DR. MOTT RETURNS FROM EUROPE

REPORTS THE INTERNATIONAL Y. M. C. A. WORK

MANY STUDENTS ENLISTED

11,000 Undergraduate Students of Cambridge Are in the British Army
—Plea Made for Funds for Benevolent Work

Mr. Glen S. Everetts, secretary of the University Y. M. C. A., has received several letters from the International committee of Young Men's Christian Associations, telling of the great work the World's Students' Christian Federation has been doing in warring countries. The students in these countries are in many cases destitute and it has been only through the Federation that they have been able to keep alive.

Dr. Mott, who has returned from Europe recently, declares there is no organization that has been as great a help toward peace as this. These students are either in the great military hospitals or are in active military service. Dr. Mott tells that during the time he was in Paris, where he was accustomed to find 18,000 male students in the Latin quarter, he had difficulty in finding four. He says in Germany, 50,000 students are in the army; in Great Britain most of the boys' schools are closed, 11,000 undergraduates from Cambridge university alone being in the British army. He says in Austria, Hungary and Russia the proportions are nearly as great. Over one-half of the students in Canada are in the army.

Why can't the American universities help these students? They can and they are in many cases. Washburn college has contributed, as have many of the other schools. The Federation is doing its good work all throughout the east. Why not let the west help also? This help goes to those who are practically destitute. Thousands of Russian students in Paris and in Swiss university towns are wholly cut off from the home supply stations.

Not only could the students help those that are cut off from home, but also those who are doing active work in the war. Why not let Nebraska help the movement? Every student should be able to give 25 cents or more. If Nebraska was to have a tag day, would the students help to raise an amount to make Nebraska of material help to these students, who have nothing and no chance to make anything?

In a letter to Dr. Mott, Miss Elizabeth M. Clark, tells of one case how much this help was appreciated. "I went to see a Russian-Polish girl in Lausanne. She was to come to me, but did not, so I went to see her. Her explanation for staying away was: 'I was ashamed to leave my room, Miss Clark, as I have had no soap to wash myself with for three days.' This girl has had so little proper food that she can eat nothing but bread and milk. The milk must be heated, but she had no wood alcohol for her lamp, for nearly a week. When I gave her money enough for a little cake of soap, ten portions of soap (at the soup kitchen), a quart of alcohol, and a pair of new rubbers, she could hardly believe there was so much wealth."

According to this the students of Nebraska ought to be able to give enough to help a great number of these students, who are in many cases more destitute than the poorest of Belgian and Serbian refugees.

Practice German Play
The big German play, Suderman's "Das Glueck in Winckel," which is to be given January 14, is well under way. The members of the cast as well as the coach, Miss Heppner, are putting forth every possible effort to make the play a success. The club orchestra, which will furnish the music for the occasion, has already begun its work.

GETS RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

Paul B. Means, of Orleans, Is Chosen by State Committee—Will Go to Oxford University

The Rhodes scholar from Nebraska, chosen at a meeting of the State committee held in Chancellor Avery's office Tuesday, was Paul B. Means, of Orleans. Mr. Means took the examination several years ago in the east, but received no appointment.

This year no candidates passed the examination in Nebraska, so Mr. Means became a candidate again.

He took some work at the University of Nebraska and then went to Yale. He is now at Oberlin. The terms under which the scholarship is awarded provide that a man who claims his home in Nebraska may take the examination wherever he is studying and then receive the appointment from Nebraska. It is also possible to receive the appointment from the state where he is studying, although his permanent residence may be in that state.

Mr. Means will have a full course at Oxford university with all expenses paid. Superintendent Graff of the Omaha schools, President McLaughlin, of York college, Chancellor Fulmer of Wesleyan and Chancellor Avery of the University of Nebraska were the members of the committee present at the meeting.

Helen Quinn, '18, of Aurora, has not returned to college on account of the illness of her sister.

RIFLE MATCH NEXT FRIDAY

The Name of the Opposing College Has Not as Yet Been Made Known

The first rifle match in which the team of the University will have a part will take place Friday, January 7, in the basement of the M. E. building. The name of the opposing college has not been made known as yet.

The following men will compose the Nebraska team in this match: W. Hall, V. C. George, S. E. Norris, H. C. Southwell, H. E. Gribble, J. L. Warner, R. B. Ford, E. K. Kelly, S. A. Wilson, I. F. Smith.

The following rules govern the contest:

Team: Any number of men up to ten may shoot, the best five scores counting for the team score.

Distance: Fifty feet from end of rifle to target.

Number of Shots: Twenty for record.

Position: Prone.

Sighting Shots: Two sighting shots only will be allowed at commencement of firing. Not to fired on match targets.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES WILL HAVE OFFICE

SEVERAL NEW DEPARTMENTS TO BE ADDED TO OFFICE

START EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

This Feature Will Be in Charge of John Riddell—The Daily Nebraskan and Awgwan to Have Desks

The Student Activities office in the basement of the Administration building will soon have several new departments. The business desks of all the University publications, including the Daily Nebraskan, Awgwan and the Cornhusker will be here. Those in charge of other activities, such as University Week and debates, will also have desks in this office.

