S. A. T. C. MEN TO HAVE OVERCOATS

Captain Drake to Requisition Coats for 140 Army Corp Men

First Supply Failed to Supply All Needs—Nebraska Lags Behind

Members of the S. A. T. C. who failed to get overcoats when they were issued sometime ago, will be fitted out with new ones within the month. After much wasted time, the authorities have finally decided to furnish the men the coats that they have waited for ever since they have been in the army.

The list of the men wishing the coats is being made up at the chancellor's office, and as soon as it is completed, Captain Drake will requisition them from the quartermaster's department. Men who are in town are requested to call at the chancellor's office to sign a receipt and leave their size for the overcoats. Men who are out of town will be informed by mail. It is necessary that men in town tend to the matter immediately, as the coats should be in the possession of the men while the severely cold weather lasts.

Nebraska Behind Other Colleges
The University of Nebraska is one of the few colleges in the country in which S. A. T. C. members have as yet not been completely outfitted with uniforms and overcoats. When the first lot was issued sometime after the signing of the armistice, there were not enough coats to supply all the men, and consequently many of them had to go home without the coats and have suffered during the cold spell. There were one hundred and forty men who did not get coats, and these applied to the authorities asking that they might be furnished with the coats that the government had promised. It is now certain that these men will receive their coats and as Captain Drake is rushing the order, it is probable that they will be in the hands of the men by the 20th of January.

COURSES IN MECHANICS POPULAR WITH FARMERS

One hundred and twenty-five men from all over the state have registered in the four weeks' course in operation and repair of automobiles, tractors and trucks that is being given at the university. Many of the men registered are middle-aged farmers from the western part of the state, who have become interested in learning

Delta Delta Delta Takes Active Part in War Work

Many women's fraternities from American universities have taken an active part in actual war relief projects overseas. Delta Delta Delta has recently announced the part it is taking in financing a building program for the relief of French women workers.

In Tours, France, the Y. W. C. A. has recently leased and equipped a two story building for the benefit of French women workers—clerks, stenographers, etc., many of them refugees. Delta Delta-Delta has agreed to reimburse the Y. W. C. A. for lease and furnishings of this building, called "Foyer des Allies" amounting to about $3,000, thus releasing that sum for other association projects. Delta Delta Delta has further agreed to finance the "Foyer" and to provide substitutes and all new workers needed for the administration of its affairs.

this practical work for their own use on the farms.

Many inquiries regarding the second course of this kind are being received daily by Principal H. E. Bradford at the state farm. The general short courses in the university begin January 27 and last until February 22.

In addition to the courses given at the last time, courses will be given in general agriculture, including studies in animal husbandry, animal pathology, dairying, entomology, field crops and soils, horticulture, poultry raising and farm accounting. The courses are given free and are open to anyone.

FIRST AWGWAN OUT TOMORROW MORNING

Publication Has Been Delayed—Second Issue February First

The first copies of the Awgwan will make their appearance on the campus tomorrow morning, and subscribers will call for their magazine at station A. The first issue has been necessarily delayed on account of printing difficulties, and because the business department could not sell advertising to merchants of the city during Christmas week. The quality of the remarkable publication, however, will more than make up for the long wait students have suffered.

The second number will be issued February first. This will be an automobile number and will contain mid-winter novelties to attract the interest of university students. Four other numbers will be placed on sale during the year.

The circulation manager of the AWGWAN announces that about 300 subscribers have been secured, and that this number will be increased to six or seven hundred by the end of the first semester. Several university girls are canvassing Awgwan subscriptions on the campus, and are competing for the prize that the management is offering for the greatest number of subscriptions. Other girls who would like to enter the contest are asked to apply to the Awgwan office during the day. A commission of 10 per cent is given for all subscriptions.

PROFESSOR N. A. BENGSTON BACK FROM WASHINGTON

Professor N. A. Bengston of the department of geography and conversation, who has been engaged in the technical branch of the war labor board in Washington since last June, has returned to the university and will resume his duties soon.

The geography department has lately returned to its former quarters in Nebraska hall, which has been used since last summer for the housing of drafted men. This department had temporary quarters in Bessey hall.

WOMEN'S BUILDING TO REOPEN TODAY

Doors of Hall to Swing Wide After Being Closed Several Weeks

Miss Heppner to Have Office There—All Organizations Have Use of It

University Woman's hall, which has been closed for several weeks, reopens its doors today for university women's activities. Several weeks ago the building had to be closed on account of a defective furnace which failed to furnish sufficient heat. The furnace has been repaired and the building, including all organization rooms, is open today for use. It will be open every day from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

The dean of women will hold regular office hours in the office on the first floor of the Woman's hall. Miss Amanda Heppner will be in room 105 in the Administration building at 11 a. m. and in the Woman's hall from 2 to 4 p. m. daily. Her assistant will hold office hours from 10 to 12 daily in the Woman's hall.

Vespers will be held Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the new building. All women's organizations will hold their regular meetings there from now on. The Faculty Woman's club will meet there on Wednesday afternoon, January 8, at 2:30.

The reopening of the building will greatly aid the women of the school in carrying on their affairs, as for the last several weeks they have had to hold meetings wherever it was possible to find a room. Now they will have a regular meeting place and much confusion will be avoided. Several social functions are planned for the near future, which will be held in the rooms of the building. Among these will be faculty teas, and organization parties.

FINE ARTS DEPARTMENT TO ADD NEW FEATURES

Practical Courses in Industrial Art Will Be Emphasized Next Semester

The fine arts department has planned to add several new features next semester. The war has convinced American educators that various types of industrial art need to be emphasized in order to correct deficiency in public school teachers, of which superintendents and artists all over the country are complaining. Classes in drawing or design will be given, in addition to the regular work in public school drawing.

