THE STUDENT COUNCIL

On the twenty-fifth day of May, 1917, the students of the University of Nebraska adopted the proposed plan for a Student Council, by a vote of 216 to 17. The verdict of the students was practically unanimous in favor of the Council. In adopting the student council idea, Nebraska followed the lead of many other large universities and colleges in the country. The movement is democratic in nature, and places within the power of the student body, the right to control all matters relating to student life that may be referred to it, and such other matters as may be initiated by it. The purpose of the body is summed up in the following extract from the Student Council Constitution:

"The purpose of this organization shall be the relating of all extra-curricula activities to one another and to the University as a whole; the creation of such other expressions of student life as shall supplement those already established; the direction of such other matters of student interest as shall be initiated by or referred to the Student Council. The council shall also act as a student court to investigate and make recommendations in such cases of minor discipline as shall be referred to it by the executive dean and the dean of women."

Because of unsettled conditions brought about by the war last year, it was decided to lay the Council aside until student life returned to normal. President conditions seem to indicate that the plan will be put into operation sometime before the end of this semester; this is the members of the Council for next year will be elected before the close of the school year.

As the Constitution now stands, no definite time is designated for the election of the members of the Student Council. For this reason it has been thought best to make a change regarding this point, and to choose a definite date on which the Student Council election will be regularly held. The second Tuesday in May has been suggested by responsible students, as a possible date for the election. This date comes near the end of the college year, thus giving the student body the entire year in which to make their choice of members for the Council.

The question of making this change in the Constitution will be submitted to the student body at the polls tomorrow. If the change is not made the whole future of the Council for this year will be indefinite. Perhaps no definite date will be set. Anybody's job is nobody's job. Students, then, who are desirous of definitely fixing the date of the Student Council election will vote for the change in the Constitution. Remember that the Student Council plan renders the student body all-powerful in matters directly touching upon student affairs, and that the sooner students come into their rights, the more enthusiastic will be the interest shown in student affairs, and the more unified will be the college spirit.

HUSKERS STRIDE TOWARD VICTORY

 through the net. Reynolds, Gillilan, Bailey and Neumann came in for their share of the honors.

Gym Is Packed

The Nebraska gym did not look like itself on a Saturday night for every seat was occupied and the spectators were packed against the end wall in the balcony, which all goes to show that Cornhuskers are not dead when a real thriller is on the card. The yelling and spontaneous cheering was the most gratifying noise that the boys had heard for years and it undoubtedly factored materially in the victories.

Referee, Jones, Grinnell.

The Missouri Tigers lost their first conference game this season to the Huskers Friday evening on the Armory floor, the final count being 21 to 14. The loss of the preliminary game with Nebraska pulled them from the lead and the Huskers moved into the vacant throne. Nebraska started the scoring and was never headed.

Once again the old armory was packed, and trembled to the echoes of old number one. The Huskers took up the spirit with the first blast of Referee Jones' whistle and rushed the ball immediately into Tiger territory. Inside of two minutes Shelly had dropped a couple through and Jack quickly followed with another. The Huskers simply rushed them off their feet, and guarded so closely that the Tiger forwards couldn't get within range. Reynolds stuck to Captain Ruby like an octopus and turn and twist as the Tiger forward would, good old Reynolds or Bailey were between him and the basket. Only toward the end of the half did he manage to sneak one in. At the end of the first six minutes the score stood 10 to 7. Both teams then tightened and fought like demons. Shelly played the best and fastest game of his life. He seemed to be in every play, blocking like a fiend and locating the basket. A goal from the scarlet and cream center followed by a pretty Jacksonian toss brought the count to 14 and 7. Shelly soon shot another and the half ended 16 to 8 for Nebraska.

The Tigers struggled desperately at the opening of the second half to get into their stride and head the Huskers. The first 10 minutes of this period the spectators were treated to as close and fierce a fight as was ever staged in the old gym. The fighting guards on both ends of the floor fought the enemy from the danger zone and muzzed up all attempts at the netted ring. Shelly was by all odds playing the hardest of any warrior in the arena and he was warned by the score-keeper that three personals were checked again him. Four minutes had passed and no score. Jackson managed to get within passing range several times, but Schroeder was always so close that they all went wild. The Tiger guard fought Jack so close and hard that a personal on the Missourian let Gilly slip in the first counter of the half. The Huskers battled determinedly to maintain their lead. Bailey and Reynolds formed a wall of stone through which the star Tiger count grabbers, Rubby and Scott, absolutely failed to penetrate. The lanky Vogt finally bagged one and at the end of the first ten minutes only three counts had been chalked up.

The score shows the fierce nature of the contest. Shelly and Reynolds committed one personal each during this period, while Bailey was guilty of two. Newman replaced Bailey at this point and Browning went in for Scott. "Dick" seemed to inject some concentrated high explosive pep into the Cornhusker cylinders for with a flash the bounding sphere passed from "Djck" to Gilly to Jack and the resounding roar testified to a bull's eye. Starting on high, Jack sped down for another, but just as the ball flew from his fingers Referee Jones' eye was damaged suddenly and a desperate blast from his whistle robbed the Huskers of a counter. The score stood 19 to 11 with six minutes to go. The Tiger seemed to feel his hold on the throne to slip and leaped savagely to catch up with and overtake the red and white warriors. He gathered strength and momentum but the fighting Cornhusker center broke away for his fourth goal of the evening. Four minutes remained. Missouri attempts desperately to get the ball into her territory. Captain Ruby succeeds in eluding Reynolds for his only counter during the game. Two minutes left. Browning drops in a free throw and the game is over, 21 to 14. The Tigers have lost their first game of the season and dropped into third place.

To fighting Shelly belongs the laurels of the game. His four floor goals placed him at the top of the scoring columns while the way he stuck to Vogt held the star Tiger to two counters. The guarding of Reynolds, Bailey and Neumann needs no comment. The tabulated data shows that the two Missouri forwards bagged only one floor goal between them. Schroeder and Coffey guarded a close game, but Jackson and Gillilan slipped through with five floor goals.

Nebraska clearly outplayed the erstwhile leaders. Dr. Stewart's men early jumped into the lead and maintained it in spite of the most desperate attempts on the part of Coach Miller's gaffesters. The Tigers met their match and the game may prove their Waterloo.
