LOUIS PASTEUR

That Louis Pasteur was one of the greatest men in history was the sentiment voiced by Dr. H. H. Waite, who spoke at convocation yesterday taking as his subject, "Pasteur and Medicine." Doctor Waite began his talk with a short review of the ancient theory of diseases and its causes. He declared that the earliest conception of disease was that it seemed to be something brought about by supernatural forces. Later on the Hebrews began to recognize the infectious nature of disease. The important contributions of Pasteur to medical science were next taken up. Pasteur was the first to formulate the theory of fermentation and was a pioneer in determining the causes and methods of transmission of diseases. He was the first to originate the process of preventing disease by vaccination.

Arthur L. Weatherly will speak at convocation next Thursday presenting some of his experiences with the Ford peace party.

The University May Festival
It has been definitely announced by the committee that the third annual May Festival will be held Monday and Tuesday, May 1st and 2nd. The Festival this year will be somewhat more elaborate than usual although following the lines of that given last season. The Damrosch New York Symphony Orchestra has been engaged for two concerts on May 2. The contract calls for seventy-five men, 50 per cent more than were carried last year. Eastern reports indicate that the orchestra is by far the most magnificent organization that has been sent out from New York in recent years.

The opening number of the Festival will be Saint-Saen's "Samson and Delilah" under the direction of Mrs. Raymond with the University chorus and local orchestra. Applicants for the chorus should see Mrs. Raymond.

CORNHUSKER SALE BEGINS FEBRUARY 29

The advance sale date for the 1916 Cornhusker will be Tuesday, February 29, and if the book is to be as much of a success in point of numbers sold as it has been in regard to quality,

Miss Elma Reeder in "The Melting Pot."

SOCIETY

John F. Spirk of Wilber has presented to the department of Slavonic languages and literature a set of four volumes on travel in Bohemia. They are well illustrated and are printed in the Bohemian language.

The members of the Achoth sorority entertained the mothers of the town girls and the patronesses at a Kensington Saturday afternoon. A two-course luncheon was served by the freshmen. Thirty guests were present.

The "Nebraska" reels of the Conservation Commission will be shown in series at all of the Omaha schools. Dr. Condra will deliver one lecture at each school.

Director Addison E. Sheldon of the Legislative Reference bureau will speak Thursday evening before the University Place Commercial club on "Nebraska History."

Achoth sorority announces the pledging of Loy Ream, '19, of Broken Bow, Nebraska.

"The Melting Pot" was presented at the penitentiary last night by the University players.

George Gilligan, '17, has returned to college.

Mae Hurka, a student in the university last year, is attending Coe college at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Charlotte Bedwell, '18, has left school because of ill health.

Arnost Sukovaty, '19, visited his parents at Swanton last week.

John Ashford, of Ames, Iowa, spent Sunday at the Sigma Nu house.

Ida Dusatko, special, spent the week-end with friends at Swanton.

workmanship and completeness, there must be 1,800 copies subscribed for during this advance sales campaign.

The price of this year's Cornhusker is to be $3, payable $1 when the order is taken, and $2 when the book is delivered. This is the same price at which the book was sold last year. In comparison with the prices of other college annuals of similar quality, this price is extremely low.

Any books sold at time of delivery will cost $3.50, and even at this advance price there will be only small chance of obtaining a book, for the business management cannot carry the risk of heavy over-ordering.

ANNUAL CONVENTION Y. M. C. A. AT YORK

The annual state convention of all departments of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at York, February 18-20. A committee composed of G. O. Cast, C. S. Holcomb and Axel Swenson, of the cabinet, have mailed letters to fifty men, urging them to attend this convention.

In the past the university Y. M. C. A.

have had from fifteen to twenty workers present at the annual conference, but the general response to the association program has so much increased in the last two years that at least thirty men are expected to make this trip. Ten are already assured and the final report is not due until Saturday night. Inquiries concerning the convention should be made at the Y. M. C. A. office.

Leland-Stanford

Intercollegiate relations between Stanford and the University of California have been resumed, and the two great Pacific coast colleges will meet again on gridiron, diamond and track. The point in dispute was that Stanford allowed freshmen to participate in athletics, while California did not. On the other hand, California has a lower standard of scholarship than Stanford and uses men from affiliated colleges and Davis Farm. Stanford agrees to adopt the rule barring freshmen, while California agrees to raise the standard of scholarship and eliminate men from Davis Farm and affiliated colleges. As to adopting the American game of football at Stanford, popular sentiment is for it, and it is possible that California and Stanford will meet in the big game again next fall.

Princeton

The faculty ruling at Princeton, that prohibits an athlete from engaging in more than two sports, is challenged for the reason that it hinders a lack of interest in winter sports. Most of the men who play football are valuable material for other teams also, but on account of the two-sport rule, prefer to wait to engage in the spring sports. If the athlete fails to make a team in the spring, this rule is practically a one-sport rule. Statistics show that the rule makes no difference in the scholarship standing of an athlete.
