MICHIGAN IS ON HUSKER SCHEDULE

WOLVERINES GET OCT. 27 DATE, IN PLACE OF AGGIES

Contract Does Not Call for Return Game in 1918, But Nebraska Has Hopes

The 1917 football schedule has at last become fixed, or at least that is what the authorities say. Michigan university has been taken on in place of Michigan agricultural college, which was reported at first as the opponent on October 27.

The Aggies withdrew last week when the Cornhusker authorities demanded that they observe the same eligibility rules as Nebraska has to obey.

When Michigan university found that the Aggies had broken the agreement and that it was not Nebraska that severed the connections, they accepted the Nebraska offer to play in Michigan next year, but insisted on a single contract.

No Return Game

The Cornhusker authorities did not like the idea of playing in Ann Arbor without the promise of a return game. After considering all sides of the question, however, they decided that it would be to Nebraska's advantage to take on the big game even though it insured no game for 1918.

With Michigan on the schedule the task of the coach and players is even larger than it was with the Aggies as opponents.

Michigan and Nebraska have met only twice on the gridiron. The first time the Wolverines were victors by the score of 31 to 0. The second time was in the memorable battle of 1911, when the Michigan machine, which was supposed to be one of the strongest in the west barely escaped defeat by holding the Nebraskans to a 6 to 6 tie.

PROF. LE ROSSIGNOL
MET ALUMNI ON EASTERN TRIP

Professor LeRossignol has recently been elected vice-president of the American Economic association held in Columbus, O. John R. Commons of the University of Wisconsin is president of the organization and Prof. A. A. Young of Columbia university is secretary.

Among the delegates who are alumni of this University whom Professor LeRossignol met are Prof. Willford J. King of the University of Wisconsin and Edith Abbot of the Chicago school of philanthropy, who is well known for her researches in the economic conditions of women. Professor King recently wrote a book, "The Wealth and Income of the People of the United States" and is the author of "Elements of Statistical Method." He read a paper at the convention on the statistics of the distribution of wealth.

STAGE REAL FIGHT IN BASKETBALL

ALPHA TAU OMEGA BEATS ALPHA SIGMA PHI

Score was 12 to 3—Crandall of Losing Team Features as the Star

The A. T. O.'s and the Alpha Sigs staged the first real battle of the inter-fraternity basketball series when they clashed on the Armory floor, last night. The A. T. O.'s won, 12 to 3.

The team work of the winners was much better than that of the losers, but the individual star of the game was "Doc" Crandall, the basket guard of the Alpha Sigs. Time after time, when the A. T. O.'s machine-like team work had carried the ball to within scoring distance, a score was averted through the work of Crandall alone.

For the A. T. O.'s Vifquain did by far the best work. Playing basket guard he allowed the losers one lone goal and annexed three for himself. Schumacher, his guarding mate, also comes in for a share of the honor, doing most of the floor work for his team.

Played Good Basketball

Both of these teams played much better basketball than any team has shown before, during the tournament. The passing of both was clean and at times sensational in its extent. Although the winners had hard time in locating the basket when they had a chance, it was probably due to the fact that they had an attack of over-confidence during the first half.

The line-up:
A. T. O.'s—12 Alpha Sigs—3
Schellenberg.....Anderson
Gerhart.....Burke
Shaw.....Gillett
Vifquain.....G.....Dobson
Schumacher.....Crandall
Substitutes—Zumwinkle for Gerhart; Jackson for Anderson.

Field goals—Burke, Schumacher, Schellenberg 2, Vifquain 3.

Free throws—Burke 1.

Score end of first half—A. T. O.'s 2, Alpha Sigs 3.

Referee—Corey.

GERMAN DEPARTMENT OFFERS NEW COURSE

German Scientific Reading and Gothic in Second Semester Curriculum

Prof. Laurence Fossler will offer a course in German scientific reading next semester, especially planned for advanced students in biological subjects, as botany, zoology and physiology. Being so planned, it will be necessary to require adequate preliminary training in German. In order to enter the class, students must have had at least four semesters of college German—courses 1, 2, 3, 4, or 4a. The class will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5 o'clock.

