GIRLS' ATHLETICS HAVE SUCCESSFUL SEASON

teams, and on November 8 played a match game on Nebraska field, the upperclassmen winning by a score of 2 to 1. A tennis tournament for individual honors was also organized in the fall, but due to the large number of entries was not played off before bad weather set in.

Basketball, the most popular sport among the girls at Nebraska, started after Thanksgiving vacation and ended in an interclass tournament on February 19, with the sophomores as champions. Basketball is taught in almost every high school of the state, and as a result, Nebraska gets splendid material. One hundred girls tried out for places on teams this year.

The volley-ball season was short, but filled in the gap between basketball and spring baseball. Class teams were not organized and no match games played, but many girls turned out for the game for the fun of playing it.

In preparation for the annual girls' track meet, training in track events started early in the spring along with baseball. The rules demand that a girl may enter only four events and that she must train for the particular events she enters. The events in the meet were the 25-yard dash, 50-yard dash, pole vault, 40-yard hurdles, high jump, baseball throw, interclass relay race and baseball game between the sophomores and freshmen. Helen Hewitt, '19, of Alliance, won the gold medal and also broke the state record in basketball and baseball throw. Grace Nichols, '18, of Lincoln, won the silver medal, and Julia Quinby, '19, of Omaha, the bronze. The sophomores won the baseball game by a score of 22 to 9, and the juniors won the interclass relay.

As compensation for work in athletics, the Girls' Athletic association offers an "N" certificate to those who have played on a class team, received an "E" in regular gymnasium work and won a place in the field meet. These three honors may be secured in one year, but will count toward an "N" if won any time during a girl's college course. Individual trophies, such as "N" blankets and sweaters, are also given to members of the basketball and baseball teams. A member of a team is also entitled to wear the class numerals.
