"Making an effort to do a thing is next to actually doing it."

BELLS, RING TRUE

It is very discouraging to find that one has reached a classroom just as a professor has finished calling the roll, especially when there seemed to have been ample time for getting there. Recently such a state of affairs has been due, not to tardiness on the part of the students, but to the fact that there has been a noticeable inconsistency in the time of the ringing of gongs in the various buildings.

When a gong sounds the fifty minute period in one building, it should, at the same instant, announce the same time in every other building. Such has not been the case this past week.

Complaint in regard to this matter comes not alone from the student body, which is marked tardy or absent, but from members of the faculty who must contend with the inconvenience.

Perhaps the gongs will ring at one and the same time in all of the buildings this coming school week.

HUSKERS LEAVE THIS NOON

Team Goes to Kansas City Tonight, to Lawrence Early Tomorrow Morning—Kansans in Good Shape for Contest

The squad, thirty-two strong, accompanied by Coach Stiehm and Manager Guy Reed, will leave at 12:30 this noon on the business men's special. They will stay over night in Kansas City, journeying to Lawrence early Saturday morning.

Coach Stiehm said last night that Nebraska faces the hardest proposition in Kansas that she has faced in years, but added that Nebraska ought to win. Captain Rutherford is of the opinion that the game will be the hardest on this year's schedule. With the exception of Chamberlain and Gardiner, the men are in good physical shape.

Two special trains will leave Lincoln tonight carrying the band and several hundred rooters direct to Lawrence. Reservations in the Nebraska section at McCook field have been very large, and have caused the prediction that Nebraska will be represented by the largest number of Scarlet and Cream rooters that ever invaded a hostile country.

Lawrence, Kan., Nov. 11.—Two days before the championship battle with Nebraska Saturday, Lawrence is filled with more excitement and anticipation than the old town has experienced since the day the ever-victorious team of 1908 left for Lincoln.

The old grads, who are flocking to Lawrence daily, gather at the historic meeting places and compare present conditions with those of 1908. In many respects the coming clash with the Nebraskans resembles the game of 1908 which so upset existing dope that it was considered the surprise of the day in western circles. Nebraska had won easily in the early season games from such worthy foes as Iowa, Ames—who had been picked for the championship—and the Haskell Indians. It followed shortly after a string of Nebraska victories similar to those during the last few years, and the Cornhuskers were doped to win easily. There was confidence here, however, and alumni who were taking a special interest in the game, instilled a fighting spirit in the team which sent them to Lincoln to outplay the Huskers to the tune of 20-5.

And so there is a feeling here at Lawrence that the old days have come again. Coach Chauncey "Beau" Olcott instituted a campaign right after he had seen the Nebraskans in action against Notre Dame which centered around the observation that "they're human—they can be beat." Grim and battle-scarred veterans of forgotten days came back to life and wrote red-hot letters to the newspapers, denouncing the spirit at K. U., characterizing it as half-hearted. Pep meetings in which members of the faculty presided became a regular custom; and during the last week the school has seen an awakening which makes even the old timers smile in satisfaction.

Coach Olcott put a slight damper on Jayhawker jubilation when he announced the results of secret practice Tuesday, in which the regulars showed up in poor form. He is hopeful, however, and is especially encouraged since all the varsity will be in good shape to go into the Nebraska game.

RHETORIC STUDENTS SING LAW'S SONG

commandment (if you don't know what it is, ask the Laws.)

At first he counselors in the "law shop" were sure that they had a good cause of action, but upon later consideration it is feared that the action must be dismissed. It seems that some of the culprits themselves were Law students. They certainly cannot be joined as parties defendant for such a case would cause a feud in the College of Law.

Such a state of affairs could not be tolerated for a moment, for then how could the Laws drown out the Comics so completely at Convocation. Verily, in union there is strength, and upon calm, cool, afterthought the complainants decided to forego their "lawing," and instead prepare for the mid-semester, which have been depressing them for several days.

TO DISCUSS POINT SYSTEM

Mass Meeting of University Girls for Saturday—System Regulates Activities

A mass meeting of all University girls will be held promptly at 2:30 o'clock Saturday, November 13, in the Memorial hall, to discuss the point system of evaluating extra-curriculum college activities and to pass a definite resolution upon it.

Whether it is advisable to adopt the point system at the University of Nebraska is a question that has been pending for three years. This system proved successful at Michigan, Texas, Minnesota, Wellesley and Vassar, and some University authorities think it is time that some definite action be taken upon it at Nebraska.

The point system regulates a number of college activities that a girl may take part in. Each activity counts a certain number of points. Membership in a sorority, class team, the Y. W. C. A. are included in the list.

The purpose of the point system is to distribute activities among more students. Prominent University girls who have made a careful investigation of the system will give detailed explanations of its good and bad features. Girls who do not know about the point system should come to the meeting and learn what it is. Those who do know, should help the University by taking a definite stand either for or against a question that is so vital to them.