The department of Germanic languages and literature has announced that the course in Gothic listed hitherto for the first semester, but left out this fall because of the unusually large class in summer school, will be held during the second semester providing there are enough graduate and senior students who desire the course.

Professor Fossler will be glad to interview any students at the earliest moment who are looking toward taking such a course. It will be open to all graduates and seniors who have had adequate linguistic preparation.

West Point—The annual football game with Pennsylvania will be played on the Army's grounds next fall instead of in Philadelphia as has been the custom heretofore.—Ex.

MRS. RICHARD RUTHERFORD COACHES SENIOR GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

The senior girls who wish to play basketball have been having difficulty in getting enough players together to practice, so they went forth yesterday in search of someone who would protect them from the underclass teams. They found Mrs. Richard Rutherford.

"Isn't she wonderful?" Patricia Maloney, a freshman who had been trying to guard Mrs. Rutherford, was heard to say when the game was over. "You can't keep with her, but it is an education in itself to just stand and watch her go by."

SORORITIES TO PLEDGE FEBRUARY 2

Pledge Day Advanced in Order to Cut Short the Rushing Season

University sororities will pledge new members Friday, February 2, between 5 and 6 o'clock, according to an announcement made by the Pan-Hellenic council. This cuts short the second semester pledging by one day.

The change was made, according to Miss Florence McGahay, chairman of the Pan-Hellenic council, because very few of the girls' organizations give parties on Friday anyway; comparatively few girls are pledged, and it seems useless to prolong the season.

Coincident with the announcement of the change in pledge day, comes the authorization of mixed parties for Friday night.

DR. J. B. WELCH TO ADDRESS PICK AND HAMMER CLUB

Dr. J. B. Welch will address the Pick and Hammer club on "First Aid in Emergency," this evening at 7:30 o'clock in Museum 301. Doctor Welch has given this address previously before the general and mechanical engineering societies. The lecture is a most interesting one and everyone is invited.

English Club to Uncork Old Brown Jug In Ancient Meeting Place

The little old brown jug, famous among University traditions as the property of the English club, will be uncorked in the ancient home of that learned society Friday night. The club will meet then in room 310, University hall, where it was wont to meet in the good old days. Eight o'clock is the hour.

It will be an old-fashioned meet-

BRANDEIS QUINTET TO PLAY FRIDAY

CORNHUSKERS TO OPEN HOME SEASON WITH STRONG TEAM

Kansas Aggies Refuse to Play Nebraska—York College Saturday

Night—Stars to Play

The basketball season on the home floor will be opened Friday night of this week with a game in which the strong Brandeis team of Omaha will be the Cornhusker opponents. On Saturday night the York college team will be taken on for a drubbing, Cornhuskers hope.

Coach Stewart and Manager Reed have been trying to land opponents for these dates since late last week when the Kansas Aggies backed out of an agreement they had made to play here on those dates.

The Brandeis game is particularly attractive as the team is composed of ex-college and high school stars. Chief among the former is Vergil Reiter, captain of the Dartmouth basketball team last year.

The York quintet is composed almost entirely of state high school stars and is expected to put up a genuine scrap.

BANKING COURSE FOR THE WOMEN

A new course in the elements of banking and finance, property rights, management of estates, and investments, designed especially for girls registered in domestic science and art, will be offered next semester by the department of political economy. The course designated will be political science 20, taught by Mrs. Minnie T. England, and will be open to all junior and senior girls. The class will meet at 10 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday.

ing, the announcement says. Miss Louise Pound, professor of English literature, and faculty advisor to the "Order of the Golden Fleece," will pour from the jug good brown cider, and pass also doughnuts.

Prof. J. E. LeRossignol will read one of his short stories, that recently appeared in the Canadian monthly. Miss Olivia Pound is also on the program.