Work in pottery and modeling, under Miss Dobbs, has been organized with especial regard to teachers, as this is required of candidates for certain types of teachers' certificates.

Students will doubtless be glad to hear that classes in drawing will be given the second semester, especially adapted to the needs of those taking botany, zoology and geology. Instructors in these subjects say they cannot understand some of the drawings handed in, and it is equally painful for the students who have no artistic ability.

WYER SPENDS WEEK AT UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

Former Librarian Engaged in War Work May Resume Duties Here Soon

Professor M. G. Wyer, who has been in library war service, has been at the University library for the past week. Professor Wyer has been head librarian here for three years, but last October received a leave of absence for war work.

He went to Camp Logan and for three months was busy organizing a library there. In May he went to Washington, where his work has been to find and secure men for libraries at the various cantonments.

Mr. Wyer has charge of the libraries in all the large camps. He finds three to five assistants for each camp library. All questions concerning the administration of libraries is referred to Mr. Wyer for settlement.

The headquarters are in the congressional library. There are five or six men in charge of this work. Professor Wyer will probably resume his duties here before the end of the school year.

SOPHOMORE HOP TO BE GIVEN NEXT SATURDAY

Plans for Party Complete—Good Music and Novel Refreshments Arranged

Plans have been completed for the sophomore hop to be given next Saturday at the Lincoln hotel. The ticket sale will begin in full swing today. Frank Patty, chairman of the committee, has arranged for an excellent party, this being the first dance of the year to be given by the class of '21.

Schembeck's orchestra has been engaged and very novel refreshments are being arranged. The price of admission will be two dollars, including war tax. The number of tickets for the party is being limited so as to allow plenty of room for dancing in the ball room.

The dance committee, which has charge of the ticket sales, follows: Frank Patty, chairman. John Gibbs, M. C. Henry Albrecht. Doris Hostetter. Eleanor Murray. Mildred Smith. Dorothy Doyle. R. M. Bailey.

CORNHUSKER PHOTOS MUST BE TAKEN BEFORE JAN. 15

The Cornhusker management again wishes to inform students that they must arrange for sittings at the Townsend studio, in order that they have their photographs published in the year book. It is absolutely necessary that they secure the pictures by the 15th of January, because after that time it will be impossible to get them ready in time for the annual.

Some have already had their pictures taken and it is hoped that others will follow suit. Much better service can be received if students will act quickly, and this will help to make the Cornhusker come out on time. The price for the pictures and cut is $3.00.

Campus Assumes Former Look With Return of Ex-Soldiers

With the return of numerous ex-soldiers and sailors to school, the university campus is more and more coming to look as it did before the war. The faces of many prominent students of last year and even the year before are cheering sights to the university students and faculty who have found it their pleasure to remain at the Nebraska school during the period of the war.

The first real call came to the university when the first officers' training camp was opened at Fort Snelling.

Many university men caught the significance of the summons and realizing that they were needed dropped everything and went to camp. So many of the men were in their senior year and so near the completion of their university course that provisions were made for graduation exercises at Fort Snelling for them. A few university

SEASON UNCORKED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Huskies and Balloonists to Mix in Opening Game of 1919 Basketball Campaign

Nebraskans Put in Quiet Day Saturday But Put Their Noses to the Stone Today

The Husker basket tossers spent a quiet day with the leather bubble Saturday. Dr. Stewart letting his boys off easy after the strain of preparing far the eastern jaunt which was to have started at Iowa City today, but was abandoned at the last moment. A few of the varsity regulars gathered at the gym for a light basket-shooting drill Saturday morning and some of the others limbered up in the afternoon, but there was no scrimmage or strenuous work.

Beginning today, however, they will get their noses down to the grindstone and polish up for the opening number of the season Wednesday evening with the Fort Omaha Balloon school quintet on the armory floor. The balloonists are coming for a four-day visit in the capital city, engaging the Huskers Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and taking on Paul Schiessler's Wesleyan Coyotes Thursday evening, at University Place.

The observers are sending a formidable quintet down for the engagements at Lincoln. Ted Faulk, from Washington university, who caused the Huskers so much trouble at Columbia, is on the team; Waters, an ex-Nebraska man, is another, and Adams, Hughes and Josephs are all former Omaha stars, playing on the high school quintet and figuring in city league athletics. Another was a member of the national champion team of Utah university two years ago.

Lieutenant Finley, Nebraska, '14, is the manager of athletics at the Omaha post and wants to show his former heroes up in the proper manner.

STUDENTS OF JOURNALISM SHOW INTEREST IN WORK

The newly organized class in news writing, which meets every week on Tuesday evening from 7:15 until 9:15, is progressing nicely. This course is pursued under the title of rhetoric 43, and the new instructor is James Lawrence, city editor of the Lincoln Daily Star, who is taking the place of Professor Fogg. The enrollment has been greatly increased and much enthusiasm is being shown by the students. Much practical work will be done the rest of the year, including first-hand press work, and real newspaper rules will be observed.

Campus Assumes Former Look With Return of Ex-Soldiers

faculty members journeyed to the camp to give their students diplomas, so that they might show the students that the university was willing to make allowances for the war time interferences.

Soon after, the call was sounded for men to assist on the farms in the places of numerous men who had left for war. Again, the university men were willing to neglect their studies in order that they might best assist in a successful prosecution of the war. Many of the men heard the real war call during the summer months and departed for camps before school was again opened.

Last year, the men gradually left in small groups summoned by draft calls or by calls to O. T. C. Several chose the naval or marine branches of the service and went away to fight under the same glorious flag. By the time school had closed last spring, the
