PROHIBITION TO BE ORGANIZED

DISTRICT SECRETARY OF THE SOCIETY WILL SPEAK

ORATORICAL PRIZES OFFERED

Organization to Take Place November 9—A Person is to Be Chosen to Represent the University in the Contests

The local branch of the Intercollegiate Prohibition association will be organized on November 9 in the Temple theatre, at which time Mr. Burgstaller, district secretary of the association, will speak in behalf of the prohibition movement.

There will be a great opportunity for students interested in public speaking as well as those who take an interest in the prohibition movement in and of itself. Students who are capable of speaking in public and of conducting personal interviews will be chosen from this organization to take part in the prohibition campaign next summer and autumn. The contest for choosing a person to represent the University in the various contests of the Association will be held about the first of April.

The purpose of the association is not merely to organize but to make a thorough study of the liquor problem in its civic, social and economic aspects, and to prepare for service in the settlement of the liquor question.

Last year 131 colleges reported systematic study of the liquor problems. Six hundred and thirty-five students in 185 colleges competed in the various prohibition oratorical contests. One thousand, two hundred original prohibition orations were written last year and gave many times an educational force of much advantage.

A contest with three prizes—$50, $25 and $10—will be held about the middle of January. Those desiring to take part in this contest must hand in their names and subjects before December 1, to George I. Craven. Six persons have already handed in their names.

PLAN A MATHEMATICAL CLUB

Forty Students Have Accepted—Meeting to Be Held Thursday—Dean Davis to Speak

In order to stimulate an interest in mathematics and to provide for the consideration of some of the many and varied applications of mathematics which cannot be taken up in the class room, plans have been perfected for the organization of a mathematical club. Membership in the club will be limited to those who have shown proficiency in mathematics.

Of about fifty students nominated, to membership, forty have accepted. The enthusiasm shown by the elected members assures the success of the organization.

The first meeting will be held in the faculty room of the Temple on Thursday evening, Oct. 28, at 7:30 o'clock. Short talks by members of the department will be given, followed by a discussion of plans for the year. The meeting will be closed with a brief address by Dean Davis.

THE DAM(E) THAT FAILED

CAPT. YATES AT PLATTSBURG

Former Commandant Instructed in Summer Camps Held in East—Camp Life Reviewed

Plattsburg camp, at Plattsburg, N. Y., where many college and business men were instructed in military maneuvers, was visited by Capt. Yates while on duty with the militia of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania this summer.

There were three camps, each of which lasted a month. The first camp, composed of college men, numbered about 1,400, and the other two had about 2,000 men under training.

The morning, from 6 o'clock until noon, was spent in close and extended order. The afternoon, from 1 to 4:30 o'clock, was spent in studying either cavalry, artillery or engineering work. Then the men had a half hour to swim before parade. In the evenings the men listened to an hour and half lecture. This routine was interspersed with maneuvers in which the men acted in conjunction with a brigade of regular soldiers.

The camp meant a great deal of sacrifice on the part of the busy men, many of whom spent their regular vacations in camps. The work was extremely hard, but all expressed their desire to return next summer.

The men were divided into companies of 150 men each, commanded by two regular army officers and one non-commissioned officer. All instructors were chosen for their excellence in a certain line of work and succeeded in making their pupils proficient in that line in the few days in which they drilled them.

Home Economics to Meet

A meeting for all girls taking Home Economics will be held Wednesday evening, October 27, at 7:30 o'clock in Music hall. The purpose of the meeting is to form an organization for Home Economics girls which will serve to unite them and broaden their knowledge of their work. A social hour will follow the business meeting.

PROTEST THE SWITCH TRACK

Petition is Signed by 450 Persons Living Near the University—Filed with City Clerk

A petition protesting against the construction of a switch track into the university campus across Tenth street was filed with the city clerk just before the council met this afternoon. The petition was signed with more than 350 names of property owners and residents living in the neighborhood which would be affected by the track. The university regents are very anxious to have the switch track constructed at once. The ordinance came before the council for third reading this afternoon. The protesting citizens claimed that the university could find a much more suitable location for the track.

NOTRE DAME ENTERTAINED

One Hundred and Thirty Nebraska Students and Alumni Banquet Visitors—Good Spirit Shown

The disappointment to the Notre Dame team through Miller's failure to kick goal was entirely negated Saturday evening at a banquet and entertainment given at the Lindell hotel, by the Catholic Students' club. In the mingled yells and general good fellowship the Hoosiers showed that they were good losers and fell in readily with the Nebraska spirit.

The speakers of the evening were introduced by Rev. P. L. O'Loughlin. Terrance Lonam, '19, welcomed the visitors in behalf of the club. John J. Ledwith, '03, gave some sober afterthoughts of the big game. Ex-Congressman John A. McGuire, '98, commented upon clean playing through life as exemplified in the game.

Rev. M. Walsh, vice president and director of athletics at Notre Dame, described the organization through which their great teams are molded. Out of the 1,100 students, they have as many as ten distinct football teams that play among themselves. He remarked that Nebraska was one of the few universities which is not afraid to meet them, and expressed a desire for a continuance of the relationship established Saturday.

Pharmaceutical Meeting

The Pharmaceutical society will meet next Monday evening to lay plans for getting out the 1915-16 Pharmacy Year Book and plan for the University Night program.

STIEHM FIXING UP NEW GAME

PREPARING A SURPRISE FOR THE AGGIES NEXT SATURDAY

AMES CLAIMS NINE VETERANS

Aggies Hard to Beat, Is Believed—Stiehm Will Take No Chances with Iowa Farmers—Mayer Hopes to Spoil Husker Plans

With the University soldiers stationed in front of the gates to guard against the entrance of spies from the Hawkeye state, and with admittance barred to everyone, Coach "Jumbo" Stiehm introduced a new wrinkle for his fighters to master and use in the battle with the Ames Aggies next Saturday.

Just what this new combination amounts to nobody except "Jumbo" and the Huskers know. If we did know we wouldn't tell, because we are partial to Nebraska, and we might want to ask a favor of the coach sometime. Coach Stiehm did this same trick last week. No one knew what he was up to till Riddel and Chamberlain began picking the ball out of the air in the spectacular manner which resulted in victory for the Huskers. What kind of medicine is the mighty leader preparing for Ames? Will he work out the problem of Husker interference, which is perhaps Nebraska's weakest point, will he plaster up his line until the holes become invisible or will he keep on developing the forward pass and use the same mode of attack against the Aggies as that which brought the invincible Catholics to their knees? Long headed prophets, who have one eye on the approaching contest claim that the Huskers will have to make use of everything they've got if they hope to lick the Aggies.

With nine of last year's veterans, two of whom are all-Missouri valley stars, in the lineup and Coach Mayer, ex-Washington and Jefferson coach, who has sent out winning teams
