NEBRASKA BEATS AGGIES TWICE

FIRST CONTEST WAS CLOSE; SECOND EASY

Takes Another Step Towards Missouri
Valley Championship

Nebraska took another step toward annexing the Missouri Valley championship by decisively defeating Ames, 35 to 21, Friday night, and 31 to 13, Saturday afternoon.

The first game showed Ames a much better team than Nebraska expected. The score was close, and early in the second half Ames took the lead. This was quickly overcome by Nebraska, when Hugg placed several shots from the middle of the floor.

The second game showed the superiority of Nebraska from the start. Four free goals and a basket gave us an early lead, while Ames acquired but one basket. This lead was kept up during the entire game. Ames took a spurt during the second half when Braydon shot three baskets.

Rhodes Scholarships

Most students do not think about the Rhodes scholarships at Oxford, until just before the examinations are held, when it is too late to prepare for them. The library has arranged a display of books in the reading room for the present week, for the purpose of interesting students in these scholarships, in the life of Cecil Rhodes and his object in founding the scholarships and in the advantages of student life at Oxford. These books may be found on the table near the entrance to the reading room.

Ohio State

All the colleges of the western conference have swimming teams with the exception of Ohio State. Some of these are only intramural, Illinois for instance, but for the most part, they are regular college teams and meet the athletic clubs of various cities.

POLITICAL POT BOILS BUSILY

Greer Rules No Vote Gathering at the Polls Next Monday

With the filing of Everett B. Scott for senior president, and Harold B. Holtz for junior president, and Wayne Townsend for junior managing editor, and Charles M. Frey for editor-in-chief of the Cornhusker, the university political pot has been set to boiling. No candidates have yet announced their intention of filing for freshman and sophomore presidents.

For the Cornhusker, several candidates have announced their intention of filing and are already canvassing of the student body for votes. Ivan G. Beede is after the junior managing editorship, and Ellsworth Moser and Dewitt Foster are seeking the job of business manager. These latter two are on the business staff of this year's Cornhusker.

Registrar Greer has announced that there is to be no canvassing near the polls at the coming election, which will be held Monday, February 14. The candidates have until Friday to file their written applications, and it is expected that there will be several applications for each of the offices.

Lincoln's Trusteeship

Two years ago the question of university removal was submitted to the vote of the people of the state. They decided to leave the institution where it now is. The proposition is settled, and a discussion of the wisdom of the people's choice is not in order at this time.

Those familiar with the history of the situation two years ago will readily recall the activity of Lincoln people in opposing removal. The main campaign against such a step was carried on from this city, and it was largely due to this factor that removal was defeated.

The fact that a state gives a city the care of an institution, implies a trust to that city to care for it properly; and the fact that the city becomes active in influencing the people of the state to leave that institution where they can more conveniently care for it, implies a full acceptance of that trust.

Is this trust being properly executed?

There is about the campus an unnecessary amount of noise. This comes from three sources: A firm, just south of the College of Law, dealing in traction engines; the cars of the Lincoln Traction company; and the extra noise, caused by defective paving, from the heavy traffic in this part of the city.

This condition can be remedied. The engine establishment can be removed to a remote part of the city; the traction cars can be run over other lines without serious inconvenience to anyone concerned; asphalt or similar pavement can be substituted for that now existing.

These things are a matter of comparative simplicity in the government of a city.

Lincoln, you cannot afford to neglect this trust.

CHITTICK CHAIRMAN UNIVERSITY NIGHT

The fact that at least a half dozen organizations are known to have started their scenarios for University Night without the slightest reminder from the committee, is proof enough that this evening of amusement is recognized by the student body as a permanent event and one of undisputed success.

Martin Chittick has accepted the chairmanship of University Night and, together with Harold Holtz and Glenn Everts, expects to set a record for this type of an entertainment. "However, it will be absolutely necessary," he says, "for all organizations to submit a synopsis of their 'stunt' by Wednesday night, February 9." It is understood that they will be returned by the following Saturday, in order to give a full three weeks for practice.

Last week proper representatives of each of the several clubs, societies and school departments were personally approached by a member of the above committee and urged to begin immediate action. The response was certainly encouraging. At least fifteen organizations either reported that they were already working on a "skit" or that they would submit one by Wednesday night.

The following organizations have been asked for a demonstration of their ingenuity: Agricultural club, Pharmaceutical society, cadet band, university quartet, "Ye Tollers of the Law Shop," Komensky Klub, Engineers, Tumbling club, Sigma Delta Chi, Commercial club, Cornhusker, German Dramatic club, "Phys. Ed. Girls," Glee club, Wrestling department, School of Dentistry, Chemistry club, and the "Helmet and Quill."

EARL KETCHAM WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Earl Ketcham, '18, an Omaha high school graduate, has been awarded the scholarship to the University of Nebraska given by the Omaha Woman's club. Ketcham is the first man to win this scholarship. Heretofore applications for it have always been made by women. Ketcham is registered in the engineering department.

