HISTORICAL BANQUET
HELD AT LINCOLN

is to increase the navy as large as the largest in the world, but to maintain a relatively small standing army. After Mr. Estabrook's response, the toastmaster spoke a few words of farewell and the assembly broke up not to meet again for another year.

NEBRASKA TO LOSE
GUY CHAMBERLIN

Not yet has the full significance of what the loss of Chamberlin means to the 1916 Cornhuskers been grasped. Nebraskans have been so accustomed to settle back complacently and "let Chamberlin do it" whenever a squeeze enveloped the Huskers that a mental picture of next year's team without him will not come to mind. Chamberlin himself has taken developments resignedly. "It's all over—I'm a has been, I guess," he said last night.

Dr. Clapp, secretary of the Nebraska board, stated yesterday that he would request the Wesleyan authorities to forward a complete account of Chamberlin's sojourn at the Methodist college. When the facts have been officially set before the board they will go through the formality of declaring him from then on a figure of history.

JANUARY—
The Month of Savings!

The last month of our fiscal year—and particularly these last two weeks before inventory—we will reduce our stocks to the lowest point possible.

Regular Kensington and Kuppenheimer winter Suits and Overcoats—garments of known and dependable quality—are now marked for complete clearance:

$20 Values	$25 Values	$30 Values
$14.75	$18.75	$23.75

In view of advancing prices on clothes of this character, we predict that values like these will not be available again in Lincoln for some time to come. If you need a new Suit or Overcoat now—or even if you have to anticipate your needs for next season—we believe it will pay you well to take advantage of present savings.

Savings of equal importance in Men's Furnishings as well as in Suits and Overcoats
