GERMAN DRAMATICS

PLAYED FOR CHARITY

Benefits of Performances to Go to German and Austrian Sufferers

The German Dramatic club gave two short plays in the Temple theatre for the benefit of the Deutsche Frauenbund of Nebraska Friday night, before a large and appreciative audience. About four hundred tickets were sold, yielding a profit of $140 to be sent to the widows and orphans of Germany and Austria-Hungary.

The first play, entitled "Die Schulreiterin," was played by Magdaline Craft, Prof. Albert Wedeking, Gerhart Naber, Alfred Hinze and Friederich Rabe. The parts in the second, "Die Jugend Liebe," were taken by Ida Wilson (Clara Schulte, Gerhart Naber, Friederich Rabe, Robert Nesbitt and Lena Williams. Music was furnished by Mrs. William Grelck, Mrs. August Cchroer, Miss Alma Wagner and an orchestra.

The two casts and Prof. Amanda Heppner were entertained by the Frauenbund at a banquet at the Lindell hotel Saturday night.

HODGDON DELAYED:

The conference between Architect Charles Hodgdon of Chicago and the university regents over the proposed social science building of the university will not be held this evening as planned, because Mr. Hodgdon has been called to Boston by the serious illness of his mother.

The regents will meet today in spite of Mr. Hodgdon's inability to be present, and will probably authorize Secretary Dales to advertise for bids on the new agricultural engineering building.
