PRICE FIVE CENTS

CLASS PRESIDENTS NAME COMMITTEES

Bryans and Ellerbrock Appoint Their Assistants for the Present Semester

Thirty-seven Seniors and Twenty-six Juniors Receive the Coveted Honors

The presidents of the two upper classes of the university today cut the first political pie of the year when they announced the chairmans and associates for various committees who will hold office for the ensuing semester. The honorable presidents did not disclose whether they appointed their assistants because of their good work in stuffing the ballot box or because of the faithful, winning, and political smiles which lured innocent voters to cast their ballot for "the best man." A list of lower class appointments will be published tomorrow.

President Wilson D. Bryans of the senior class announces the following senior committees:

"Y" PLANS ATHLETIC STUNTS FOR SOLDIERS

William Lantz to Succeed Walter Judd as Leader of Y. M. C. A. Work

Y. M. C. A. work at the University of Nebraska will in the near future be taken over by William Lantz because of the withdrawal from school of former President Walter H. Judd, who went to an officers' training school.

Workers of the "Y" here have a great time in store for S. A. T. C. men just as soon as a military schedule has been completed. They will then consult university and military officials and ascertain just what hours may be given over to sports and games of different sorts. It is the desire of "Y" officials to give the maximum of recreation in the least possible time. Mr. W. D. Healy, who is waiting his call for active service, will act as physical director. Coach "Pap" Kennedy of Kansas university is to be director of "Y" athletics for S. A. T. C. units of fourteen states which includes Nebraska.

The Y. M. C. A. here have already a large supply of footballs, baseballs, boxing gloves, etc., on hand ready to start a good time for the men just as soon as a schedule can be arranged. Rivalry between companies is going to be encouraged in such things as boxing bouts, wrestling and football.

TEACHERS WANTED AT NEW MEXICO SCHOOLS

Professor A. A. Reed received a call Tuesday for teachers to fill positions in the high school and grade schools at Raton, New Mexico. Those wishing to apply for the positions mentioned in the following letter see Professor Reed or write direct:

"We are in need of a man to handle manual training in the high school and seventh and eighth grades, military drill, and athletic coach. The position will pay fifteen hundred to the right man. Board and room here cost about forty a month. Enrollment in the high school two hundred, population five thousand, altitude, 6700. Three hundred days of the three hundred sixty-five we have sunshine, school is closed now because of the influenza, but expect it to open within three or four weeks.

"L. C. RHOADS,
"Supt. of Schools."

Are you studying French so as to be able to talk with the boys when they come back?

Cuffed trousers are to be abandoned by federal orders to save material, says an exchange. Why not make men wear knickerbockers and save more material?

Yes, the great American college boy, like all the other great American boys from farm and factory, city town and country, is giving a good account of himself on the fighting line.

To achieve victory we must have two armies: One that fights; one that saves. Every patriot will be a member of one of these armies.

STAFF POSITIONS OPEN

Applications will be received at the student activities' office for the following positions on the staff of The Daily Nebraskan:

Business Manager.
Associate Editor.
News Editor.

No applications will be considered later than Friday at 10 o'clock. State qualifications and experience.

HUSKER LADS PRACTICE UNTIL FALL OF NIGHT

Lose Three Men in Call for Officers and Coaches Face Job Before Missouri Game

McMahon Again Dons Moleskins and Takes His Place in the Back Field

The shadows had begun to fall and the street lights had begun to glimmer as the Husker football warriors tramped home from their daily practice drill at the M street pary last night. Coaches Kline and Schissler worked long and hard with their men, shifting players and plugging up the holes made by the departure of Brestel, Basset and Simpkins to the field artillery officers' training school at Camp Taylor, Kentucky.

Back Field Reconstructed

The back field underwent almost a complete reconstruction. Brestel had been worked at a halfback position for a couple of weeks and then substituted for Captain Erney Hubka, who was switched from fullback to left tackle in order to strengthen the line. Brestel left for the training camp and his station was left vacant.

Halfback Schellenberg was laid out with an injured neck in the Monday scrimmage and may not get back in the lineup before the Saturday against the Tigers. Harold McMahon's return to the fold after two and a half weeks on his back with the influenza, helped lighten the burden of rebuilding the back field. Martin and Hartley were run in and broken in to the new harness of the backfield.

SOLDIER-SCHOLARS HAVE FANTASTICAL STUDYING METHODS

Professors are probably at a loss to know by what methods and at what times their students prepare their lessons and under what influences the soldier-scholar is led to make such unusually perfect recitations. If some evening the inquiring mind of the teacher should compel him to turn his wandering steps barrackswards and lead him into the solitude of the students' quarters, he would find his pupils doing unheard of stunts in their manner of study.

