EDITED BY VIVIENNE HOLLAND

The Woman's Point of View

Have you noticed any snobs on the campus this year or have they all died a natural death as such worthless things inevitably do? The inner workings of the mind of a real expert snob must be a mixed up muddle. A snob is usually defined as a sort of queer individual who cultivates only those can give her a little social boost. This being true, if the individual didn't need the social boost she wouldn't be a snob, so there you are, why does it hurt anyone to be at least civil to everyone?

SOME OF US

Some of us is getting slack,
Some of us is sliding,
Some of us is lacking sense,
Some of us needs riding.

Some of us flocks in the halls,
No one can get past;
Some of us walks six abreast
And don't go very fast.

Some of us just talks and talks,
And never seems to stop,
All about movie shows
And the latest hops.

Now if we don't want to make
All the grown folks mad,
We will have to change our ways
Or we'll get in bad.

GIRLS CLUB WANTS MANY NEW MEMBERS

vention of middle western girl's clubs and fifty delegates from sixteen universities of the middle west were entertained. For the past four years the club has conducted a loan fund which helps university girls finish the semester's work, who otherwise would have to leave school because of lack of funds.

The annual dues of the club are fifty cents, half of which go to the general expenses of the club and half to the loan fund. "On to 600" is the slogan of the workers for the campaign, it being the wish this year that the membership come up to the six hundred mark. The campaign closes Thursday at 5 o'clock.

Fine Arts Class Studies Designing

Designs for Cross-stitch worked out in Art and Design Class.

SPACE AND LINE COMPOSITION DESIGN BY FINE ARTS STUDENT

The fine arts class in theory and practice of design has begun work studying designs for sewing, china painting, stenciling and various kinds of decorative work. The motif used is a design of three berries and two leaves and has been worked out by the class from specimens.

The designs made are conventionalized renderings of this one theme and represent the various interpretations of the different members of the class. In connection with this, color harmony is studied. The design in space and line composition shown was made by one of the members of last year's class.

The annual reception of the Union Literary society at the Temple, Friday night, was attended by over one hundred students. A very successful program was given and novel ways were introduced to help everyone get acquainted. The next open meeting will be Saturday evening, September 30.

The dancing styles for this social season were on display for the first time at the university parties last week end. From all indications the eccentric "peace disturbing" dances of the last few years have given way to the more simple, but graceful steps. At least, this seemed correct from an observation of what the better dancers of the school were doing. It was the amateur or the novice, who was dancing the unique, and too often freakish steps.

Undoubtedly the uniform dances will prevail before the season is well begun and the animation and vivacity of college performers will not allow the art of terpsichore to become too conventional or staid, although it is not of cabaret variety. A new waltz, without the old fashioned whirl seemed popular, as did the slow, fascinating fox trot and one step.
