The annual mid-winter picnic of the Faculty club, which was postponed from January on account of the cold weather, was held in the Temple last evening. A large number were present. A short program followed the supper.

It is customary for the club to have two picnics each year, one in June at the state farm and one in January at the Temple.

SOCIAL SERVICE MOVEMENT BEGUN

led by Ralph Wright and Miles Hildreth of the city Y. M. C. A.

Teaching Not All

Teaching English to foreigners is a very small portion of the Industrial Service Movement. Mr. Rindge spoke before a meeting of the Carpenters' union, and at the conclusion of the talk a discussion followed, resulting in voluntary action on their part to arrange for round table discussion groups with one or two engineering students. It is understood that either side will ask questions, the engineers to account for the technique and the carpenters for the practical application of it. A game of give-and-take, as it were.

The Big Brotherhood and Shop Meeting programs are in embryo. However, a noon gathering of Burlington roundhouse employes very soon materialized at a suggestion of Mr. Luke of the city Y. M. C. A. and an appreciative audience listened to Mr. Rindge for twenty minutes. Earl Wilson played a cornet solo. When the whistle blew for the men to return to work, several of them asked that a permanent weekly program be instituted. L. C. Oberlies spoke at a noon meeting at the Lee Broom and Duster company last Monday. A library club of several small boys has been organized and will meet weekly. Herbert Tanner and Paul Conrad have charge of them.

Not a Dream

It is evident that the movement is not a dream but a real and vital activity. What is now going on is next to nothing compared with the actual possibilities. Mr. Rindge has stated in a conservative estimate, based on practical comparisons with other universities and the opportunities surrounding them, that the University of Nebraska ought to have one hundred men engaged weekly in some form of industrial service.

The statistics of the movement are these: Thirty-five hundred undergraduates are reaching 60,000 working men and boys each week in definite constructive service. "No one can measure the helpful service of 3,000 graduates who are also promoting the ideals of the Movement." From a leading manufacturing engineer are quoted the following words which express the exact opinions of numerous other enlightened employers: "Two college men of equal training worked in my shop last summer. One of them 'knew it all' was despised by the men and got fired. The other became one of the men and learned from them. Nearly every evening some of the working men went to his room and he helped them with mathematics, mechanics, plan-reading, etc. That fellow has a job waiting for

Dr. Louise Pound went to Omaha today to attend a meeting and luncheon of the Women's Press association.

Alfred Schumacher, '17, was badly cut on the forehead Tuesday evening during basketball practice.

The January Midwest Quarterly contains the following articles: "The Unification of South America," by Prof. Clark Edward Persinger, and "Music and Poetry" by Prof. Hartley Burr Alexander.

The Midland Magazine, published by the English department of the University of Iowa, recently published a story by Prof. Hartley Burr Alexander. Edward J. O'Brien, literary critic of the Boston Transcript, includes the story in his list of distinguished stories of the year. Prof. Clark Ansley is editor of the publication.

him because he learned how to handle men sympathetically and intelligently."

CONVICTS LIKED "THE MELTING POT"

Appreciation is pleasant indeed, and so thought the cast of the Dramatic club play, "Believe Me, Xantippe," when the leader of the penitentiary orchestra after the last act of their play before the prisoners last evening publicly thanked them.

Stepping on the stage and asking the cast to appear he said: "No one knows how much 'the boys' enjoyed the show. They look forward to the day when the University Players come out and remember the play for weeks afterward." Then turning to the men he asked: "All who want them to come back, raise their right hand." Every right hand in the audience was raised. Then he asked: "All who enjoyed the play say Aye," and from the volume of ayes there could be but few nays.

Preparedness

Old Man Noah began building his boat and all his neighbors sat around smoking their corncobs and laughing at him. They thought he had bubbles in his think tank. "What's the use of being prepared," they scoffed. "By the time you get the ark done styles will have changed and your boat will be out of date." Other critics contended that Noah's preparation would start something. The very fact that he was ready would bring on a flood. Some weeks later Noah looked out of the cabin window at the wide expanse of water and he began to wonder what had become of his critics.

A rumor is afloat that T. A. D. Jones has been chosen for the position of football coach, with M. F. Sweeney as assistant. No official announcement has yet been made, but is expected daily. Jones and Sweeney would be popular with undergraduates, notwithstanding contradictory statements made in New York papers.
