VOTE FOR THE GENERAL EFFECT

One deplorable fact about popular elections is that many people vote according to their objection to some specific detail, rather than according to their idea of the general effect of a measure. To be specific, if one does not like some pardon issued by the governor, he is inclined to vote against that person for re-election on those grounds, instead of considering the general effect of the administration. Such a tendency has kept many a good governor of Nebraska from serving a second term.

The same thing is true of a matter like the Single Tax. The people look for objections to specific details rather than consider the general effect of the idea. This was true of the argument in yesterday's Forum. In its last analysis, the objection to the Tax was on two grounds—that we cannot accommodate the crowds for a basketball game, and that the money to the Dramatic department was not accurately apportioned. Some may discard the fact that the Tax will as a whole benefit the school, and work against it on the ground that it has a defect here and there in its make-up.

In casting your influence one way or the other, therefore, try to consider the effect of the system as a whole. Remember that it will permit the growth of student life commensurate with that of the institution. That there is room for improvement is entirely possible. But help to adopt the measure first, and then submit your amendments and improvements to the proper authorities afterwards.

THIS YEAR'S UNIVERSITY WEEK

It is to be regretted that this year's management of University Week could not secure a different group of towns from those now on the list. This is not to be interpreted as against the towns as such. They are conceded to be among the real live communities of the state.

But the primary idea of University Week is to acquaint the people of the state with the university—not to furnish them with a program. It naturally follows that this purpose cannot be accomplished by visiting the same localities several years in succession. In this year's group, out of four sure contracts, two are from towns on last year's list. This argues something wrong. It may not be the fault of the management, but wherever the blame lies, it is to be hoped that it will not occur again.

MORE UNIVERSITY NIGHT GRIEF

A rumor is afloat that the despised ticket scalper got in his work at the performance of University Night last Saturday. The management does its best to prevent such things, but the best of systems cannot keep out every evil. Under the Single Tax all would be provided for, and ticket scalping would be impossible. Remember these things when the petition is submitted to you for your signature.

Incidentally, the committee will no doubt begin work on University Night earlier next year. If all the acts were submitted a month before the performance, and practice begun on them immediately, a better program would be assured.

OUR FRONT PAGE DEFINITION OF THE SINGLE TAX

On the front page of this issue is another explanation of the Single Tax. To many this is, no doubt, superfluous. But each day someone inquires of some member of the staff, "What is the Single Tax, anyway?" Hence the present and further definitions.

A number of professors and students acted as judges in the preliminary debates in Nebraska high schools last week-end. The question debated was the "Preparedness" problem.

Professors A. L. Candy, N. E. Bengston, and C. W. Taylor went to Nelson, where they judged the debate between Edgar and Nelson. The Nelson debaters won unanimously. Following the debate, Professor Candy talked about the mobilization of German troops when war was declared two years ago. He was in Berlin when the kaiser declared war on Russian, and stayed during the eventful two weeks following.

Prof. Edwin Maxey and Guy C. Chambers, law '16, went to Pawnee City, where they judged in the debate between Pawnee City and Falls City. The Pawnee City debating team won.

Thorne A. Browne, of the legislative reference bureau, E. E. Carr, law '17, were the judges at the debate between West Point and Newman Grove high schools. West Point high school won unanimously.

$100 PER MONTH FOR COLLEGE MEN

The Educators Association, whose editors and contributors include twenty-six university and college presidents, such as Stanley Hall, David Starr Jordan, Charles F. Thwing, and fifty such eminent text book writers as Alexander Smith, chemistry; John F. Genung, rhetoric; David P. Todd, astronomy; Jeremiah W. Jenks, government; Samuel B. Harding, history; whose material on botany was written by the late Dr. Bessey, have completed two new editions of the Volume Library, one large and one small. It appears that a large number of those most anxious for summer employment have already made their arrangements, so the educators are in a position to offer exceptional terms to a few good men. The Educators Association will pay $100 per month with large opportunities above to men who can qualify.

Some permanent managerial positions with good salaries will be open to men who show marked ability.

The Educators Association, of Ann Arbor, Mich., capitalized at $100,000, has bought the copyrights of the Volume Library, which was handled here in 1912 by the following men, whose names and monthly averages follow:

Robert Broman, $267.59; Chester Dobbs, $104.87; Emil Krahulik, $131.87; D. D. Marcellus, $192.07; J. L. McMasters, $131.04; C. W. Schultz, $12.69; Earl W. Scott, $192.25; Vilters D. Smith, $157.40; Geo. E. Jozer, $162.74; T. E. Wood, $182.97; T. J. Sullivan, $102.00.