In one corner with his notebook balanced in the window sits a lonely private laboriously penning pages of manuscript dealing, possibly, with his ideas of what should be the terms of an armistice with the central powers. On the floor sits another, his feet beneath his bunk using his cot for a desk and leaning against his suitcase. His troubled brow symbolizes Math. And yet another student sits on his cot holding his only suitcase across his knees and writes beneath the glow of the hall light. Giving life to all this show of intense concentration is the combined melody of voice and instrument. The piano in the hall is receiving a great deal of attention as is the "uke" or banjo in the far off nook. Every one is busy, either studying or recreating, eating or sleeping.

Under the combined influence of physical exercise, good and regular meals, early bed time and early rising, musical entertainment and strict discipline the boys are receiving the best and most extensive education possible. At present unhandy methods of study must be dealt with, tiresome means of writing must be used and other unusual practices taken into consideration but all these and more the boys do cheerfully, and smiling. Better facilities for study will be made soon, both to the benefit and joy of the students.

LARGE NUMBER VOTES CAST BY KHAKI GLAD STUDENTS

S. A. T. C. Men Are Not to Be Cheated Out of the Ballot

Nearly six hundred of the khaki clad S. A. T. C. men at the university took advantage of the opportunity to cast their vote yesterday, and marched in groups of twenty-five to and from the polls. Practically every man in the unit of voting age, dropped in vote in the ballot box at some time during the day.

The university soldiers were not allowed to stop and loiter around the polling booths, and neither were they permitted to aid in the distribution of campaign matter, but were required to return immediately to the barracks on the campus. S. A. T. C. men of the college section voted between the hours of ten o'clock and noon, while those in Section "B" of the detachment commenced voting at three o'clock, and continued until the closing of the polls. But about one hundred men of Section "A" were eligible to the vote because so many of these men have not yet reached their majority. In Section "B" fully two-thirds of the men were eligible to vote.

REFERENCE LIBRARIAN IN SPECIAL WAR WORK

Miss Josephine Lammers has resigned her position as reference librarian at the university library, and left for Washington, D. C., Sunday evening. She will look up material for a history of the Marines as no such publication has ever been made. Miss Lammers will receive the rank of sergeant in the U. S. Marines. She was graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1911.

UNIVERSITY OPENS WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

Monster Mass Meeting to be Held Friday Morning—Rev. Harmon to Speak

Nebraska to Raise $25,000 of a Total of 250 Millions

The University of Nebraska has again been summoned to put forth its best efforts to swing its part of the United War Work campaign which opens November 11. A monster mass meeting to arouse the enthusiasm of university students has been scheduled for Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the city auditorium, and all classes will be dismissed from 10 to 12. The entire S. A. T. C. unit will march in a body to the auditorium.

The university's quota in this nation-wide campaign to raise 250 millions for the actual promotion of war activities is $25,000. This is but $10,000 more than Nebraska students contributed in the campaign last year when their quota was liberally oversubscribed. Since that time the ultimate goal of the national campaign has been increased fifty per cent, due to the fact that we now have over two million soldiers in France and an increasingly larger number in training here.

Harmon to Speak

Rev. H. H. Harmon, prominent Y. M. C. A. worker who has recently returned from the front, will be the main speaker at the Friday morning meeting which will serve as the first regular convocation of the year. Another speaker closely connected with war work has also been promised by the Omaha headquarters. Patriotic songs will be a feature of the program. No subscriptions will be solicited at this meeting, the purpose being merely to put forth the aims of the campaign.

Seven Drives in One

Seven organizations of world-wide importance have banded their forces together to conduct the movement, and in their joint organization are authorized by the government for whom they work exclusively. They are the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Knights of Columbus, Jewish Welfare Board, War Camp Community Service, Salvation Army, and the American Library Association. Each of these has a special line of work and with their combined efforts form a powerful organization. The Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, and the Salvation Army are noted for their wonderful work at the front. In the battle zones all activities are a part of free service to the government, but behind the lines each organization strives to be self-maintaining, yet giving the maximum of free service to the boys in khaki.

Posters advertising the campaign have been widely circulated and the greatest possible publicity is being given the war work.

DR. J. A. L. WADDELL COMPOSES WAR BALLAD

"After the War"—Song For Soldiers and Sailors by Noted Engineer

Dr. J. A. L. Waddell of Kansas City, Missouri, has written a new war song of unusual force and spirit, called "After the War." The piece is written to the music of the song by Chas. K. Harris, "After the Ball." Dr. Waddell composed his new war song for the soldiers in the trenches, in the training camps, and on the high seas, and no doubt its popular refrain will be sung from coast to coast by the boys in khaki.

Dr. Waddell has always been a
