AMES WON'T PLAY IN NEBRASKA GYM

Iowa Aggies Refuse to Shoot Baskets in Cornhuskers' Little Brick Barn

Stewart to Cancel Games With Farmers—Grinnell Asks Place on Schedule

Nebraska's little once by double gymnasium has again appeared as a snag in Doc Stewart's efforts to build up a strong schedule for his basket poppers this season. The athletic coach at Ames refuses to bring his quintet to Lincoln and play on the old armory floor. Therein lies the snag. Doc Stewart will not play at Ames if the Iowa Aggies will not play at Lincoln. Rather than put his boys against the Aggies in two games on a foreign floor and not give them the same chance of two games on the home floor, the Nebraska director is going to cancel the two games scheduled with Ames and steer clear of the Iowa twop all season.

The two said games appear on the Cornhuskers' itinerary through Iowa territory next week for January 23 and 24, but an offer from Coach H. J. Huff at Grinnell proposing to entertain the Husker five on his floor January 24 and 25, which was received at Director Stewart's office yesterday, opens up a way to take the jaunt and thunder through the Ames burg without stopping.

History to Ames Controversy

The Ames controversy dates back several years. Two years ago, Nebraska played on the Iowa floor and was beaten two times and the Aggies stood on a pretty good chance of coping the pennant. However, when they entered the Nebraska gym they won the first battle but lost the last one 25 to 21. They evidently accused the size of the Nebraska gymnasium of bringing about their defeat, for the following year they refused to play on the armory boards and the two schools failed to get together all season.

Pennant Grabbing Harder

Doc Stewart is sorry that the cancellation was made necessary for it makes Nebraska's job of capturing the pennant much harder. As is the custom in valley circles, the northern teams, Nebraska, Drake, Ames and Grinnell, play four games with each other teams and the southern schools, Kansas, Missouri and Kansas Aggies, also play four game apiece with each other. The northern and southern schools then exchange only two en-

GIRLS AT OHIO STATE

UNI DO RELIEF WORK

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 7.—An opportunity for service in the field of reconstruction is now open to the girls of the Ohio state university. Garments are being sent by the Belgian relief committee to the home economics department. These garments are to be mended and sent overseas to the people of devastated France and Belgium. For this reason, the work is just as important at this time as ever before.

agements and the championship is awarded on the percentage basis.

With four games with Ames wiped off the slate, the Cornhuskers must play a majority of their battles with the stronger southern schools and therefore must be considerably stronger than if they could pile up a high percentage against the northern aggregations before meeting the southerners.

Grinnell Beat Nebraska

Grinnell university, which is asking the Huskers to stop at Grinnell, Iowa, January 24 and 25, was the team that put a crimp in Nebraska's record three years ago. The Cornhuskers made an eight-game swing into Iowa and came back with seven scalps at their belts but dropped the other at Grinnell.

The dates on next week's trip will have to be interchanged a little to accommodate Grinnell, but the management is not looking for any trouble from Drake, who has Saturday, January 25, chalked up for the Cornhuskers.

R. W. WHITHAM CHOSEN PRE-MEDIC PRESIDENT

R. W. Whitham, was elected president of the pre-medic society for the coming semester at the first important meeting of the organization this year, held in Bessey hall Wednesday afternoon. Other officers chosen were: Vester Vincent, vice-president; Roy Swanson, secretary; and Allard Folsom, secretary.

During the present semester, the society has been without any organization, because of conditions caused by the war situation. Many of the pre-medics entered infantry officers' training camps, giving up their professional study, and consequently, the ranks of the medics have been noticeably depleted. Since the demobilization of the S. A. T. C., however, prospects for the society are considerably improved, and a successful semester under the new president is assured.

YEAR BOOK HONORS NEBRASKA HEROES

Military Section Big Feature of 1919 Annual—To Be Completed First

Stories of Notable Deeds of Men in Service—Picture to Be Used

The Cornhusker annual for 1919 will pay special tribute to the Nebraska men who have made great sacrifices to serve their country. The staff is planning to put the military section first in the book. This will be one of the largest and most important divisions of the annual.

A special system is now being organized by means of which individual sections will be given to those men who have been decorated or cited for bravery; those who have been wounded and those who have made the supreme sacrifice.

There will be pictures of as many of these men as possible and short, interesting sketches of the university life and service records of each one will be printed. Wherever any details of the manner in which they were wounded or killed, the battles in which it occurred and the reasons for decoration or citation for bravery can be secured, they will be given also.

Actual Reports of Incidents

These stories will be actual reports as received by the relatives and friends of our soldiers and, in many instances, the accounts of the men themselves. They will have an unusual interest for those who knew these men personally, and will bring the scenes of the battle field more vividly to mind than could the reports of others.

The Cornhusker staff will greatly appreciate any help in this work that students or friends are able to give. Anyone who can supply photographs or information regarding any men whose names and pictures should be in this section will be doing their bit toward making the annual one of the most complete and interesting that has been published for many years.