CORNHUSKER GROUP PICTURES NEXT

Organizations Must Be Snapped by February 19

With a record of more junior and senior Cornhusker pictures than ever before, there has been set up a standard that should be lived up to by the other departments of the book.

The next two weeks are to be devoted to group and organization pictures. Mr. Townsend is giving these pictures precedence over all other work for this time, and has worked out a systematic time schedule so that there will be no wasted time in handling them. If there are any organizations that have not already scheduled their dates, arrangements should be made at once, for no pictures will be accepted after February 19.

There are always a few organizations which plan on getting their pictures taken the last convocation period before the time limit and then when they find that this time is filled up, feel that they should be given an extension of time for their picture. It is the belief of this year's management that the student body want to see the book gotten out on time, and to do this, all organization pictures must be taken by February 19. Therefore, the management does not propose to make any extension of time. February 19 is the last day.

PAN-HEL STUNT PARTY PLANNED

An interfraternity "stunt" party at the Alpha Sigma Phi house is planned for February 11 at 8 o'clock. Each fraternity and sorority will assist in some short act—the Orpheum idea being carried out. This is the first party of its kind at Nebraska, and every Greek should try to make it a big success.

McGill

Intercollegiate contests have been discontinued at McGill university, Canada, on account of so many of the students serving in the armies in Europe.

UNI. PLAYERS OPEN POLK OPERA HOUSE

The University Dramatic club formally opened the new opera house at Polk, Nebr., with two performances of "Believe Me, Xantippe," Friday and Saturday nights. The opera house was crowded to its utmost capacity at both presentations.

Fling Talks on War

Dr. F. M. Fling spoke before the Palladians, Friday evening, taking the European war as his topic. He stated that the real causes of the war can be traced back to the seventeenth century, saying that the assassination of the crown prince of Austria and the subsequent mobilization of troops were only mere pretexts to start fighting. He cited many instances which caused him to reach his conclusions.

Pre-Medic Society Elects

The Pre-Medic society meeting was held in Nebraska hall 210, Friday evening at 5 o'clock. About seventy-five Pre-Medics were present. Election of new officers resulted as follows:

Charles Weymuller, president.
William Matousek, vice president.
David Ford, secretary.
Charles Heustis, treasurer.

GIRLS' STUDENT RALLY TUESDAY

LOUISE S. HOLMQUIST, NATIONAL WORKER, COMING

Different College Delegates Will Be
Seated Together at Meeting

Most gratifying reports have come from the various schools and colleges in and around Lincoln as to the size of their delegations to the student rally to be held Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Temple theatre. As far as possible college delegations will be seated together, and pennants and songs will make them recognizable. Nebraska girls are very happy to be hostesses for such an event as this promises to be and to have as the speaker for this occasion such a woman as Miss Louise S. Holmquist.

It seems fitting that Miss Holmquist should speak to students for as executive for the Department of Method of the National Board of the Young Woman's Christian Association, she is director of wonderful research laboratory. When one thinks of a laboratory one pictures rows of shelves with many bottles and much equipment for experimenting; but in the ninth and tenth floors of a beautiful gray stone, eleven story building, in the heart of New York city, is a laboratory of a different sort, over which Miss Holmquist presides. This laboratory experiments with and demonstrates work of many phases for girls, not only in New York but all over the country, and is in reality the Department of Method and the building in which it operates is the national headquarters building of the Young Women's Christian Associations.

With all the adaptation necessary through city, country and student communities, the work of the association is carried on by, through and for girls—at home and at work, country girls, immigrant girls, young girls, girls in industry, colored girls, Indian girls, professional women and students in preparatory schools, colleges and universities. It is Miss Holmquist's task to administer the department in such a way as to correlate city, student and rural work so that each type may fit its own mission and contribute to

Cold Feet Cause Fire

A couple of cold Kappa feet were the innocent cause of a fire early last Thursday morning that might have burned the sorority home down. The story leaked out, in spite of the delicate zeal of the girls to keep it secret, and the main fact may be verified by a glance at the west steps to the Kappa Kappa Gamma house at Seventeenth and L streets.

The girls have a sleeping porch where some of the brave ones have challenged the wintry blasts to drive them in. One of the girls enjoyed the breezes well enough, but for the past two or three weeks she has been unable to get enough covers on her feet to keep them warm.

The thought struck her of the hot brick of our grandmother's day. Brought up to date, this suggested the electric flat iron, with a warm current running throughout the night. Surely this would solve the problem, she thought, and she put her idea into operation.

All went well until about 4 a. m. Then the iron began to warm too earnestly to its task, and the overheated feet of the young lady warned her that mischief was afoot. She awoke to find the bed clothes afire.

With a scream she leaped from the covers, called her neighbors, and shiveringly the girls cast the flaming bed off the sleeping apartment to the ground below. All went blissfully to sleep again.

The bed, still blazing, had fallen to the steps. Soon the fire had started something there, and the wood began to crackle. What the ultimate result might have been is a matter of conjecture, but fortunately the furnace man appeared on the scene at this stage of the affair and put out the fire.

In spite of attempts at concealment, rumor has it that the feet belonged to Miss Dorothy Stevens.