An employment bureau, to secure work for University students, is probably the most important innovation of all. This will work in co-operation with the merchants, and anyone else needing employees. John Riddell will be employment secretary and have complete charge.

SYMPHONY FOR THURSDAY

A Special Program Has Been Arranged for Thursday's Convocation—Schubert's Last Symphony

A fine musical program will be given at Convocation in Memorial hall Thursday. It is as follows:

- Symphony in C.....Schubert
- Andante—Allegro, ma non troppo
- Andante con moto
- Scherzo
- Finale—Allegro vivace

Schubert's last and greatest symphony, generally known as No. 7, but sometimes spoken of as No. 10, bears the date of March, 1828. It had its first performance in Vienna that same year and then was forgotten until Schumann found it nine years later among a mass of manuscripts and had the parts copied and sent to Mendelssohn, who produced it several times at Gewandhaus concerts during the year 1839. It was first performed in the country by the New York Philharmonic society in 1851.

The power and depth of this work was thought to have lifted Schubert's name almost to the level of Beethoven and to have intensified the tragedy of his early death.

A long and elaborate introduction in slow tempo precedes the first movement, which is finally reached through a powerful crescendo, leading to the vigorous principal theme and a second theme more tranquil in style, both of which are worked out elaborately through the remainder of the movement.

The eloquent and plaintive theme for the oboe in the andante is considered the most beautiful and important solo for that instrument in all orchestral literature, with a charm at once irresistible and indescribable. The feeling of repose is quickly dispelled, however, by the Scherzo, an exuberant declamatory movement.

"Few composers," writes Felix Borowski, "would have possessed the resources needful for the construction of a finale which would be climatic after three such extended and elaborate movements as those already heard, but Schubert's mine of ingenuity was inexhaustible, and so we find him producing a fourth movement which is, in every way, a mighty climax to all that has gone before."

The finale opens with a vigorous introduction, the first two figures of which form the emphatic rhythmic basis of the entire movement. After the development of the two themes the movement is brought to a dramatic close with a tempestuous coda, repeating most effectively the tones with which the second theme began.

NEBRASKA MEETS WESLEYAN

Opening Game Will Make University Team Battle—Wesleyan Confident of Victory

Saturday night, Nebraska Wesleyan will send five basketball players and two or three extras in case of an accident with the intention of dragging home a victory in basketball, which could not be won in the gridiron contest.

They will wear regulation uniforms, bearing the Nebraska Wesleyan colors, and will be accompanied by a fond group of rooters who are willing to share the fortunes of war with these light-footed athletes.

Wesleyan, although a comparatively small school, boasts a basketball team in the A No. 1 rank and they don't propose to let any wooling over by Uni guards interfere with their basket shooting ability. Coach Stiehm is calmly preparing his warriors for the advancing cavalcade and Saturday night in the Armory the decision of the championship of Nebraska will be awarded. This decision will not be final since a return game will be played later in the season.

Coach Stiehm is working his Varsity men this week on quick and easy passing of the ball. Perfect teamwork as the most essential thing to a good basketball team is the first big object which the coach is contending with. Wesleyan has shown up well in the past, and the Uni men expect to be kept on their toes constantly throughout the initial game Saturday.

CORNHUSKER OMTS CERTAIN CHARGES

SECTIONS HERETOFORE PAID FOR WILL BE ADMITTED GRATIS

THE MILITARY SECTION FREE

There Will Also Be No Charge Made for Space for the Class Officers, Class Football and Debating Teams

Reductions have been made in the sources of income of the 1916 Cornhusker to such an extent that the net profit of the book will be reduced over $600.

The reduction of the engraving charge for Junior and Senior pictures from $1.50 to $1 has been known for some time, but the announcement of the business manager that all the Military department and the class pictures in the School Year section will be handled free comes as very welcome news.

It might seem that such extensive reductions would impair the quality of the book, but this is not the case. In fact, more money is to be used on almost every department of the book this year than has ever been spent before.

In spite of better paper, better printing and better binding, the board of publication desired that there should be still further cuts in the net profit to a sum total of about $600 in order to keep the sinking fund at about its present size and to decrease the salaries paid to the editor and the business manager.

The above reductions were made on the recommendation of the editor and business manager wherever they felt they were most needed. The policy in the past of charging the Military department and not the Athletic department has always been recognized as more or less unjust, but seemed expedient in that it was easy to collect where the burden fell on the underclass men.

While the sale of the book is to remain $3 as formerly, it must be remembered that the actual cost of the Cornhusker to most every student has been reduced from 50 cents to $2 and this reduction where it was needed most.
