The Woman's Point of View

There is throughout the state an increasing interest in the question of dormitories for the women students at the state University. A system is being used in the school of agriculture, a secondary school in connection with the University, that in part solves the problem of supervision. Mrs. J. M. Babcock has been appointed director of girls. She and her daughter, who is a freshman in the University, live in Home Economics hall. Mrs. Babcock is the social adviser of the students rooming in this hall and also has under her care two private houses on Starr street. Besides looking after the interests of the girls in these three places, Mrs.

Babcock has already come in personal touch by calls and otherwise, with one-third of the girls of the school. If time permits she will meet and know every one of them. She has the city and the home address of each girl and in case of sickness can call the parents or guardian at once. Everyone concerned with this plan is enthusiastic in regard to it. It will surely be a source of pleasure to the mothers of the girls in the school of agriculture to know that some one is devoting her entire time to the well-being of their daughters. Mrs. Babcock is treasurer of the Nebraska State Federation of clubs and has shown her interest in young people in many ways.

tion is a branch of the National Intercollegiate Suffrage association, which has chapters in many universities and girls' colleges. It is hoped that Mrs. W. J. Bryan can be secured to speak at the tea. Many Lincoln women who have been prominently identified with the work, will be there.

Dean Mary Graham will hold her tea Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock in honor of Mrs. Mary Schenke Woolman. Mrs. Woolman arrived yesterday from Indianapolis, Ind., where she has been assisting in some important investigations.

COLLEGE CITIZENSHIP
AT Y. W. C. A. VESPERS
THIS AFTERNOON

There will be an interesting discussion of the opportunities and obligations of college citizenship. Nell Youngers and Ethel Stone will talk from the students' point of view. Miss Margaret Feddle, of the home economics department, will talk from the alumna's point of view. Helen Loftman will preside at this meeting and there will be a violin solo by Jean Priest.

CO-ED STUDENTS
GIVE CAFE A TEST

Twenty-seven girls in section 4 of Home Economics 1 are making an experiment which consists of taking meals at the cafeteria for one week. The girls intend to bring out a few facts which will arouse the interest of other co-eds.

The home economics class began with breakfast on Monday. Each girl is keeping an exact account of the price of each meal, and at the end of a week she can compare the cost with the cost of boarding-house and light housekeeping meals. It is believed that from the comparison, it will be found that the minimum belongs to the cafeteria.

A BOOST FOR NEBRASKA

Oregon Film in Great Demand Over the State

It may be an interesting fact to students and faculty to know that the University of Nebraska and her football squad are at the present time one of the "movie" attractions of the day.

The film exhibited in Lincoln last week, showing the Cornhuskers' Oregon trip and their victory over the Oregon Aggies, has been bought by the Laemmle Film Service of Omaha. This will be a great boost for the Cornhuskers, for it will impress upon the people of the state the fact that the University of Nebraska has an organization that is second to none, which should swell the pride of every loyal Nebraskan. In reality, the return value from this particular enterprise is easily underestimated.

The film was presented in Omaha the latter part of last week and is in great demand all over the state.

BRIEF BITS OF NEWS

Miss Blanche M. Lyman discussed the "History of Social Legislation in Nebraska during the Territorial Period" yesterday afternoon at the seminar on present political and social questions. The meaning of social legislation, the function, effect, purpose and limitation of the state were taken up.

Prof. W. F. Dann will interpret the Third Beethoven Symphony at 11:30 this morning in Art hall.

Phi Delta Kappa, the honorary society in education, which has a membership in the University of about forty-five members, will hold its annual banquet at the Rome hotel in Omaha, Thursday noon, at 12:30, in connection with the state teachers' association. The chapter will be addressed by one or two of the prominent speakers from abroad.
