Senior Play Committee

 U 106, at 11 o'clock today.

 IN FINAL DEBATE

had failed to remedy and showed that evils such as concentration of power, the profit ideal, over-capitalization and lack of safety devices were inherent in the system and could not be remedied. They showed that the proposed system was practical, economical and efficient in that it would eliminate many unnecessary expenses and do away with the waste of competition. Their final speaker argued that government ownership would lessen useless litigation and eliminate corruption and that it was the logical solution as the railroads were for public service and all revenue came from the public.

Freshmen Defend Present System
 The Freshmen argued that the change was unjustifiable since the United States under private ownership had better service, lower rates and higher wages than any foreign country with government owned railroads and that the present demand for government operation came only at a time of abnormal conditions.
 Their second speaker showed that the proposed system could not be expected to work out efficiently because of the political corruption that would result. There would be too much political patronage, a lack of discipline, discrimination and "River and Harbor" methods of appropriations just as we have at the present time.
 Their final argument was used to show that the change was not practical because of the enormous cost which would be involved in the buying of the roads. Over twenty billion dollars would be required for the payment and the government would lose the annual tax from one-eighth of the land of the country.
 They advocated more regulation as has been used in the cases of the trusts.

In rebuttal both teams fought back and forth on the political question, the juniors getting a little better of the final score as they showed that political domination was practiced by the railroad corporation under the present system, that men would be picked under the civil service ruling and that very little political corruption such as promised by the negative could be found in the big business of the postal system. The negative likened the present situation to a box car which needed added support while an unusually heavy load was being carried but which did not need the extra support after the extra burden was removed. The affirmative pointed out that they were arguing for the maintenance of the support and the carrying of as big cargo as possible all the time.

 OF DRUGS ON HEART ACTION

The effect of drugs on the heart action was shown thru demonstration upon a Belgian hare by Mr.
 H. L. Thompson of the Pharmacy department, in the basement of Nebraska hall at the Student Assistants' club, held Thursday evening. Miss Harriet Anderson and Lucile Keith assisted.

RUTH ROYE—ORPHEUS TODAY
 Ruth Roye, billed as vaudeville's youngest comedienne in a repertoire of songs, is an instant hit. Her versatility is striking and she interprets several song hits in a way which brings great applause. Ruth has wonderful control over her facial expression and enters into the part she portrays with bubbling spirits.—Salt Lake
