NEWTON SCENTS FALLACIES

Declares Prof. Paul H. Grumman Misquoted Statements Published in State Journal

Felix Newton has sent the following letter to the University Board of Regents:

"Lincoln, Nebr., Dec. 6, 1915.
 "To the Honorable Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebr.

"Gentlemen:
 "I desire respectfully to direct your attention to the letter of Professor Grummann which appeared in the Nebraska State Journal under date of November 25 last, signed Paul H. Grummann. I feel confident that I voice the consensus of the opinion of alumni and of the people of Nebraska when I say that your honorable body should take official notice of this matter. I am enclosing herewith for your information the clippings revealing his misquotations, also described as exhibits A, B, C, D, E.

"I am perfectly in harmony with the board of regent's logical ruling which was given out a year ago in the complaint against another member of the faculty. I believe that every professor, as well as each individual, is entitled to his opinion, reason and logic. But I do object to any man, especially to one who occupies a responsible position in the University of Nebraska, and with the prestige of the university behind him as a guarantee of his capacity as a historian and a well informed man, to misquote the title of a book and also misquote what the author said in another book, in order to build up a German propaganda against the English speaking people.
 "After I called his attention a few days later to his erroneous quotations, he replied that 'I read Vizetelly's history last summer.' As a matter of fact, a book of that title has never been published anywhere under the sun. But his most serious offense from the moral and educational standpoint and by way of furnishing a bad example to students, is his use of quotation marks when he admits that he had not seen the source for about half a year. Such conduct is a fraud on the public. If such deceptions are to be permitted, I suggest to your honorable body the abolition of the department of rhetoric.

"Professor Grummann says in his reply that he does not know history. Permit me to quote him: 'My chief work is not history, and I do not work with historical sources at my elbows.' If Professor Grummann, who is the head of fine arts, does not know history, how does he know how to lecture about fine arts, which requires a greater knowledge of history than the average professor of history possesses?

"If a student of the University should copy from any body during the examinations, he would be considered as immoral, and would be subject to expulsion. Yet Professor Grummann, who solled the good name of the institution of which I am an alumnus, seeks to justify himself by hasty and fallacious generalizations. I am frank to say that Professor Grummann has broken the ethical and moral laws of the University and of the educational system in general. It is an offense which deserves severe censure at your hands. I trust that you will take such action as the occasion demands, and thereby clear up the University's good name. Very respectfully,
 "FELIX NEWTON."
