CAMP CODY MAN TO SPEAK TODAY

Special Convocation to Present
Challenge to Students

PART OF NATIONAL PLAN

Result of Northfield Plan, and Crete
Conference, in Fight for Christian World Democracy

A special Convocation has been arranged for 11 o'clock this morning in Memorial hall, Acting Chancellor Hastings, presiding. Dr. C. E. Cobbey, a Red Triangle secretary from Camp Cody, will speak on a subject that is today presenting a challenge to every university, in America. His theme will be "North American Students Mobilizing for Christian World Democracy."

The colleges of the United States are responding nobly to the great program as outlined for the student world in the national conference at Northfield, Mass., January 3-6. The time has come when Nebraska faculty and students are to have a like opportunity of enlisting in this nation-wide campaign. Dr. Cobbey, as an army Y. M. C. A. secretary, is prepared to present to the University the plans as they apply to life in the training camps.

A large number of faculty members and students have become familiar with the "Northfield Program" for colleges through the Crete conference, fraternity and sorority meetings, and through a representative meeting of faculty and students, held in the Temple Tuesday evening. Steele Holcombe, state college secretary of the Y. M. C. A., presided. Walter Judd briefly outlined the program as it has been enthusiastically supported in other Universities, such as Minnesota, Johns Hopkins, and California. Evelyn Block brought a report of the all-state conference at Crete and W. H. Tinker, intermediate secretary of the Y. M. C. A. gave an inspiring address on the new and greater responsibilities of college men and women of today.

A separate meeting of the men followed, and there was a lively discussion of the program as it applied to Nebraska. Today, at 11 o'clock, every loyal Nebraska will hear Dr. Cobbey's presentation of our part in the present world situation.

Miss Helen Frazer, Leader in Europe, to Speak on Women's Part in the Struggle

With the announcement of the coming to Lincoln of Miss Helen Frazer, great leader of women's war work in England University, students as well as citizens of Lincoln are assured of one of the most worthwhile addresses that they will be permitted to hear this year.

Miss Frazer, who has recently come to America direct from her work in England, is touring the country in the interest of the mobilization of women for war work. She will speak at Convocation next Tuesday morning in Memorial hall on "Women and the War." That evening she will speak at St. Paul's church on "The Mobilization of Women for War Work." A charge of twenty-five cents will be made for the evening address and all profits

Condition of "War Baby" May Improve

The weather man predicts warmer weather; in fact, he predicts that the thermometer will, in the near future, run up ever as far as 2000. A thermometer of suitable size will be set up in front of our old friend, the College book store, to register the temperature of Nebraska enthusiasm.

Along with the snow and ice on the sidewalks and steps, Jack Frost has managed to send a chill over

University of Nebraska pep. Picture Nebraska's poor little war baby—the 1918 Cornhusker—in danger of death from freezing and starvation. How can a child live on only 300 subscriptions? Take pity on this pitiful child and help boost the thermometer.

The weather man, H. B. Thompson, business manager of the Cornhusker, predicts that by next week the child will stop shivering and begin to smile.

University Chorus Will Meet Thursday Afternoon

The University chorus will meet at 5 o'clock Thursday, instead of at 7 o'clock Thursday and at 5 Friday. This includes the entire chorus, both men and women, and everyone who has no classes at that hour is expected to be there.

will be turned over to Serbian relief. There will be no charge for the Convocation address.

While in England Miss Frazer was especially active in the organizing of her country's forces before the actual outbreak of the war and since then has led in war savings and food conservation work in that country. She comes highly recommended by the leaders of all war work committees in England and has made a profound impression where ever she has spoken in this country.

The Rt. Honorable J. W. Gulland, M. P., Chief Liberal Whip and chairman of the parliamentary recruiting committee, says "Had I been asked to suggest a woman to do this work, I could not have thought of anyone more suitable than yourself. Your large experience of organizing before the war, and the splendid work you have done in many of the government efforts since the war, enable you to speak at first hand of what women can do, and have done. I know well your great powers of public speaking, and have heard you capture large audiences in a very telling way by your speeches.

"I myself have spoken to American audiences and I am sure that your kind of speaking is exactly what will appeal to them."

Lester W. Hanson Was Chosen Business Manager

Through an oversight, the name of Lester W. Hanson, of Omaha, was omitted in announcing the results of the general election for the second semester in yesterday's Nebraskan. Hanson was elected business manager of the 1919 Cornhusker without any competition whatsoever.

theatre consisting of Grecian dances, Hawaiian music and readings. After this refreshments will be served and the time spent in dancing in Music hall. Miss Amanda Heppner is giving the party and the board of senior girls which was elected last Thursday night and of which Harriet Ramey is the president, are assisting her.

Sixty senior non-fraternity girls in reply to the notices sent out from the office, have adopted three freshmen girls apiece. They are expected to bring the freshmen girls to the party, to advise them concerning what school activities to enter, to help them in their studies if necessary, and, in short, to be a real friend to them. The upperclassmen in sororities acting as "mothers" to their freshman "daughters" is part of this movement and the senior girls should bring their freshmen "daughters" to this party. It is expected that the system will be organized earlier next year so that the seniors can help the freshmen in registering and obtaining rooms.

Mrs. E. H. Griswold of Gordon, Neb., is visiting her daughter, Florence, at the Alpha Omicron Pi house.