PROF. R. F. HOWARD PRESIDENT OF STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

Prof. R. F. Howard of the horticultural department was elected president of the Nebraska state horticultural society yesterday at the state farm, at the forty-eighth annual meeting of that organization.

The recommendation of the University regents, who have asked for $10,000 for the use of the University horticultural department in the extermination of pests and insects was endorsed by the society. The horticulturalists also approved of the regents' request for a horticultural demonstration farm.

JUNIORS MEET SENIORS TONIGHT

Interclass Basketball Series Continued With Upperclass Contest

The interclass basketball series will be continued tonight by a game between the junior and senior basketball teams, to be played on the Armory floor tonight.

Both classes have a goodly number of men trying for places on the team, and the contest should prove interesting from the spectators' point of view. No admission will be charged.

When the class fights get a little warmer, the interclass games will be played as preliminaries to the varsity contests. More men are needed for places on all the class teams, Assistant Coach Rutherford says.

CAPTAINS FOR BASKETBALL GIRLS' TEAMS PICKED

With the girls' interclass basketball tournament only a month distant, competition is running high among the co-ed basket tossers for places on one of the class fives. The list of material is unusually large this year and the process of sifting out the best players for the class quintets will begin soon. For excellence in the game, for executive ability and general good judgment, the department has appointed the class captains, pro tem, who will play as usual, confer with the coach, Mrs. Jessie Behtol Lee, and aid in the selection of the basketball teams. Those who will head their classes are: Lettie Ireon, freshman; Helen Hewitt, sophomore; Camilla Koch, juniors, and Louise White, seniors.

DEDICATE NEW DAIRY BUILDING

FIRST OF NEWER UNIVERSITY HALLS READY FOR STUDENTS

Five Hundred People at Ceremonies—Chancellor Avery Presides—State Dairymen Assist

The Dairy Industry building, the first of the new University buildings to be completed, was formally dedicated by the board of regents, Chancellor Avery, University faculty member, and the State Dairymen's association, before an audience of five hundred people, in the assembly room of the new building, last night.

The program opened with two selections by the University Glee club. The invocation was given by F. A. Reiser, the chaplain of the evening.

Chancellor Avery Presided

Chancellor Avery, presiding officer, introduced Raymond A. Pearson, president of the Iowa State college at Ames, who gave the dedication address.

President Pearson, referring to the new building, said:

"It is a monument to the past and a starting point to the future."

The building is one of the finest of its kind in the world, and is a tribute to the board of regents and the people who had the construction in charge, Mr. Pearson declared.

"Investigations in this building will attract state-wide, nation-wide and perhaps world-wide attention."

In connection with the educational work being done along dairy industrial lines the speaker went on:

Dignity of Education

"The building is another proof that the dignity of the education in these industries has come to be recognized by the American people."

The United States has only realized in the past few years the necessity of trained men along agricultural lines.

"The greatest need of our world today is big men with big ideas."

"The construction of this building is a hopeful sign for the future," said the speaker, in regard to the outlook for trained men along dairy industrial lines.

Chancellor Avery, upon the recommendation of the senate of the University, and of the board of regents, presented President Pearson with an honorary degree of Doctor of Agriculture, at the conclusion of his address.

Remarks were also made by Regent E. P. Brown, Dean E. A. Burnett, B. H. Rawl, chief of the United States dairy division; A. L. Haecker and Prof. J. H. Frandsen, which covered the cost of the building, the history of the dairy industry in Nebraska, and the future outlook for dairying in this state.

The Building

The new Dairy Industry building was erected at a cost of $200,000.

The outside finish is of grey pressed brick, with white stone trimmings.

The walls of the first floor is of white tile and the floors of terra and tile. The feature of the first floor is a large work room at the back of the building. Lecture rooms and laboratories comprise the remainder.

The third floor feature is a large assembly room, while the remainder is taken up by class rooms and laboratories.

In the basement are large refrigerating rooms, equipped with the Baker system.
