to attend his classes last Friday on account of an attack of la grippe.
 of Donald Fauquet, ex-'17, of Wahoo, visited Saturday and Sunday at the Alpha Tau Omega house.

Paul A. Buol, C. E. '14, of Springfield, Mo., who is ballast inspector for the Frisco railroad company, visited the University Friday.
 Charles H. Epperson, '16, of Clay Center, editor-in-chief of The Daily Nebraskan during the last semester of last year, visited University friends Saturday.

RYSON TO NATIONAL STUDENT CONFERENCE

 urged by the commission to submit suggestions for the questionnaire that Bryson will take with him. A box will be placed outside the Daily Nebraskan office, south of University hall, and students who are interested in the student council and who have any ideas on the subject, are asked to drop them in this box. This must be done at once if the suggestions are to be of use to the commission in drawing up its questionnaire, because Bryson leaves on Wednesday.
 The Purdue convention is the first national convention of the kind to be held. Delegates will compare the workings of their student councils with those of other universities, and better student government is expected to result. The conference comes at a most fortunate time for Nebraska, which is preparing its student council plan for submission to the students and faculty.
