

NEBRASKA GIRLS AS TRACK ATHLETES

Pole-vault—Eva Fisk, 6 feet 3 inches—Vassar, 5 feet 3 3/4 inches.

In a late edition of the State Journal attention was called to the fact that the athletics of Nebraska, aside from football, were not self-supporting during last year's season. Yet with the admission fee of 10 cents the girls' track-meet of last year more than cleared expenses, which included the cost of a gold, silver, and bronze medal in each event, not including the relay race.

Athletic Awards for Uni. Girls.

The University letter on sweaters and coats is becoming as conspicuous and frequent among the University women as among the men. When you see a girl wearing an N just take a second glance and decide whether she earned it or borrowed it from her football friend. One glance should tell whether or not she belongs to that class of girls with the "push" and "pep" to win their own letters. The requirements for winning an N in girls' athletics are hard. The lucky one must have received some time in her career an E in gymnastics, belonged to a class team either baseball, basketball, or hockey, and also to have won a first, second, or third place at the annual track-meet. Aside from this highest honor, girls are given sweaters, blankets, cups, gold, silver and bronze medals for expertness in any single sport in which they have specialized and excelled.

Basketball.

After Thanksgiving vacation one who strolls past the gymnasium will be treated to all the sounds of an Indian war dance. But be not dismayed. These blood-curdling cries do not issue from the lungs of brawny red men, but from the throat of that quiet, demure freshman lass you have been rushing or that stately dignified senior you have admired from afar. Thither have they not lost their senses, merely the shackles of conventionality; for now they have lost all self-consciousness and are having a good, energetic time running, jumping, and tossing a basketball.

For four years interclass basketball has absorbed most of the girls' gymnasium hours. It would be a revelation to some of the stronger sex who maintain that girls are "pepless." Let them drop into the gymnasium any hour of the day and see the lively games going on with two or three full teams crowding the side lines praying that the halves will soon be over so that they may have a chance at the ball.

Basketball, though by far the most strenuous game indulged in by the girls, is also the most popular. Every year over a hundred freshman contest for a place on the team. This number decreases as we approach the senior class, until we find fewer but more skilful players.

The present senior class won two championships and the other was won by the present junior class. The title this year is yet to be won. Rumor has it that the freshman have several high school stars to contest for their team. The games are open to the public and will probably be held some time in February. Everybody has time to work up lots of class spirit and appear on that night to help your team win.

Aesthetic Dancing.

Aesthetic or classical dancing is a new phase of physical education brought to the attention of the public. For a general definition one might say it is a series of rhythmical movements executed to music and so arranged into groups as to constitute dances. In many ways this form of exercise proves ideal and is constantly becoming more popular.

Practically all universities and schools now offer a course in this work. Nebraska has two, one for the normal physical education students and another open especially to Fine Arts students, and those who have had a required amount of gymnasium work.

Much credit for the popularity of aesthetic dancing is due to Chalif, a New York man whose dances are widely used. Chalif dances derive much of their beauty from the fact that they are arranged to the music of some of the finest composers. Chalif says, "Dancing is visible music," and to really make it so should be the aim of all students of that art.

DR. H. F. WARD HERE TODAY

Speaks in Temple Tonight at 7:30 on Social and Industrial Problems, to Men and Women

Dr. Harry F. Ward, of Boston, social service leader and speaker, is to address the students of the University tonight at the Temple. Unfortunately the subject of Dr. Ward's address was not received, but it will be found on placards on the bulletin boards. Dr. Ward will deal in a very practical way with the social and industrial problem, and the relationship which college men and women should have to this great struggle.

Dr. Ward may speak on the subject, "The Challenge of Socialism to Christianity." The San Francisco Bulletin describes this "as being one of the most stirring addresses delivered in San Francisco in many a day." One feature of the meetings which Dr. Ward has addressed all over the country has been the presence of numbers of socialists who, have always taken advantage of the opportunity to ask questions. An opportunity for questions will be given at the close of the address Monday evening.

In addition to the address at the Temple Tuesday, Dr. Ward will meet all students who would like to know about the opportunities offered in social service as a life work at a 6 o'clock luncheon at the Temple, Monday evening. All who wish to attend see Mr. Glen Everts or Miss Fannie Drake, or one of the University pastors. All student volunteers and all students intending to make the ministry their life work should also attend this luncheon.

At 3 p. m. Monday, Dr. Ward will speak to the "Social Betterment" class at the invitation of Dr. Williams. Any students who desire to hear him at that hour are welcome. He also speaks before the Social Service club at the Lindell hotel Tuesday noon.