"Psyche and Cupid" at Latin Club—The Latin club met Tuesday night at the home of Zora Schaupp for a business session. The following program on the study of Psyche and Cupid was given:

When you form an opinion on a certain subject, commit to memory all your reasons for doing so. If you change, you want to have the date, and why you changed.

This is the time of the year when the man of the house expects to be surprised "good and plenty" and isn't feeling any too good over the prospects.—Chicago Daily News.

UNIVERSITY NIGHT PLANS DISCUSSED BY COMMITTEE

Tentative arrangements for university night were made at a short meeting of the committee Wednesday afternoon. While it was not possible at this time to decide upon definite plans, each member of the committee was given certain assignments to investigate and reports are to be given at the next meeting.

February first is the date set for all skits to be in, and organizations are requested to take notice, and complete work on their several playlets at the earliest moment. Not more than seven or eight will be presented and only the best efforts will be selected by the committee for presentation.

ART EXHIBIT IN OMAHA

Thirteenth Annual Display at Fontenelle Hotel Includes Sixty Excellent Canvasses

The Omaha Society of Fine Arts is holding its thirteenth annual exhibition at the Fontenelle hotel. A collection of sixty very important canvasses includes the work of such well known living artists as Frank Benson, Emil Carlson, Charles Davis, Paul Dougherty, Frederick Fricseke, Daniel Garber, Childe Hassam, Garie Melchers, Richard Miller, Charles Woodbury. The work of earlier masters, notably George Inness and Joseph Israels is exhibited also.

This is distinctly the best exhibition ever held in Omaha, and all students who can go to Omaha before next Wednesday, when the exhibition closes, should arrange to do so.

FORESTRY BOOK GAINS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

A book entitled "Our National Forests," written by Dr. R. H. Boerker, a Nebraska alumnus, has just come into prominence. It deals with the organization and work of the United States forest service, the extent and character of the timber lands of the reserve and the general problems to be

DEBATING MEET IS PLANNED BY REED

Preparations for Annual Spring Tournament of State High Schools Begun

Subject This Year Regards Government Operation of Railroads After the War

The High School Debating league is preparing for its annual spring tournament. Abstracts of material are now being sent out from the office of A. A. Reed, director of university extension, and the list of district directors will be announced soon. The question to be debated this year is, "Resolved. That the government should own and operate the railroads after the war."

The district debates begin in March and will be completed within a period of about six weeks. The debaters winning the district contests will participate in the state contest held at the time of the state field meet in the latter part of May.

Twelve Districts

The state is divided into ten or twelve districts, depending on the number of schools registered in the league each year, each district in charge of a district director. Each school winning a district championship is awarded a banner, and each member of the winning team a league certificate of honor. The school winning the state championship is awarded a banner or cup, varying from time to time. A permanent roll of honor is kept each year and state and district champions.

This is the twelfth year of the work of the High School Debating league, which is one of the features of the university extension work. The highest membership in its history was during the year, 1916-1917, when ninety-seven high schools were enrolled. Professor M. M. Fogg, who has had charge of the league in previous years, has published a bulletin annually giving the entire year's history of the league. Last year he was unable to do this because of his work as state director of four-minute men. This year, however, a bulletin will be published covering the work of both this year and last.

"Cornhusker Forever", Slogan Of "N" Club Drive For New Songs and Yells

"Balk-Chalk-Jayhawk," will ring forever in the ears of the American college students whenever the name of Kansas is mentioned. But that's not all—Nebraska is going to have a new song and a few yell that will gain its place in the halls of fame if the Cornhusker athletes have anything to say about it.

The "N" club at its last meeting decided that Nebraska was in need of some new songs and some new yells. A committee consisting of William Mackey, chairman, Arthur Yort and Edward Lanphere has been appointed to conduct a campaign with the aim of getting some brand new "thrillers."

In other words the athletes decided that they wanted something new to reuse their spirits on the gridiron, the gym floor and the track. They are the ones that should know about things of this sort for it is they whom the yelling and the singing is supposed to enthuse.

The athletic department and the "N" club have decided to grant a life pass for all athletic events to the person submitting the best song or the best yell. These offerings are to be put on before the "N" club and judged by them.

All this means that the athletes have felt that the man or woman who can write the best yell or the best song is entitled to the same honor and privilege as the themselves earn by months of hard training. They are persuaded that this is as great a service to the school as the hard work that they do to bring fame to Nebraska and so they are giving the winner a life pass.

There is no doubt that the Cornhuskers are in need of a new song as well as a new yell. The old "Cornhusker" is being worn out because it lacks the melody and the charm that a college song should possess. It is a song that will probably not be forgotten by Nebraskans who know it but others are not so astounded by its melody that they are compelled to stand agape with admiration as many Husker freshmen do upon hearing the Kansas hymn for the first time.

What we want is a hymn that will thrill us as the "Star Spangled Ban-
