KANSAS MAY SPRING SURPRISES, BUT HUSKERS ARE PREPARING

Stewart Tries Out New Alignment of Ends and Backfield Men, Seeking Strength

If the Kansas Aggies slip any surprises over on the boys Saturday they will be in the form of new plays worked out this week. The coach is driving the men through a hard scrimmage every night.

The scrubs are playing the part of the under dog while using the Kansas plays gathered by Rutherford last Friday. There will be no surprises, as was stated, but perhaps no surprises will be needed. At least that will be the case if the Aggies are as good as the scrubs. For with the aid of passes and fake plays they gained steadily and carried the ball down the field in quick time.

Fortune Didn't Smile
 But fortune did not smile on them, for just as they got down to the goal line a fierce tackle by one of the varsity men dislodged the ball from a freshman's arms and Cook picked it up and slid into a clear field and touchdown. The ball was brought back, however, and given to the freshmen again, but this time Shaw was in a fighting mood and the scrubs were doomed.

The return of Shaw to the lineup has put more confidence than ever into the whole line. Riddell and Shaw, when really working, form a pair which has hardly if ever had an equal for team work on a Nebraska field.

New Alignment
 With Dobson and Riddell at the halves and Rhodes and Doyle at right and left fullback respectively, the varsity was then given the ball and proceeded to puncture the scrub line for short but sure gains.

The varsity worked passes with only partial success. The scrubs were right on the job and spoiled over half of them, although "Otie" got away with one for a touchdown.

Jinx on Hand
 The jinx was on hand last night and did a fair job. John Cook received an injury which is liable to keep him out of the game Saturday. A hard tackle by one of the scrubs brought back his old trouble. This injury, though not permanently serious, is painful for a long time and such an injury in the past has been known to keep some Cornhusker stars out of the game for some time.

Students are requested, by the coach, not to come out to the field during practice hours for the rest of the week, as the workouts are to be in secret.

LOUIS FARLEY, '08, KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT LAST WEEK

News of the death of Louis L. Farley, E. E., '08, of Sioux City, has reached Lincoln friends. He was killed in an automobile accident near Rapid City, S. D., a week ago. The funeral was held at the home of his parents at Bancroft, Neb., last Thursday.

Farley took a prominent part in University activities while here. After leaving the University, he was employed as an electrical engineer at Bancroft, Neb., for several years, and later went to Sioux City, where he entered the real estate and farm loan business with two brothers.

A brother of Farley, Edward Farley of Bancroft, is a freshman in the University.

ARMSTRONG'S

DETERMINE TO "DO OR DIE;" FULMER

WESLEYAN CHANCELLOR GIVES ADDRESS AT CONVOCATION

Urges Necessity of Choosing a Vocation for Which Student is Adapted, and Sticking to It

"What young men and women need today more than anything else in the world is the good old-fashioned determination to do or die," declared Chancellor C. A. Fulmer of Nebraska Wesleyan university, an alumnus, in his speech on "The Choice of a Vocation," at convocation yesterday.

"There are three classes of people, from the standpoint of the vocational question. First there are those who have prepared themselves for no one work in life—jacks of all trades. Then there are the misfits—the round pegs in the square holes. And last there are those who have chosen their vocation and are adapted to it, and who will succeed if they prepare themselves."

Many Fail
 "It is surprising," said Dr. Fulmer, "that so many of this latter class fail in spite of the fact that they have 'seen the vision' of what they want to be. The inspiration is there, but there is lacking in many instances the determination to adequately prepare themselves for the work they have chosen."

"And bear in mind, fellow students, that in this day of keen competition, when, from point of service to the world, the inexorable law of the survival of the fittest holds sway, that only those who have made this thorough preparation for their special work will succeed. It used to be that the sons and daughters of savages had no life work to plan—it was already laid out for them. But it's different now. One has to be so very, very narrow and so very, very deep to succeed."

To the wave of shallowness sweeping over the country on the wings of the vaudeville craze, Dr. Fulmer attributes much of the blame for the general impression held by too many young people that "every man is fitted for everything."

Need Expert Knowledge
 "I am tremendously concerned in this age with the all too prevalent, illusory belief that common sense will take the place of expert knowledge," he said.

In commenting upon the tendency of young people to choose a vocation for which they are fitted and then fail to prepare themselves for it, Dr. Fulmer exclaimed that a feeling of weariness always came over him, and he was tempted to say: "Shame on you! You've got a yellow streak."

"It is not jacks of all trades and misfits which concerns university young people so much," he said. What he had come down to tell them, he declared, was that unless they deeply prepare themselves for their service in the world, they can never expect to succeed in this day of competition and specialization.

as, is so anxious that the students be given every chance to make good that he has adopted an entirely new policy. He intends to reserve every Saturday entirely for the students and will be in his office to attend to any matter that anyone may wish to call to his attention.—Exchange.