"BUILDER OF BRIDGES" TO BE PLAYED TONIGHT

University Players Will Present Well-Known Drama

PLOT IS INTERESTING

Entire Action Full of Thrills—Only a Few Choice Seats

Which will the hero choose—the bridge—his life-work—or the girl? Will the girl marry him—the man who loves her—or the man whom she says she loves? Will she sacrifice herself to save her erring brother. These are the questions that arise in the mind of an audience seeing "The Builder of Bridges." This play, which will be given tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Temple theatre, is one of the cleverest plays written by Alfred Sutro. Among his plays are "A Marriage Has Been Arranged" and "The Bracelet," which has been played by the Washington Square Players.

One of the most thrilling situations that can be imagined occurs in this play. The heroine, Katharine Pierce, has just promised to marry a certain rich engineer for the sake of her brother who has embezzled bonds. Enter her sweetheart who, being informed of her engagement, exclaims, "But I thought I was engaged to her."

The seats have been selling rapidly this week, but a few choice ones may still be obtained at the College book store.

RAINBOW TOURNEY TO BE PLAYED SATURDAY

Seven Teams of Non-Sorority
Women Will Decide Basketball Supremacy

University students are invited to attend the Rainbow tournament which is to be held at the Armory at 1:30 Saturday. The meet will start promptly in order that the freshmen may attend the freshmen-senior party at the Temple.

This tournament is to be of the same nature as the inter-sorority tournament held two weeks ago, but will be entirely between non-sorority women. It will be staged under the auspices of the Women's Athletic association. Seven teams will be entered, and will play through the entire elimination rounds, to decide which color of the "Rainbow" shall be victorious. The winners will be presented with silver friendship bracelets by Mrs. J. G. B. Lee of the physical education department. An additional zest will be added by the fact that the showing made in this meet will have much to do with picking of the class teams.

All the girls entered are stars, and the teams have been practicing together, to develop teamwork. Therefore, the meet is expected to be as fast and hard-fought as its classic predecessor. Everyone is urged to attend these games, and are promised a well-balanced, well-played series of games. There will be no admission charged.

Prof. G. E. Howard Returns From Interesting Trip

Prof. George E. Howard, head of the department of sociology and political science, and president of the American Sociological society, is now returning from a trip that took him to the University of Lower California, and from there to Philadelphia, to preside at the twelfth annual session of the sociological society. While at the University of Lower California, he visited the social psychology and municipal problems classes, and their sociological seminar, addressing the students in the various departments.

Brown, A. W. Teter and Webb Russel. They are all seniors in the college of pharmacy. The next examination will come in May.

WESLEYAN EXPECT TO DRUB HUSKERS

Coyotes Counting Victories for Friday and Saturday Nights

NEBRASKA ROOTERS SLUFF

Student Body Has Failed to Give
Team Support Needed to Help
Overcome Handicaps

Nebraska's basketball five will temporarily drop out of the Missouri valley fight this week, and turn its attention to the Coyote quintet. Two games will be played, the first one Friday night at University place, and the second one Saturday night at the Armory.

The dope on the game is slightly favorable to the Methodists. They beat the Funston team that walloped the Cornhuskers. But since then, the Huskers have improved in such a degree that another clash with Funston might tell a different tale. Wesleyan always has turned out top-notch teams that have made strong bids for section honors of the country. The reason for this is that at the smaller school, basketball is made the main issue, just as football is the big thing at Nebraska. As a consequence, the Coyotes have usually managed to defeat the Husker.

Anyway, Wesleyan has already counted the game at University Place as her's, and is even expecting to come out victor Saturday night. This fact in itself is not causing Coach Stewart so much worry, because he knows that he has a team that is back of him and that will fight with a spirit that will acquit it creditably, win or lose.

But he is in no wise so certain about the spirit of the general student body. It is an undisputed fact that Nebraska rooters have been sluffing badly in their support of the basketball team this season. The crime is all the greater because of the fact that, facing the greatest odds ever put against a Nebraska quintet, the team is battling with gameness and sportsmanship that is putting Nebraska on the map even more than a winning team would. In every other school in the conference, the basketball attendance is steadily increasing. Co-eds are turning out to the games in force. Here, the interest is dwindling. And support helps a lot in a basketball game. Several followers of the game have declared that if the Scarlet and Cream gve had had the support it deserved in the last game with Kansas last week, the final score would have been turned around.

Wesleyan has always been noted for the spirit exhibited at its athletic contests. Nebraska's rooters are in grave danger of being outdone by a school less than half its size.

MEETING CALLED BY SENIOR PRESIDENT

Will Elect All Other Class Officers and Discuss Vital Topics

Elizabeth Erazim, newly elected senior class president has started the final semester's work of the class of 1918 off with a rush by calling a class meeting for this morning at 11:30 in room 101 Law building. All officers for the semester with the exception of president will be chosen at this time and it is rumored that several other topics of vital interest to every senior will be discussed.

A special invitation has been issued by the new president and has been seconded by a large number of the boys of the class to the girls, to attend this meeting. The class roll contains nearly 250 names at present, the large majority of whom are girls, and upon them will fall the largest share of the burden for running the affairs of the class this semester.

Owing to the lateness of the elections and the early date of graduation the class of 1913 will have to rush plans for the usual events which have been held in other years.
