COMPETITION TO ENTER
 UNIVERSITY AK-SAR-BEN

From a conversation overheard on the campus the other day it appears that not the least of the elements which will enter into the success of of the university Ak-Sar-Ben is a certain spirit of competition which exists between the organizations that are to have charge of the various stunts and concessions. Whether money can be made by selling candy or by staging a vaudeville skit will be determined on the night of March 18. The response thus far from different university groups has been most encouraging. Fortune telling, vaudeville, folk dances, candy and popcorn are some of the attractions already planned. Such an event as this gives a large opportunity for working out clever and original ideas which should be numerous among university students.

Jerome R. Forbes, '13, of New York, visited the university yesterday. He attended the Harvard law school in 1913-14 and was graduated from the Columbia law school last month. He is practicing law at 21 Broadway, New York city. Mr. Forbes was a member of the Innocents, the inter-collegiate debate seminary and of the junior debating team that won the interclass championship.

W. J. Boston, superintendent of apprentices for the Westinghouse Machine, company, Pittsburgh, Pa., visited the university yesterday.

SUNDAY Y. W. C. A. VESPERS
 Vesper services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. room in the Temple. Miss Ada Heaton, formerly physical director at Baker university, Baldwin, Kan., will speak on "Miss Grace H. Dodge, Her Life and Work."
 A social hour will follow to enable university women to become better acquainted. There will be music and refreshments.

Prof. Margaret Lynn, A.M., '00, of the University of Kansas, has promised to attend and speak at the initiation and banquet of Nebraska Alpha of Phi Beta Kappa, to be held in April. Miss Lynn is the author of "A Step-Daughter of the Prairies" and various essays, published mainly in the Atlantic Monthly, and is the editor of eighteenth century verse.

ited the university yesterday, to interest engineering students in taking positions with the Westinghouse company.

Phillips Lehmer, Omaha; Frank Schwake, Nebraska City, and Leon White, Ashland, visited the Phi Kappa Psi house last week.

Lela Berry, '12, went to Atlantic, Iowa, Saturday to take a position in the English department of the high school.

John L. Kennedy of Omaha, republican candidate for United States senator, attended the Phi Delta Theta banquet Saturday.

C. L. Ollis has left the office of Purchasing Agent Evans to take a position with the International Harvester company in Omaha.

John F. Nelson, '16, has been elected to a high school position at Kearney.

Mary Taylor, of Omaha, is visiting Dorothy Carns. She was a guest at the Phi Beta Phi party last week.

Charles Gardiner left Lincoln Sunday for Maryland, where he will commence spring work on his farm.

The Student and the University

WHY ATTEND THE UNIVERSITY?

Why attend the university? Do not many linger at institutions of learning who would do better to begin something remunerative as early as possible? Are we not making a fetish of "higher education?" Is the student repaid for time spent in university courses unless these courses somehow enhance his powers as a bread-winner?

The answer is not difficult, it seems to me. To learn as much as we can is worth while because it makes the world a more interesting place to us. It makes life in general more interesting. And this is reason enough for going to college, if one is fortunate enough to have the opportunity, quite apart from the usual social and utilitarian considerations. The college man has more resources for finding interest in things about him than the man who has not attended college. The more fields of knowledge that attract us, the more subjects of which we know something, the better. From this point of view, university training has value for all. It has value for those who expect to work, for those who expect a life of leisure, for those who have average intellectual gifts, or gifts below the average, as well as for those who are unusually endowed. The graduate may not always make so much money as the non-graduate. He may even make less. But life will have more zest for him, if he has been intellectually trained, and knows something of subjects outside his profession. The educated man has palpable advantages of resourcefulness and interest over the man who has cared only for the "practical"—to say nothing of his immeasurably greater value to his community.
