on points. Bruce and Welch boxed, but Bruce's shoulder was dislocated early in the match and he was unable to continue, forfeiting to Welch. Welch then defeated Fletcher, earning the right to represent the Freshmen in the light-weight boxing event. The heavyweight boxing contest was between Parks and Trenchard, the former winning on a clean knockout in about two minutes. It was a most uneven contest.

In the lightweight wrestling division a number of good men presented themselves. Glen Hopkins and Shell Grant were the first to wrestle, Grant winning his fall in less than two minutes. Berlin and Jack were then matched against each other, Jack winning. Jack and Grant then wrestled in the finals, one of the best matches of the evening. Jack won the decision on a fall. There were but two entries in the heavyweight wrestling class, Paul Dobson and J. M. Pickett. After about twenty minutes of the hardest kind of wrestling, the match was awarded to Pickett on points.

When interviewed by a reporter, Michael Nolan, president of the Freshman class, made the following statement: "Success for the Freshmen will depend on every Freshman turning out Saturday morning of the Olympics at 9 o'clock to do his part."
