and that no one should ever hear from him that he was a graduate of a university. After working for the Herald a few weeks he accepted a position as associate editor of the Excelsior, of which he was virtually managing editor at the time of his death. He also had plans under way for an Ak-Sar-Ben production. Those who knew him predicted a brilliant literary career.

The funeral will be held this afternoon from his home at 6125 Florence Boulevard. His fraternity brothers in Lincoln will attend in a body.

Prehistoric Tooth Received

A very prehistoric molar tooth of the Imperial mammoth, Elephas imperator, was donated to the museum by W. G. Springer and his son, Marwin L. Springer, University of Nebraska. It was found in a sand pit near Oxford, Furnas county. The Imperial mammoths are characterized by their great size and by teeth having but 16 to 18 ridges, whereas the other mammoths have from 24 to 26 and even 28 ridges.
